Proposal Made to Utilize City Home for Aged Folk

Law Change Might Bring More Cash

Supervisor Points Out Possibility Under New Provisions of Welfare Statute

A proposal to renovate and put into use the former Kingston City Home on Clifton avenue was presented to the board of supervisors at a special meeting Wednesday evening.

The proposed plan is to renovate the building if it can be done at a reasonable cost and use it for old folk who are now being cared for in numerous nursing homes in various parts of the county welfare system.

Supervisor Kenneth Wilson of Woodstock, who offered the proposal that the matter be referred to the Committee on Public Welfare for study, stated that he was prompted to bring this matter up because of the change in the state law regarding reimbursement to counties for welfare charges.

Under the old law welfare folks in nursing homes came under the 80% reimbursement provision of the law, the state and federal funds sharing that on a 40-40% basis and the county paying 20%. Under the old law there was no reimbursement to the county for persons housed in the County Home at New Paltz or for children in foster homes, that charge being a direct charge on the county and towns.

Provides Reimbursement

The new law provides for a 50% reimbursement by the state in those categories which formerly were not reimbursable and provides for a 50% reimbursement to nursing home charges. Wilson said that under the new law the county would benefit to the extent of an additional $78,439.

He pointed out that facilities at the New Paltz Home would have to be enlarged shortly to care for the growing need and cited figures to indicate that the aged in the county who needed care was constantly growing due to increasing longevity.

Some time ago a proposal was presented to revamp the former City Home, which has been vacant since the city and county welfare departments were combined, but after a study the plan was not advanced because of the cost and the fact that the county would receive no reimbursement for folks housed in the county home.

The change in the law which permits reimbursement by the state up to 50 per cent, Wilson said, now makes the plan possible. He also pointed out that under the old law the reimbursement for patients in the tuberculosis hospital had been limited to $2.50 per day while under the new law that is raised to $5 per day.

Says Formula Advantageous

The new formula for welfare reimbursent by the state, Wilson said, was advantageous to the county and the towns since many former non-reimbursable charges now came under the 50 per cent reimbursement provision. While the former 80 per cent reimbursement is cut down to 50 per cent under the new law, more categories are included and Wilson said the county stood to benefit by over $78,000.

Supervisor McHugh of Shawangunk said the opening of the old City Home would "relieve the pressure on the County Home at New Paltz." Nothing had been done before due to the cost but he now advocated taking patients out of some of the nursing homes where in some instances as many as "7 or 8 are crowded into a single room." The County Home at New Paltz is too small to accommodate the load and he also said many folks whose families were from the Kingston area could be brought to the Kingston home where they would be nearer relatives.

The motion to have the Welfare Committee investigate the cost of renovation of the City Home was unanimously approved.

A communication was received and referred to the committee on Commissioner of Public Health relative to the recent condemning of the stand-by boiler at the Tuberculosis Hospital, it was estimated cost of replacement will be $14,500.

The Conservation Department sent a communication calling attention of the board to the expiration of the terms of William Cruickshank and William Tacorchik as members of the Ulster County Forest Practice Board. Filed.

Accident in Which Short Was Injured

Albert Short, 58, of 39 Van Deusen street was seriously injured Wednesday when the truck he was driving was in collision with a tractor trailer on Route 209 about five miles southwest of Kingston. His condition was reported as "critical" at Kingston Hospital this morning. According to a report filed with state police, Short's injuries included a ruptured spleen, crushed left leg, shock, and a lacerated left eye. Troopers R. I. Ryan and H. S. Rhodes reported that Short was driving a truck owned by Joseph Genco, a Kingston service station operator, and was in head-on collision with a tractor trailer owned by Volk's Express of Nyack and driven by Clifford Shannon, 45, of 4 South Mill street, Nyack. Shannon was not reported injured and no arrest has been made. (Freeman photo)

President Calls Upon Russia To Practice Peace and Disarm

Eisenhower Would Invest Savings by Battling 'Brute Forces of Poverty' Around Globe —Sees Atomic War as Alternative

Washington, April 16 (AP)—President Eisenhower challenged Russia's new leaders today to practice the peace they preach by agreeing to end the cold war, disarm the world and invest the savings in a global fund to war on "the brute forces of poverty and need."

The alternative, he said, is at worst atomic war and at best unending fear which finds "humanity hanging from a cross of iron."

"Is there no other way the world may live"? Eisenhower asked.

"What is the Soviet Union ready to do?

"The United States is ready to assume its just part."

The Eisenhower plan—sure to create a sensation at this stage of east-west relations — was laid down in the President's first full dress speech on foreign policy since he took office in January. It was delivered before the American Society of Newspaper Editors and broadcast by all radio and television national hookups.

Would Agree to Work

The President said that if Russia is willing to take the preliminary steps—including independence for the east European satellites—this country would agree to work toward a world disarmament plan which would ban atomic weapons.

An "era ended with the death of Joseph Stalin," he declared, and the new leadership in Moscow like the rest of the world has opportunity "to turn the black tide of events."

The U. S., he went on, is determined to try to "seize this chance" and if it fails the world "need be divided no longer in its clear knowledge of who has condemned mankind to this fate."

Eisenhower Outline of Plans Asked

Senator Flanders Favors Telling Reds Ahead of Time, Another for Soviet Talks

Washington, April 16 (AP)—Sen. Flanders (R-Vt.) advocated today that President Eisenhower "grab the initiative" from the Communists "by telling all parties concerned truce terms that would be acceptable in Korea."

Sen. Humphrey (D.-Minn.) called for broad cold war peace talks with Russia.

And, in the wake of disclosure that the U. S. has instructed Gen. Mark Clark what to tell the Reds about a resumption of truce talks, Democratic senators protested against what they called failure to guard against Communist trickery in the exchange of prisoners of war.

Officials did not disclose what instructions had been sent to Clark, United Nations commander in the Far East. It was assumed, however, that Clark was authorized to accept the Red proposal for resuming truce negotiations.

No Immediate Word

There was no immediate word as to when he might suggest the talks be reopened or what conditions he would lay down.

Flanders' suggestion that Eisenhower should define the terms of an acceptable truce came shortly before the President was due to deliver a major address on foreign policy to the American Society of Newspaper Editors (1 p. m.).

Flanders suggested that the President should first consult with congressional leaders on exactly what "the United Nations—and that means the United States—would accept as truce terms in Korea."

"After they have agreed on this, the President then should tell Congress and the world publicly what he wants," Flanders said.

Flanders said he has no information on what truce terms would be acceptable to the President and the UN.

His own ideas for an end to the Korean War call for (1) withdrawal of Chinese Communists from Korea and establishment of a neutral zone about 40 miles deep along the Yalu river; (2) enforcement of this neutral border by a commission of Asians; (3) rehabilitation of Korea; (4) holding of free elections for all of Korea after the period of rebuilding.

"I think some proposal along these lines would cover all of our pledges from a moral standpoint," the Senator said. "It would protect the people rather than the powers in Korea."

Must Maintain Defenses

Sen. Humphrey, a foreign relations committee member, declared this country "must maintain its defenses, bolster the North Atlantic Treaty and be on guard against Communist trickery and skullduggery."

He said the time has come to carry negotiations to the Russians on a global basis.

"The war in Korea will not be stopped in Korea," Humphrey said. "It will be stopped in Moscow."

The protests over reported Red trickery in the exchange of sick war prisoners grew out of reports that scores of Communist supply trucks moved openly toward the Korean front under the apparent immunity granted motor convoys carrying Allied prisoners toward Panmumjom.

"This looks like serious business and illustrates the point made by many of us when this proposal to exchange sick POWS came up that every caution should be taken to insure we were not being trapped," Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.) told an interviewer.

Sparkman, like Humphrey a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, said that "while I do not know the details of the agreement under which the exchange was undertaken, I can not understand why we did not insure against such a happening as now seems to be taking place.

Pro-Peronists Hit Opposition Centers Following Blasts

Six Persons Die, 92 Hurt in Two Explosions —Jockey Club Is Burned

Buenos Aires, Argentina, April 16 (AP)—Rioting pro-Peron mobs stormed unrestrained through the Argentine capital last night and early today, burning and sacking opposition centers in a violent aftermath to a bombing at a rally addressed by President Juan D. Peron.

The government announced that six persons were killed and 92 injured in the two bomb explosions that stampeded the crowd gathered yesterday in the city's central Plaza De Mayo. Peron was not hurt.

Headquarters of all Argentine opposition parties — except the Communists—went up in flames before the raging mobs that chanted "Viva Peron" as they looted and burned. The fashionable Jockey Club, center of Argentine high society, was also put to the torch.

Scores of persons suffered minor injuries during the rioting but no serious casualties were reported.

Herkimer Man Arrested

The government announced that a North American citizen was among several persons arrested for questioning in connection with the bombing. It identified him as Esteban Jacyna, of Herkimer, N. Y., an elephant and monkey trainer with a touring circus.

In addition to destroying the Jockey Club, the rioters fired the headquarters of the Radical, Socialist and Democratic-Conservative parties and wrecked restaurants and bars before some semblance of quiet was restored to the center of the city.

Violence and looting continued early today, however, in nearby residential areas.

Police made little effort to stem the mobs' fury. They halted motor traffic in the streets before the burning buildings but no organized effort was made to stop the sacking or put out the fires. A

Slowpoke Drivers Will Be Breaking Law After July 1

Those Who Mope Along in 50 Mile Zones Are Cited as Endangering Motorists

Albany, April 16 (AP)—Slowpoke drivers—who creep along the open highway and cause traffic jams—will be lawbreakers after July 1.

Gov. Dewey signed a bill today making it a traffic offense to drive unreasonably slowly.

The measure was recommended by the Joint Legislative Committee on motor vehicle problems and introduced by Republican Sen. Seymour Halpern of Queens, chairman of the committee.

The committee said "drivers who crawl along at 15 miles an hour" in 50-mile zones blocked traffic and caused many fatal accidents.

Dewey also signed traffic bills that:

Prohibit drivers from switching lanes except when it can be done safely.

No More Coasting

Prohibit drivers from coasting down hills in neutral and forbid truck drivers to let out their clutches while going down hills.

Prohibit U-turns on curves where the visibility is less than 500 feet.

Clarify the right-of-way rules at intersections, so that the driver on the left yields to any driver approaching from an opposite direction close enough to constitute a danger.

Dewey also approved a bill extending the state's anti-subversive Feinberg law to cover public school employes in colleges and universities owned and operated by the state or any of its localities.

The Feinberg law directed the Board of Regents to draw a list of organizations it considers subversive and ban members of such groups from jobs in the public school system.

The Regents are holding public hearings in New York city, preparatory to publishing the list. Enforcement of the law, which was enacted in 1949, had been delayed by a lengthy court challenge

Brooklyn Man, 47, Killed, His Niece Hurt Near Catskill

Philip Haines, about 47, of 259 Rutland road, Brooklyn was instantly killed about 4:30 a. m. today when his automobile crashed into a tree along Route 32 a quarter mile north of the Catskill Game Farm in Greene county, state police reported.

Dr. Mahlon H. Atkinson, Greene county coroner, has issued a verdict of accidental death.

Haines' niece, Beverly Kornell, 14, of Haines Falls, who was riding in the car, was taken to Greene County Memorial Hospital for treatment of a fractured left arm and other possible injuries, troopers said. Here condition was reported as 'fair."

Cpl. F. K. Knight and Trooper L. J. Addis of the Catskill state police barracks investigated. Haines' body was taken to the Millspaugh Funeral Home pending funeral arrangements.

County Curfew Is Urged for Youths

Speakers Ask Supervisors to Impose Law to Cut Delinquency

Thomas J. Murphy, president of the Ulster County Grand Jurors Association, and Mrs. Angelica M. McClure of Saugerties appeared and spoke before the board of supervisors Wednesday evening advocating a county-wide curfew which would take young boys and girls off the streets and highways at a reasonable hour evenings.

The matter was presented as a recommendation by the grand jury last August to the County Court and has the support of County Judge John M. Cashin and District Attorney Howard C. St. John, Murphy said.

Designed to keep the young people off the highways and curtail juvenile delinquency, Murphy asked the supervisors to go back to their town boards and seek passage of a town law which would fix the curfew hour. Enforcement of the local ordinance could be attended to by state police and other enforcement officers, he said.

Cites Kingston Law

He cited the curfew law in Kingston and said enforcement of a similar law in the county could prevent much of the present juvenile delinquency and petty thievery which is going on.

Before every grand jury there came many cases of youthful offense, usually of a petty nature but often involving older boys who used the young lads of 7 to 15 years of age as means of entering places. Mrs. McClure also cited the same situation and said she had originally presented the grand jury recommendation last August. In her opinion a curfew law, properly enforced, would force these young people off the highways and into their homes where they would be under guidance of parents.

Supervisor Gaffney asked whether the state police had power to enforce a local ordinance. Murphy said they had such power.

Blames Parents

Supervisor Williams of Saugerties said much of the difficulty of youthful offenses was caused by the communities lacking proper recreation facilities. There is nothing for the youths to do under proper supervision and they

Croton Man Asks $7,349,569 For Thruway to Whiteport

A. E. Ottaviano Inc., of Croton-on-the-Hudson, was low bidder on the Kingston-Whiteport section of the New York State Thurway at Albany today.

The bid was $7,349,569 and the state estimate for the section was $8,903,000.

John Arborio Inc., of Poughkeepsie, who is now building the strip between Route 28 and Sawkill, was second lowest at $7,463,000, and S. J. Groves was third lowest at $7,944,000.

The contract calls for construction of 7.61 miles of thruway and 1.66 miles of access roads, plus the building of the traffic interchange at the Onteora Trail (Route 28) near Kingston, the spaning of the O & W railroad, mountain branch of the N. Y. Central, Esopus creek, and Route 209 (Hurley avenue.)

A part of Lucas avenue extension will be relocated near the four corners and the road there will go over the express highway. A section of the Esopus creek bed, where it runs near Route 28, will be relocated and grade separations will be built where the route crosses small roads and the Wallkill Valley Railroad in the Whiteport area.

A. R. Erskine, thruway engineer, said today that plans are not yet ready for the advertising of bids on the Whiteport-Ohioville section, but bids will be opened in Albany May 7 on the Newburgh-Ohioville section.

Berserk Tinsmith Kills Seven of Family, Self; Victims of Madness May Total Nine

Lawrence, Mass., April 16 (AP)—A mad tinsmith butchered and shot to death seven and possibly eight members of his family and then killed himself yesterday in a seven-hour slaughter.

The death spree of kill-crazy Peter Akulonis, 39, came to an end last night when he took his own life as police closed in on him outside his home in neighboring Methuen.

Victims of the axe-wielding, guntoting Akulonis were:

His widowed mother, Mrs. Mary Akulonis, 72.

His wife, Madeline, 32.

His son, Michael, 5.

His brother, Raymond, 37.

Another brother, Alphonse, 32.

His nephew, James, 5, son of Alphonse.

Another nephew, Paul, 2, also the son of Alphonse.

A second son, Peter Jr., 9, was missing and feared to be another hacked or shot to death by the beserk father.

Police said Akulonis apparently planned the wholesale murders. They said his suicide may have saved the lives of several other relatives living nearby.

Veteran police officials said the killings were the worst in New England within memory.

Three blood-stained notes were found in the killer's pockets.

"Damn all the rats," one said. "Thanks to the tin gods," said another.

The full contents of the letters were withheld pending a complete investigation.

Akulonis used a carpenter's axe to kill his wife, son, mother, Alphonse, and his two nephews. He killed his brother Raymond with a blast from a .22 calibre rifle before turning the gun on himself.

The bodies of his mother, Alphonse and the latter's two sons victim. Akulonis took the boy out of school early in the afternoon. Police believe young Peter was were found by Alphonse's wife, Clair, 30, when she returned from work in mid-afternoon to her Lawrence tenement apartment.

She ran from the house screaming:

"My family is dead. My whole family is dead."

The four had been hacked to death. All had been struck with axe blows which penetrated the skulls.

The bodies of the killer's wife and son Michael—butchered in the same fashion as the other four victims—were found later in their Methuen home three miles away.

In front of the house, Peter shot his brother Raymond and then fired a bullet into himself when police approached as the brothers

UN Will Tell Reds Parley Position

Supervisors Reject 2-Way Radio Plan

Vote 19 to 8 Against Funds for County Volunteer Installation

By a vote of 19 to 8 the Ulster county board of supervisors last evening turned down the proposal to make funds available for the installation of a two-way radio system for volunteer firemen of the county.

The resolution, offered by Supervisor Percy Bush of the town of Ulster, would have given approval to the plan and placed a limit of $53,000 on the cost.

Voting for Resolution

Those who voted for the resolution were Supervisors Bush of Ulster, Eckert of Esopus, Gaffney of Lloyd, Coy of Plattekill, McHugh of Shawangunk, Relyea of Hurley and Lindhurst of the third ward and Albrecht of the seventh ward. Supervisor Craft of Wawarsing did not vote and explained his reason. He said he had received a communication on the matter from one fire company in his district but other communications from the other companies had not been received and he did not feel qualified to vote at this time without having knowledge as to the wishes of the other companies.

The two-way radio system, which would have permitted communication between fire equipment at a fire or on the road and their home station, and would also have provided a method of sounding an alarm from a central station located in Kingston, has been under discussion for a long time.

Prior to the motion of Supervisor Bush for approval of the system, Supervisor Relyea had reported that Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk had expressed a willingness to have the system operated from the Central fire station here by using existing personnel, but he had not gone along with the city standing the cost of equipment necessary to the operation of the system.

Cost Is Big Factor

The discussion on two-way radio came just before adjournment and revolved around the cost of the original equipment and the yearly maintenance cost.

Supervisor Wilson of Woodstock had previously referred to the new state plan for reimbursement of counties for welfare and had offered a resolution that the Committee on County Welfare Commissioner make a study and report on the cost of renovation of the former City Home and using it for the care of welfare patients who are now cared for in nursing homes. He held this was a prior requisite over two-way radio.

"It has been stated the two-way radio system may save a life, but operation of the City Home for welfare patients can save many lives," said Wilson. He later re-

Expect Command to Say 'Yes' to Resumption of Talks

Munsan, Korea, April 16 (AP)—The UN command will tell the Communists tomorrow whether it is ready to resume the long-stalled Korean armistice negotiations—and it is expected to say "yes."

The UN late tonight asked for a meeting to deliver a letter answering repeated Red requests to get the talks under way again. Negotiations were indefinitely suspended by the UN last Oct. 8.

The request came only a few hours after the first group of allied sick and wounded from North Korean stockades arrived at Kaesong—just six miles from freedom.

Communist staff officers said

Allied Pilots Are Helpless as Trucks Transport War Goods Down Corridor

Seoul, April 16 (AP)—U. S. Sabre jets shot down two Red MIGs and damaged three today while fighter-bombers slashed at Communist frontline positions and blasted communications in North Korea.

But allied pilots watched helplessly as hundreds of Communist supply trucks rolled toward the front down an attack-free corridor.

For the second day allied reconnaissance pilots reported trucks moving almost bumper to bumper on North Korean roads down which the Reds are sending sick and wounded UN soldiers for exchange at Panmonjom.

On the ground front Chinese Communists struck twice in central Korea but both attacks were thrown back.

Conerty Is Acquitted Of Drunken Driving

A city court jury yesterday returned a verdict of not guilty following trial of Edwin H. Conerty, 27, of 276 Main street, on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Conerty was arrested April 2 by Officers William Norton and John Crespino after the car he was driving allegedly struck another, parked at the curb near 116 Pearl street.

The trial opened before City Judge Raymond J. Mino yesterday morning. The jury went out shortly after 2 p. m., and returned the verdict after deliberating about 50 minutes.

Attorney Charles H. Gaffney appeared for the defendant and John Larkin represented the district attorney's office.

Sack, Sad and Bewildered, Tells of Being Held Prisoner

Seoul, April 16 (AP) — A Pacific Stars and Stripes reporter who rode from Cheju Island to Pusan on a ship carrying 770 disabled Chinese prisoners was taken into "protective custody" by military police as he walked down the gangplank Wednesday.

The reporter, Pfc. John Sack, 23, of 44 Mayhew avenue, Larchmont, N. Y., said MPs held him incommunicado in their office near the Pusan docks for six hours.

Upon his release, he was told he had violated prisoner of war command regulations which prohibit correspondents from traveling with prisoners.

"The thing is still not cleared up," he said. "* * * I still don't know whether they are going to make any charges. They asked me to stay around Pusan. I am a little befuddled by the whole thing."

Sack in Pusan told the Associated Press in Seoul in a telephone conversation that he had not realized he was doing wrong when he boarded the U. S. navy LST at Cheju Tuesday.

"The POW command officers at Cheju suggested I go on the boat," Sack said. "They said they

The committee said "drivers who crawl along at 15 miles an hour" in 50-mile zones blocked traffic and caused many fatal accidents.

Dewey also signed traffic bills that:

Prohibit drivers from switching lanes except when it can be done safely.

No More Coasting

Prohibit drivers from coasting down hills in neutral and forbid truck drivers to let out their clutches while going down hills.

Prohibit U-turns on curves where the visibility is less than 500 feet.

Clarify the right-of-way rules at intersections, so that the driver on the left yields to any driver approaching from an opposite direction close enough to constitute a danger.

Dewey also approved a bill extending the state's anti-subversive Feinberg law to cover public school employes in colleges and universities owned and operated by the state or any of its localities.

The Feinberg law directed the Board of Regents to draw a list of organizations it considers subversive and ban members of such groups from jobs in the public school system.

The Regents are holding public hearings in New York city, preparatory to publishing the list. Enforcement of the law, which was enacted in 1949, had been delayed by a lengthy court challenge

Brooklyn Man, 47, Killed, His Niece Hurt Near Catskill

Philip Haines, about 47, of 259 Rutland road, Brooklyn was instantly killed about 4:30 a. m. today when his automobile crashed into a tree along Route 32 a quarter mile north of the Catskill Game Farm in Greene county, state police reported.

Dr. Mahlon H. Atkinson, Greene county coroner, has issued a verdict of accidental death.

Haines' niece, Beverly Kornell, 14, of Haines Falls, who was riding in the car, was taken to Greene County Memorial Hospital for treatment of a fractured left arm and other possible injuries, troopers said. Here condition was reported as 'fair."

Cpl. F. K. Knight and Trooper L. J. Addis of the Catskill state police barracks investigated. Haines' body was taken to the Millspaugh Funeral Home pending funeral arrangements.

Eisenhower Outline of Plans Asked

Senator Flanders Favors Telling Reds Ahead of Time, Another for Soviet Talks

Washington, April 16 (AP)—Sen. Flanders (R-Vt.) advocated today that President Eisenhower "grab the initiative" from the Communists "by telling all parties concerned truce terms that would be acceptable in Korea."

Sen. Humphrey (D.-Minn.) called for broad cold war peace talks with Russia.

And, in the wake of disclosure that the U. S. has instructed Gen. Mark Clark what to tell the Reds about a resumption of truce talks, Democratic senators protested against what they called failure to guard against Communist trickery in the exchange of prisoners of war.

Officials did not disclose what instructions had been sent to Clark, United Nations commander in the Far East. It was assumed, however, that Clark was authorized to accept the Red proposal for resuming truce negotiations.

No Immediate Word

There was no immediate word as to when he might suggest the talks be reopened or what conditions he would lay down.

Flanders' suggestion that Eisenhower should define the terms of an acceptable truce came shortly before the President was due to deliver a major address on foreign policy to the American Society of Newspaper Editors (1 p. m.).

Flanders suggested that the President should first consult with congressional leaders on exactly what "the United Nations—and that means the United States—would accept as truce terms in Korea."

"After they have agreed on this, the President then should tell Congress and the world publicly what he wants," Flanders said.

Flanders said he has no information on what truce terms would be acceptable to the President and the UN.

His own ideas for an end to the Korean War call for (1) withdrawal of Chinese Communists from Korea and establishment of a neutral zone about 40 miles deep along the Yalu river; (2) enforcement of this neutral border by a commission of Asians; (3) rehabilitation of Korea; (4) holding of free elections for all of Korea after the period of rebuilding.

"I think some proposal along these lines would cover all of our pledges from a moral standpoint," the Senator said. "It would protect the people rather than the powers in Korea."

Must Maintain Defenses

Sen. Humphrey, a foreign relations committee member, declared this country "must maintain its defenses, bolster the North Atlantic Treaty and be on guard against Communist trickery and skullduggery."

He said the time has come to carry negotiations to the Russians on a global basis.

"The war in Korea will not be stopped in Korea," Humphrey said. "It will be stopped in Moscow."

The protests over reported Red trickery in the exchange of sick war prisoners grew out of reports that scores of Communist supply trucks moved openly toward the Korean front under the apparent immunity granted motor convoys carrying Allied prisoners toward Panmumjom.

"This looks like serious business and illustrates the point made by many of us when this proposal to exchange sick POWS came up that every caution should be taken to insure we were not being trapped," Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.) told an interviewer.

Sparkman, like Humphrey a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, said that "while I do not know the details of the agreement under which the exchange was undertaken, I can not understand why we did not insure against such a happening as now seems to be taking place.

UN Will Tell Reds Parley Position

Supervisors Reject 2-Way Radio Plan

Vote 19 to 8 Against Funds for County Volunteer Installation

By a vote of 19 to 8 the Ulster county board of supervisors last evening turned down the proposal to make funds available for the installation of a two-way radio system for volunteer firemen of the county.

The resolution, offered by Supervisor Percy Bush of the town of Ulster, would have given approval to the plan and placed a limit of $53,000 on the cost.

Voting for Resolution

Those who voted for the resolution were Supervisors Bush of Ulster, Eckert of Esopus, Gaffney of Lloyd, Coy of Plattekill, McHugh of Shawangunk, Relyea of Hurley and Lindhurst of the third ward and Albrecht of the seventh ward. Supervisor Craft of Wawarsing did not vote and explained his reason. He said he had received a communication on the matter from one fire company in his district but other communications from the other companies had not been received and he did not feel qualified to vote at this time without having knowledge as to the wishes of the other companies.

The two-way radio system, which would have permitted communication between fire equipment at a fire or on the road and their home station, and would also have provided a method of sounding an alarm from a central station located in Kingston, has been under discussion for a long time.

Prior to the motion of Supervisor Bush for approval of the system, Supervisor Relyea had reported that Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk had expressed a willingness to have the system operated from the Central fire station here by using existing personnel, but he had not gone along with the city standing the cost of equipment necessary to the operation of the system.

Cost Is Big Factor

The discussion on two-way radio came just before adjournment and revolved around the cost of the original equipment and the yearly maintenance cost.

Supervisor Wilson of Woodstock had previously referred to the new state plan for reimbursement of counties for welfare and had offered a resolution that the Committee on County Welfare Commissioner make a study and report on the cost of renovation of the former City Home and using it for the care of welfare patients who are now cared for in nursing homes. He held this was a prior requisite over two-way radio.

"It has been stated the two-way radio system may save a life, but operation of the City Home for welfare patients can save many lives," said Wilson. He later re-

Expect Command to Say 'Yes' to Resumption of Talks

Munsan, Korea, April 16 (AP)—The UN command will tell the Communists tomorrow whether it is ready to resume the long-stalled Korean armistice negotiations—and it is expected to say "yes."

The UN late tonight asked for a meeting to deliver a letter answering repeated Red requests to get the talks under way again. Negotiations were indefinitely suspended by the UN last Oct. 8.

The request came only a few hours after the first group of allied sick and wounded from North Korean stockades arrived at Kaesong—just six miles from freedom.

Communist staff officers said

Fred Davi, of Glasco, was granted concession rights at the municipal stadium at a bid of 15 per cent of the gross receipts for the season. Sabre Jets Down Two MIGs; Reds Still Push Supplies

Allied Pilots Are Helpless as Trucks Transport War Goods Down Corridor

Seoul, April 16 (AP)—U. S. Sabre jets shot down two Red MIGs and damaged three today while fighter-bombers slashed at Communist frontline positions and blasted communications in North Korea.

But allied pilots watched helplessly as hundreds of Communist supply trucks rolled toward the front down an attack-free corridor.

For the second day allied reconnaissance pilots reported trucks moving almost bumper to bumper on North Korean roads down which the Reds are sending sick and wounded UN soldiers for exchange at Panmonjom.

On the ground front Chinese Communists struck twice in central Korea but both attacks were thrown back.

Conerty Is Acquitted Of Drunken Driving

A city court jury yesterday returned a verdict of not guilty following trial of Edwin H. Conerty, 27, of 276 Main street, on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Conerty was arrested April 2 by Officers William Norton and John Crespino after the car he was driving allegedly struck another, parked at the curb near 116 Pearl street.

The trial opened before City Judge Raymond J. Mino yesterday morning. The jury went out shortly after 2 p. m., and returned the verdict after deliberating about 50 minutes.

Speakers Ask Supervisors to Impose Law to Cut Delinquency

Thomas J. Murphy, president of the Ulster County Grand Jurors Association, and Mrs. Angelica M. McClure of Saugerties appeared and spoke before the board of supervisors Wednesday evening advocating a county-wide curfew which would take young boys and girls off the streets and highways at a reasonable hour evenings.

The matter was presented as a recommendation by the grand jury last August to the County Court and has the support of County Judge John M. Cashin and District Attorney Howard C. St. John, Murphy said.

Designed to keep the young people off the highways and curtail juvenile delinquency, Murphy asked the supervisors to go back to their town boards and seek passage of a town law which would fix the curfew hour. Enforcement of the local ordinance could be attended to by state police and other enforcement officers, he said.

Cites Kingston Law

He cited the curfew law in Kingston and said enforcement of a similar law in the county could prevent much of the present juvenile delinquency and petty thievery which is going on.

Before every grand jury there came many cases of youthful offense, usually of a petty nature but often involving older boys who used the young lads of 7 to 15 years of age as means of entering places. Mrs. McClure also cited the same situation and said she had originally presented the grand jury recommendation last August. In her opinion a curfew law, properly enforced, would force these young people off the highways and into their homes where they would be under guidance of parents.

Supervisor Gaffney asked whether the state police had power to enforce a local ordinance. Murphy said they had such power.

Blames Parents

Supervisor Williams of Saugerties said much of the difficulty of youthful offenses was caused by the communities lacking proper recreation facilities. There is nothing for the youths to do under proper supervision and they

Croton Man Asks $7,349,569 For Thruway to Whiteport

A. E. Ottaviano Inc., of Croton-on-the-Hudson, was low bidder on the Kingston-Whiteport section of the New York State Thurway at Albany today.

The bid was $7,349,569 and the state estimate for the section was $8,903,000.

John Arborio Inc., of Poughkeepsie, who is now building the strip between Route 28 and Sawkill, was second lowest at $7,463,000, and S. J. Groves was third lowest at $7,944,000.

The contract calls for construction of 7.61 miles of thruway and 1.66 miles of access roads, plus the building of the traffic interchange at the Onteora Trail (Route 28) near Kingston, the spaning of the O & W railroad, mountain branch of the N. Y. Central, Esopus creek, and Route 209 (Hurley avenue.)

A part of Lucas avenue extension will be relocated near the four corners and the road there will go over the express highway. A section of the Esopus creek bed, where it runs near Route 28, will be relocated and grade separations will be built where the route crosses small roads and the Wallkill Valley Railroad in the Whiteport area.

A. R. Erskine, thruway engineer, said today that plans are not yet ready for the advertising of bids on the Whiteport-Ohioville section, but bids will be opened in Albany May 7 on the Newburgh-Ohioville section.

Berserk Tinsmith Kills Seven of Family, Self; Victims of Madness May Total Nine

Lawrence, Mass., April 16 (AP)—A mad tinsmith butchered and shot to death seven and possibly eight members of his family and then killed himself yesterday in a seven-hour slaughter.

The death spree of kill-crazy Peter Akulonis, 39, came to an end last night when he took his own life as police closed in on him outside his home in neighboring Methuen.

Victims of the axe-wielding, guntoting Akulonis were:

His widowed mother, Mrs. Mary Akulonis, 72.
His wife, Madeline, 32.
His son, Michael, 5.
His brother, Raymond, 37.
Another brother, Alphonse, 32.
His nephew, James, 5, son of Alphonse.
Another nephew, Paul, 2, also the son of Alphonse.

A second son, Peter Jr., 9, was missing and feared to be another hacked or shot to death by the beserk father.

Police said Akulonis apparently planned the wholesale murders. They said his suicide may have saved the lives of several other relatives living nearby.

Veteran police officials said the killings were the worst in New England within memory.

Three blood-stained notes were found in the killer's pockets.

"Damn all the rats," one said. "Thanks to the tin gods," said another.

The full contents of the letters were withheld pending a complete investigation.

Akulonis used a carpenter's axe to kill his wife, son, mother, Alphonse, and his two nephews. He killed his brother Raymond with a blast from a .22 calibre rifle before turning the gun on himself.

The bodies of his mother, Alphonse and the latter's two sons victim. Akulonis took the boy out of school early in the afternoon. Police believe young Peter was were found by Alphonse's wife, Clair, 30, when she returned from work in mid-afternoon to her Lawrence tenement apartment.

She ran from the house screaming:

"My family is dead. My whole family is dead."

The four had been hacked to death. All had been struck with axe blows which penetrated the skulls.

The bodies of the killer's wife and son Michael—butchered in the same fashion as the other four victims—were found later in their Methuen home three miles away.

In front of the house, Peter shot his brother Raymond and then fired a bullet into himself when police approached as the brothers

Sack, Sad and Bewildered, Tells of Being Held Prisoner

Seoul, April 16 (AP) — A Pacific Stars and Stripes reporter who rode from Cheju Island to Pusan on a ship carrying 770 disabled Chinese prisoners was taken into "protective custody" by military police as he walked down the gangplank Wednesday.

The reporter, Pfc. John Sack, 23, of 44 Mayhew avenue, Larchmont, N. Y., said MPs held him incommunicado in their office near the Pusan docks for six hours.

Upon his release, he was told he had violated prisoner of war command regulations which prohibit correspondents from traveling with prisoners.

"The thing is still not cleared up," he said. "* * * I still don't know whether they are going to make any charges. They asked me to stay around Pusan. I am a little befuddled by the whole thing."

Sack in Pusan told the Associated Press in Seoul in a telephone conversation that he had not realized he was doing wrong when he boarded the U. S. navy LST at Cheju Tuesday.

"The POW command officers at Cheju suggested I go on the boat," Sack said. "They said they

Broker's Son Pleads Guilty to Assault

Mineola, April 16 (AP)—William H. Pflugfelder, Jr., the son of a Wall Street stock broker, has pleaded guilty to assault in the shooting last October of his former girl friend.

Pflugfelder, 29, interrupted his trial in Nassau County Court yesterday to enter his plea. He was accused of shooting Jane H. Spaulding, 24, as she sat at dinner in her Garden City home.

Judge Cyril J. Brown sent Pflugfelder, also of Garden City, to jail pending sentencing May 8. The defendant faces up to five years in prison.

The trial started Tuesday, and the prosecution said it had presented about a half of its case when the defendant entered his plea.

Miss Spaulding, who was wounded slightly in the shoulder by one of five shots fired through a closed venetian blind, met newsmen outside the court. She was with her father, Raymond, who is with the American Telephone and Telegraph Co.

Asked if she still loved Pflugfelder, she said: "Well, I'm very fond of him still. But love—that is a different thing."

Her father told the newsmen he intended to ask the court to be lenient, that he believed Pflugfelder "is not a bad fellow" and "can be rehabilitated."

India Has Food, Hunger

New Delhi (AP) — Indian government food larders are full, but more than 27,700,000 people are still not getting enough to eat, Food Minister R. A. Kidwai told a questioner in parliament. Kidwai said the most serious scarcity areas were Madras where 8,470,000 suffered, and Bombay State, with an estimated affected population over 6,000,000. Government spokesmen blame low purchasing power and distribution difficulties for the scarcity conditions. The central food minstry tries to help local areas by advancing loans to make possible public works projects.

Bulldog Gets His Bull

Suffolk, Va. (AP) — "Butch," a bulldog, is the hero of this city's greatest bullfight. A bull, slaughter house bound, crashed through the gate of a pen, terrorized Main Street, invaded a residential area and led police and slaughter house cowboys to the edge of a swamp. When the pistols of the patrolmen and .22 calibre rifles started peppering him, the bull began charging. After that he retreated onto high ground in the swamp. Then R. C. Stone, who owned the bull, thought about the bulldog, and brought him to the scene. He rushed in where others feared to tread. There was a commotion and the bull emerged with "Butch" hanging from his throat. Thus encumbered, the bull was quickly shot to death.

SHRINKING 'BUCK' MAKES COMEBACK—The purchasing value of the consumer's dollar which dipped to an all-time low of 55.2 cents during 1952, shows signs of making a comeback. It rose to 55.7 cents in February, 1953. Using 1939 as the base year, above Newschart shows the steady decline of the overall dollars' purchasing power. Only advance was in 1950, when the dollar was worth 66.1 cents. Broker's Son Pleads Guilty to Assault

Mineola, April 16 (AP)—William H. Pflugfelder, Jr., the son of a Wall Street stock broker, has pleaded guilty to assault in the shooting last October of his former girl friend.

Pflugfelder, 29, interrupted his trial in Nassau County Court yesterday to enter his plea. He was accused of shooting Jane H. Spaulding, 24, as she sat at dinner in her Garden City home.

Judge Cyril J. Brown sent Pflugfelder, also of Garden City, to jail pending sentencing May 8. The defendant faces up to five years in prison.

The trial started Tuesday, and the prosecution said it had presented about a half of its case when the defendant entered his plea.

Miss Spaulding, who was wounded slightly in the shoulder by one of five shots fired through a closed venetian blind, met newsmen outside the court. She was with her father, Raymond, who is with the American Telephone and Telegraph Co.

Asked if she still loved Pflugfelder, she said: "Well, I'm very fond of him still. But love—that is a different thing."

Her father told the newsmen he intended to ask the court to be lenient, that he believed Pflugfelder "is not a bad fellow" and "can be rehabilitated."

India Has Food, Hunger

New Delhi (AP) — Indian government food larders are full, but more than 27,700,000 people are still not getting enough to eat, Food Minister R. A. Kidwai told a questioner in parliament. Kidwai said the most serious scarcity areas were Madras where 8,470,000 suffered, and Bombay State, with an estimated affected population over 6,000,000. Government spokesmen blame low purchasing power and distribution difficulties for the scarcity conditions. The central food minstry tries to help local areas by advancing loans to make possible public works projects.

Bulldog Gets His Bull

Suffolk, Va. (AP) — "Butch," a bulldog, is the hero of this city's greatest bullfight. A bull, slaughter house bound, crashed through the gate of a pen, terrorized Main Street, invaded a residential area and led police and slaughter house cowboys to the edge of a swamp. When the pistols of the patrolmen and .22 calibre rifles started peppering him, the bull began charging. After that he retreated onto high ground in the swamp. Then R. C. Stone, who owned the bull, thought about the bulldog, and brought him to the scene. He rushed in where others feared to tread. There was a commotion and the bull emerged with "Butch" hanging from his throat. Thus encumbered, the bull was quickly shot to death.

FLY-BY-NIGHT PEDDLERS

Fly-by-night peddlers bloom in the spring and local residents are warned to beware.

The Kingston Chamber of Commerce states that literally thousands of schemes, methods and gimmicks are used to get people to part with money. Some plans usually operated by strangers are cleverly devised and within the law, but the promoter often leaves town with a very handsome profit at someone's expense, usually the consumer but sometimes merchants themselves.

The Kingston Chamber of Commerce declares that it does not want to interfere with anyone's legitimate business and profits. Competition is what improves business and gives the consumer the best possible values for each dollar spent, but the Chamber is interested in warning the public against schemes which may be designed to be misleading.

The National Better Business Bureau, of which the local Chamber is a member, provides a great deal of authentic information about many of the schemes. The Chamber welcomes inquiries about any type of solicitations or sales effort, particularly from unidentified persons, if the person contacted wants to check on the offers made.

The out-of town peddler is here today and away tomorrow. Your local merchant will be at the same old stand day in and day out and can be contacted directly.

The person always quick to give someone a piece of his mind had better watch out. Before he knows it he may not have any left.

IKE CALMLY RESISTS PRESSURE

Events often compel a nation's leaders to act precipitately whether they want to or not. But aside from all that, a habit of expecting urgent action from the government has grown up in many places, exerting constant and tremendous pressure on the leadership to "do something."

One of the more remarkable features of President Eisenhower's tenure in the White House is his calm courage and confidence in resisting this pressure.

A President, especially a new one, can do a lot of things to score cheap points "for the record." He can make heavy demands on Congress, advertising this "program" well, but knowing that perhaps only a small part has chance of enactment. He can issue statements galore, talk his head off, order many little actions that create an atmosphere of achievement.

This sort of flurry is dear to many lawmakers, who go in heavily for flossy appearances. They like to get the shiny glass and chrome store-front up fast, in case some voters or political competitors come around for an early look. What's going on behind, in the way of solid construction, is not so vital.

Mr. Eisenhower has declined to proceed in the accepted fashion. In the specific and practical sense, there really is no "Eisenhower program" yet. Critical defense and foreign aid spending plans have not been spelled out. Detailed policies affecting our relations with Asia and Europe, and especially with the new Russian regime, are still in the formative stage.

Similarly, the President doesn't have a farm program or a labor program so far. No brightly packaged social welfare plan has been whipped out.

In most all these areas, men in the regular departments or special commissions are hard at work studying and roughing out the elements of new policy. Here and there the administration has called for renewal of old policies to buy time for further study. In a few agencies, reorganization plans have been offered to "put the house in order," really a preliminary step to basic action.

To the veteran politician, this is all tame stuff. He can't shout about it from a platform.

But Mr. Eisenhower remains undisturbed. All observers agree he is in deadly earnest in trying to give the presidency his best. He means to know his job, to know the facts of government, before he moves. He demands the same from others.

And he believes the voters will judge him and the Republican Party on the full record, not by orders hastily drawn or laws hastily passed soon after the inaugural parade broke up.

It's an unusual approach, not often tried in Washington. It takes nerve. Mr. Eisenhower has it.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

COVENANT ON HUMAN RIGHTS

Every once in a while, I wearily re-read the draft Covenants on Human Rights which the United Nations has been struggling to get into shape. Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt has been its principal advocate. My eye recently caught Article 10, which reads:

"The State Parties to the Covenant recognize the right of everyone to adequate food, clothing and housing."

How can anyone decide what is adequate about food, for instance? There is a young lady with plenty of money who eats melba toast, grapefruit, and drinks black coffee to keep her figure. Is she to be forced to eat a specified number of calories a day to satisfy the United Nations? Or there is a fat man, perhaps a 250-pounder, a diabetic if there ever was one, who likes napoleons with a heavy icing on top and who never eats pie except a la mode. Yet, he is always hungry.

Or, in the matter of clothing, particularly for women, what is adequate? So far as I have ever experienced, as a husband and father, no woman ever has enough clothes. Comes an occasion and she has nothing to wear. This is as true of the proletariat as it is of the rich ladies who wear mink coats. Is it adequate to have only one mink coat? Can it be worn in the Spring or Autumn? Surely, a woman who owns a mink coat must have a mink stole.

And is that adequate? Or does it depend on geography? If there is no Bergdorf Goodman in Belgrade, only a hand-me-down store, is that adequate or inadequate?

And who do you sue, if it is inadequate?

But look at Article 11:

"The States Parties to the Covenant recognize the right of everyone to an adequate standard of living and the continuous improvement of living conditions."

How can any government guarantee a continuous improvement of living conditions? Let us say that a country's economy depends upon the export of linens. That used to be a big item from Czechoslovakia, Austria and China. So, somebody invents fancy plastic and paper table arrangements and somebody else invents washing machines and there are no longer any washerwomen to do home laundering and pfft! goes the fancy linen market.

The total family income becomes less and therefore its standard of living goes down a peg. But Article 11 guarantees a "continuous improvement of living conditions." Who makes up the difference? Will the good housewives of Czechoslovakia sue the United States for preferring Kleenex to fancy linen handkerchiefs?

Or take the simple item of meat. Beef has never been too plentiful on the continent of Europe, but Americans like steaks. If the Europeans get to liking steaks instead of Wiener schnitzel and goulash, there might not be enough steers to go around. Who would maintain the balance of steers, or must there be a war about it?

All this sounds silly even as I write it, and it is silly. It is impossible to guarantee a continuously rising standard of living in the face of drouths, floods, disease, wars, varieties of tastes and habits.

Even another question arises and I move into it timorously. Is a continoously rising standard of living good? Are we happier with nylons than we were with lisle hosiery? Are we really healthier with steaks than we were with stews? Does contentment come from two cars in every garage?

Many are beginning to ask those questions. I am a cliff-dweller. Every month I pay rent for this magnificent menage. At the end of 20 years, I shall still have nothing to show for my pains. My landlord is beginning to cut up the apartments in this building into smaller ones. From 10 rooms, he gets three apartments. Maybe, one day, he will cut up my home. The man with a small home in the country may not have all the conveniences of my ultra-high standard of living, but he probably lives a more orderly and composed life.

Who knows really what a high standard of life is? Can everything be measured by the consumption of butter or are there a few spiritual values such as peace of mind?

About all this, I am not sure nor do I believe that the United Nations Commission on Human Rights is sure either. A "continued improvement of living conditions" is a tall order in any civilization.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

THE STUDY OF PAIN

I have written before of a football captain carried into my office with a broken arm, asking me to set it at once as he never felt any pain anyway. Research workers making a study of pain try to measure accurately the sensation of pain and admit that the problem has not yet been solved. Thus, in the case of this football player, also a champion amateur heavyweight boxer, it was really a fact that he was less sensitive to pain than his fellow players. However, I sent him on for an X-ray so arm could be set accurately, which was done.

In Postgraduate Medicine, an editorial reports part of the study of pain under Dr. Henry K. Beecher of the Anesthesia Laboratory of Harvard Medical School. Seventeen studies were completed under Dr. Beecher's direction supported by the government, universities, research councils, and various drug manufacturers.

The difficulty in measuring the amount of pain present in an individual is that the research worker cannot possibly know how much pain an individual can stand before he shows it by his face, nerves, body reaction, or other ways. Also, we are all aware that the same degree of pain will cause different reactions in different individuals.

As stated before, the physician examining a patient has two groups of symptoms to watch carefully. The first group of symptoms, the subjective symptoms, is what the patient tells him about his pain or ache, how it comes on, slowly or rapidly, whether sharp or dull, how long it lasts, whether it remains in one spot or moves about, and any other details the patient can tell the doctor. The second group of symptoms is the objective symptoms—what the physician sees for himself—temperature, blood pressure, nerve reflexes, effects of heat or cold.

Among the subjective symptoms are included the mental state, attention, learning, memory, critical judgment, etc. A patient severely injured may be so shocked that he loses some of his sense of pain as also do injured boxers or hockey or football players, especially if they have won the game or their bout.

The method of causing pain by heat or other artificial method and seeing how much of a pain-killing drug is necessary to relieve the pain is rejected by these Harvard investigators who believe that one must depend on natural pain for conclusive study of pain. "This belief is based on observation that emotion can block pain and that a disregard for wounds is often associated with blocking of pain."

Forewarned Is Forearmed

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA) — Just as the big budget cutters in the Eisenhower administration thought they were getting a nice start on lopping off appropriations for government public works, along come a couple of rude awakenings to upset their sweet dreams of economy.

The rude awakenings all stem from the brightened prospects for an armistice in Korea and better relations with the new regime in Russia, following the death of Premier Stalin.

As a result of these two developments, the stock market does a nose dive. It is feared that defense production orders will be cut back. The worriers begin wondering if that will cause a mild recession in the U. S.

The upshot of all these things is that there have begun to rain down on Washington requests for the Eisenhower administration to make some plans to relieve a possible depression.

Demands for this kind of action come not just from people like CIO President Walter Reuther, who wants President Eisenhower to call a conference "to draft a worksheet for full production and full employment." Republican politicians from various industrial areas around the country are writing to their congressmen — and probably buttonholing those who went home for Easter week vacation.

This new development reverses the pressure exerted on Washington before Stalin died. The line then was, "Cut to the bone all that awful waste and extravagance in Washington to give the taxpayers a break." Now it's, "Great grief! Why doesn't Washington plan something to break a depression?"

Worriers Can Stop Their Fretting

The answer to the worriers is that they can stop fretting. Washington has on tap plans for at least $15 billion worth of public works. Actual construction could be started just as fast as Congress appropriated the money.

The Eisenhower administration had nothing to do with the making of these plans. They were made by New Dealers and Fair Dealers. The Republicans might not want to use these particular plans for that reason. But if they wanted to start something in a hurry, all they'd have to do is reach into the nearest filing cabinets to pull out a whole sheaf of plans, in various stages of readiness.

Breakdown of the $15 billion estimate for public works is roughly as follows: Army Corps of Engineers—950 projects worth $8 billion at 1951 prices; Bureau of Public Roads—state plus federal-aid plans for 52,205 miles of highways estimated to cost $4.225 billion, as of April 1, 1951; Bureau of Reclamation—a seven-year program involving 350 projects costing an estimated $2 billion. This is the big shelf of reserve plans.

A shelf of smaller projects includes these: General Services Administration plans to build or remodel many U. S. Post Office and Federal office buildings. Costs might range anywhere from $500 million to $1 billion. Civil Aeronautics Administration airport program has $315 million unallocated out of its original seven-year $500 million program which has four years to run. In addition, CAA has a $150 million backing of unauthorized airport improvement plans.

But Engineers' Projects Lack Money

Many of the projects planned several years ago as postwar depression stoppers might be found undesirable today. This would apply particularly to Corps of Engineers projects, all of which have been authorized by Congress, but lack appropriation of money.

The authorized Corps of Engineers' plans include 370 rivers and harbors projects estimated to cost $3.2 billion and 580 flood-control projects estimated to cost $4.8 billion. Today's construction costs are higher.

The $2 billion reclamation program for the western states includes 20 projects authorized by Congress for a total cost of $695 million. Of these, three projects estimated to cost $255 million are now being restudied to make sure they are feasible. Incidentally, Rep. John P. Saylor of Pennsylvania has a bill pending to "deauthorize" all previous reclamation projects, and start afresh.

Bureau of Public Roads stopped trying to tabulate state highway construction plans two years ago, because they changed so much. One of the big factors now holding up state road programs is a shortage of engineers, as well as a shortage of state and matching federal funds.

At the end of the war General Services Administration compiled a list of projects that might be built in every congressional district. Few of them of course, will ever be authorized. Out of $40 million authorized for planning, only $13 million has been appropriated.

With this money, GSA has acquired sites on 110 projects, and has plans ready to start building from 125 to 150—when Congress appropriates the money. There has been only $150 million in federal building since the war, and over $100 million of that was in Washington.

Story of Ammunition Shortage Brings Some Astonishing Disclosures

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, April 16 — The story of how to jeopardize the lives of tens of thousands of American boys in Korea by failing to provide enough ammunition for them to fight the enemy is unfolding now with more and more astonishing disclosures of the bad planning, confusion and incompetence of the whole military setup in the Truman administration.

The tragedy is that some of the same people who were participants in the military setup are now being kept in office by the present administration.

Senator Harry Byrd, Democrat of Virginia, and other senators are frankly astonished to learn that the Department of Defense issued a directive on September 27, 1950, which was based on the "assumption" that the Korean war would be ended nine months later.

The date is very significant. It will be recalled that Democratic campaign orators made much of the fact that General MacArthur on October 15, 1950, was alleged to have said that he thought the "boys could come home by Christmas." Former Secretary of the Army Frank Pace has just testified at the hearings concerning ammunition shortages that General MacArthur had not predicted the ending of the war by December 1950 but merely that he (Secretary Pace) got that "impression" at Wake island.

Not until the Senate Armed Services Committee got testimony this week from the comptroller of the army, Lieut. Gen. George H. Decker, concerning the secret directive of September 27 had it been known that General MacArthur, on October 15, was reflecting decisions on policy already made in the Pentagon. Actually the Central Intelligence Agency of this government, according to testimony in the MacArthur hearings, reported on November 27, 1950, its estimate that the Chinese Communists would not intervene in the war on a large scale.

Thus, the entire concept of what ammunition should be provided for the future was affected by the minimizing in 1950 and 1951 of the importance of the Korean war. The testimony of General Decker further shows that Secretary of Defense George Marshall, who issued the directive, did so only two days after he took over from his predecessor, Louis Johnson, in September 1950. It could be that the memoranda on which the directive was based were worked up by subordinate officers in the military, though General Decker testified that he did not believe the joint chiefs of staff were consulted in making the decision although it was a "national policy." Presumably President Truman made it or concured in it.

This is an astounding revelation, but it should not be surprising because for many months it has been apparent to informed observers that America has not had a military command setup participating in making the broad policies of the administration.

Although the National Security Council was established by Congress for the express purpose of dealing with the calculated risks that grow out of national and international policies of the administration, the joint chiefs are not statutory members of that body. Nor is there any evidence that the Security Council had considered the Korean war's duration and gave Secretary Marshall the decision, which he made from a budget standpoint.

But, even if there is doubt about whether the Communist Chinese might or might not have been planning in the autumn of 1950 to enter the war as they did later that year, what explanation can there be for the second directive referred to by General Decker in his testimony as having been issued by the Department of Defense, in April 1951, which again assumed the ending of the Korean war as of December 31, 1951?

As various senators commented, this on-again-off-again procedure had a direct effect on the failure to provide ammunition for Korea, which, it is estimated, is shot up at the rate of $200,000,000 a month. Yet it is revealed now that a request by the army for $1,000,000,000 for ammunition for the fiscal year which ended June 30, 1951, was cut down to $30,000,000 by the "reviewing authority" in the office of the secretary of defense.

What is most depressing from the standpoint of future operations in the event of a national emergency is the curious psychology revealed in the directive of Sept. 27, 1950, which stated a number of "assumptions" concerning the early end of the Korean war and formally notified the army, navy and air force secretaries, the joint chiefs of staff and the comptroller of the Defense Department that procurement should be arranged in such a way as to reduce inflationary pressures and avoid strains on the national economy. This means either that "national policy" was not based on military requirements and was handed the military men as an order from which they could not dissent or else that the military men were so afraid to speak out in the interest of American safety that they accepted without protest the directive to cut down on ammunition supplies.

The whole situation calls for an overhauling of the Defense Department. Originally there were two departments, and the secretary of war and the secretary of the navy reported directly to the President. Originally also the joint chiefs reported directly to the President. Now all this is changed. Instead of two departments, there are three for the armed services—and on top of these another big department called the Department of Defense. So "unification" has meant "quadruplication." It has put a whole layer of officials between the President and the armed services. Yet the President, as commander-in-chief, is responsible to the American people, and the responsible officials who should have direct access to him do not have it.

The American people have been lucky thus far to be spared a large-scale war, for the existing machinery is inadequate and cumbersome and would break down in an emergency.

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

There is a basic and fundamental strategy involved in the current dealings with the Communists which is not generally comprehended.

It is essential, the Ruminator believes, to get this thought straight if we wish to escape wishful thinking.

The idea is this: The defensive versus the offensive in international dealings.

The nub of my thought is that there is no cohesion (among nations) in a defensive strategical policy.

When nations are on the offensive they are able to attain a workable degree of cooperation and spirit because they have an objective in view. Heads of states know what they are after—what end they are endeavoring to reach. They find it possible to get over to the people what their objective is. In consequence, it is possible to create favorable public opinion and support.

However, it is very difficult to get agreement among nations (as we have seen) on defensive policies—and it is practically impossible to maintain a consistently favorable public opinion.

Notwithstanding the peaceful overtures which have recently emanated from behind the iron curtains the cold fact remains that we and our allies remain on the defensive. The overtures (offensive) all come from the other side.

Because of the (human) desire for peace, people generally are concentrating on the short-run attractiveness of the seeming change in Kremlin policy, overlooking the long-run strategical disadvantage of our defensive position.

Contrary to the hopefulness of current wishful thinking, there is little hope for long-term improvement until the "West" (anti-Russian world) shifts from a defensive to an offensive strategy in its dealings with the Kremlin and its satellites and with Red China.

Inasmuch as there is no early probability of such a shift in policy (public opinion and the allied nations would not go along) this contrary observer sees no reason to be jubilant over the international outlook.

Indeed, we may learn that the post-Stalin regime will accomplish the long-sought Kremlin design of breaking down what cohesive support there has existed among the allied nations.

Whether nations will stick together in their forlorn defensive policies is a question that is profoundly vexing worried minds today.

Viscount Montgomery, who has been second in rank ever since the inception of NATO, had some very blunt things to say recently when he addressed the National Press Club in Washington, on March 30. Starting out to analyze what is wrong in the world today he asserted that, in his view, "Western aims are negative and defensive (while) the aims of the East are positive and aggressive." He placed this first in his analysis of international problems. (The

FLY-BY-NIGHT PEDDLERS

Fly-by-night peddlers bloom in the spring and local residents are warned to beware.

The Kingston Chamber of Commerce states that literally thousands of schemes, methods and gimmicks are used to get people to part with money. Some plans usually operated by strangers are cleverly devised and within the law, but the promoter often leaves town with a very handsome profit at someone's expense, usually the consumer but sometimes merchants themselves.

The Kingston Chamber of Commerce declares that it does not want to interfere with anyone's legitimate business and profits. Competition is what improves business and gives the consumer the best possible values for each dollar spent, but the Chamber is interested in warning the public against schemes which may be designed to be misleading.

The National Better Business Bureau, of which the local Chamber is a member, provides a great deal of authentic information about many of the schemes. The Chamber welcomes inquiries about any type of solicitations or sales effort, particularly from unidentified persons, if the person contacted wants to check on the offers made.

The out-of town peddler is here today and away tomorrow. Your local merchant will be at the same old stand day in and day out and can be contacted directly.

The person always quick to give someone a piece of his mind had better watch out. Before he knows it he may not have any left.

IKE CALMLY RESISTS PRESSURE

Events often compel a nation's leaders to act precipitately whether they want to or not. But aside from all that, a habit of expecting urgent action from the government has grown up in many places, exerting constant and tremendous pressure on the leadership to "do something."

One of the more remarkable features of President Eisenhower's tenure in the White House is his calm courage and confidence in resisting this pressure.

A President, especially a new one, can do a lot of things to score cheap points "for the record." He can make heavy demands on Congress, advertising this "program" well, but knowing that perhaps only a small part has chance of enactment. He can issue statements galore, talk his head off, order many little actions that create an atmosphere of achievement.

This sort of flurry is dear to many lawmakers, who go in heavily for flossy appearances. They like to get the shiny glass and chrome store-front up fast, in case some voters or political competitors come around for an early look. What's going on behind, in the way of solid construction, is not so vital.

Mr. Eisenhower has declined to proceed in the accepted fashion. In the specific and practical sense, there really is no "Eisenhower program" yet. Critical defense and foreign aid spending plans have not been spelled out. Detailed policies affecting our relations with Asia and Europe, and especially with the new Russian regime, are still in the formative stage.

Similarly, the President doesn't have a farm program or a labor program so far. No brightly packaged social welfare plan has been whipped out.

In most all these areas, men in the regular departments or special commissions are hard at work studying and roughing out the elements of new policy. Here and there the administration has called for renewal of old policies to buy time for further study. In a few agencies, reorganization plans have been offered to "put the house in order," really a preliminary step to basic action.

To the veteran politician, this is all tame stuff. He can't shout about it from a platform.

But Mr. Eisenhower remains undisturbed. All observers agree he is in deadly earnest in trying to give the presidency his best. He means to know his job, to know the facts of government, before he moves. He demands the same from others.

And he believes the voters will judge him and the Republican Party on the full record, not by orders hastily drawn or laws hastily passed soon after the inaugural parade broke up.

It's an unusual approach, not often tried in Washington. It takes nerve. Mr. Eisenhower has it.

'These Days'

COVENANT ON HUMAN RIGHTS

Every once in a while, I wearily re-read the draft Covenants on Human Rights which the United Nations has been struggling to get into shape. Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt has been its principal advocate. My eye recently caught Article 10, which reads:

"The State Parties to the Covenant recognize the right of everyone to adequate food, clothing and housing."

How can anyone decide what is adequate about food, for instance? There is a young lady with plenty of money who eats melba toast, grapefruit, and drinks black coffee to keep her figure. Is she to be forced to eat a specified number of calories a day to satisfy the United Nations? Or there is a fat man, perhaps a 250-pounder, a diabetic if there ever was one, who likes napoleons with a heavy icing on top and who never eats pie except a la mode. Yet, he is always hungry.

Or, in the matter of clothing, particularly for women, what is adequate? So far as I have ever experienced, as a husband and father, no woman ever has enough clothes. Comes an occasion and she has nothing to wear. This is as true of the proletariat as it is of the rich ladies who wear mink coats. Is it adequate to have only one mink coat? Can it be worn in the Spring or Autumn? Surely, a woman who owns a mink coat must have a mink stole.

And is that adequate? Or does it depend on geography? If there is no Bergdorf Goodman in Belgrade, only a hand-me-down store, is that adequate or inadequate?

And who do you sue, if it is inadequate?

But look at Article 11:

"The States Parties to the Covenant recognize the right of everyone to an adequate standard of living and the continuous improvement of living conditions."

How can any government guarantee a continuous improvement of living conditions? Let us say that a country's economy depends upon the export of linens. That used to be a big item from Czechoslovakia, Austria and China. So, somebody invents fancy plastic and paper table arrangements and somebody else invents washing machines and there are no longer any washerwomen to do home laundering and pfft! goes the fancy linen market.

The total family income becomes less and therefore its standard of living goes down a peg. But Article 11 guarantees a "continuous improvement of living conditions." Who makes up the difference? Will the good housewives of Czechoslovakia sue the United States for preferring Kleenex to fancy linen handkerchiefs?

Or take the simple item of meat. Beef has never been too plentiful on the continent of Europe, but Americans like steaks. If the Europeans get to liking steaks instead of Wiener schnitzel and goulash, there might not be enough steers to go around. Who would maintain the balance of steers, or must there be a war about it?

All this sounds silly even as I write it, and it is silly. It is impossible to guarantee a continuously rising standard of living in the face of drouths, floods, disease, wars, varieties of tastes and habits.

Even another question arises and I move into it timorously. Is a continoously rising standard of living good? Are we happier with nylons than we were with lisle hosiery? Are we really healthier with steaks than we were with stews? Does contentment come from two cars in every garage?

Many are beginning to ask those questions. I am a cliff-dweller. Every month I pay rent for this magnificent menage. At the end of 20 years, I shall still have nothing to show for my pains. My landlord is beginning to cut up the apartments in this building into smaller ones. From 10 rooms, he gets three apartments. Maybe, one day, he will cut up my home. The man with a small home in the country may not have all the conveniences of my ultra-high standard of living, but he probably lives a more orderly and composed life.

Who knows really what a high standard of life is? Can everything be measured by the consumption of butter or are there a few spiritual values such as peace of mind?

About all this, I am not sure nor do I believe that the United Nations Commission on Human Rights is sure either. A "continued improvement of living conditions" is a tall order in any civilization.

That Body of Yours

THE STUDY OF PAIN

I have written before of a football captain carried into my office with a broken arm, asking me to set it at once as he never felt any pain anyway. Research workers making a study of pain try to measure accurately the sensation of pain and admit that the problem has not yet been solved. Thus, in the case of this football player, also a champion amateur heavyweight boxer, it was really a fact that he was less sensitive to pain than his fellow players. However, I sent him on for an X-ray so arm could be set accurately, which was done.

In Postgraduate Medicine, an editorial reports part of the study of pain under Dr. Henry K. Beecher of the Anesthesia Laboratory of Harvard Medical School. Seventeen studies were completed under Dr. Beecher's direction supported by the government, universities, research councils, and various drug manufacturers.

The difficulty in measuring the amount of pain present in an individual is that the research worker cannot possibly know how much pain an individual can stand before he shows it by his face, nerves, body reaction, or other ways. Also, we are all aware that the same degree of pain will cause different reactions in different individuals.

As stated before, the physician examining a patient has two groups of symptoms to watch carefully. The first group of symptoms, the subjective symptoms, is what the patient tells him about his pain or ache, how it comes on, slowly or rapidly, whether sharp or dull, how long it lasts, whether it remains in one spot or moves about, and any other details the patient can tell the doctor. The second group of symptoms is the objective symptoms—what the physician sees for himself—temperature, blood pressure, nerve reflexes, effects of heat or cold.

Among the subjective symptoms are included the mental state, attention, learning, memory, critical judgment, etc. A patient severely injured may be so shocked that he loses some of his sense of pain as also do injured boxers or hockey or football players, especially if they have won the game or their bout.

The method of causing pain by heat or other artificial method and seeing how much of a pain-killing drug is necessary to relieve the pain is rejected by these Harvard investigators who believe that one must depend on natural pain for conclusive study of pain. "This belief is based on observation that emotion can block pain and that a disregard for wounds is often associated with blocking of pain."

Forewarned Is Forearmed

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA) — Just as the big budget cutters in the Eisenhower administration thought they were getting a nice start on lopping off appropriations for government public works, along come a couple of rude awakenings to upset their sweet dreams of economy.

The rude awakenings all stem from the brightened prospects for an armistice in Korea and better relations with the new regime in Russia, following the death of Premier Stalin.

As a result of these two developments, the stock market does a nose dive. It is feared that defense production orders will be cut back. The worriers begin wondering if that will cause a mild recession in the U. S.

The upshot of all these things is that there have begun to rain down on Washington requests for the Eisenhower administration to make some plans to relieve a possible depression.

Demands for this kind of action come not just from people like CIO President Walter Reuther, who wants President Eisenhower to call a conference "to draft a worksheet for full production and full employment." Republican politicians from various industrial areas around the country are writing to their congressmen — and probably buttonholing those who went home for Easter week vacation.

This new development reverses the pressure exerted on Washington before Stalin died. The line then was, "Cut to the bone all that awful waste and extravagance in Washington to give the taxpayers a break." Now it's, "Great grief! Why doesn't Washington plan something to break a depression?"

Worriers Can Stop Their Fretting

The answer to the worriers is that they can stop fretting. Washington has on tap plans for at least $15 billion worth of public works. Actual construction could be started just as fast as Congress appropriated the money.

The Eisenhower administration had nothing to do with the making of these plans. They were made by New Dealers and Fair Dealers. The Republicans might not want to use these particular plans for that reason. But if they wanted to start something in a hurry, all they'd have to do is reach into the nearest filing cabinets to pull out a whole sheaf of plans, in various stages of readiness.

Breakdown of the $15 billion estimate for public works is roughly as follows: Army Corps of Engineers—950 projects worth $8 billion at 1951 prices; Bureau of Public Roads—state plus federal-aid plans for 52,205 miles of highways estimated to cost $4.225 billion, as of April 1, 1951; Bureau of Reclamation—a seven-year program involving 350 projects costing an estimated $2 billion. This is the big shelf of reserve plans.

A shelf of smaller projects includes these: General Services Administration plans to build or remodel many U. S. Post Office and Federal office buildings. Costs might range anywhere from $500 million to $1 billion. Civil Aeronautics Administration airport program has $315 million unallocated out of its original seven-year $500 million program which has four years to run. In addition, CAA has a $150 million backing of unauthorized airport improvement plans.

But Engineers' Projects Lack Money

Many of the projects planned several years ago as postwar depression stoppers might be found undesirable today. This would apply particularly to Corps of Engineers projects, all of which have been authorized by Congress, but lack appropriation of money.

The authorized Corps of Engineers' plans include 370 rivers and harbors projects estimated to cost $3.2 billion and 580 flood-control projects estimated to cost $4.8 billion. Today's construction costs are higher.

The $2 billion reclamation program for the western states includes 20 projects authorized by Congress for a total cost of $695 million. Of these, three projects estimated to cost $255 million are now being restudied to make sure they are feasible. Incidentally, Rep. John P. Saylor of Pennsylvania has a bill pending to "deauthorize" all previous reclamation projects, and start afresh.

Bureau of Public Roads stopped trying to tabulate state highway construction plans two years ago, because they changed so much. One of the big factors now holding up state road programs is a shortage of engineers, as well as a shortage of state and matching federal funds.

At the end of the war General Services Administration compiled a list of projects that might be built in every congressional district. Few of them of course, will ever be authorized. Out of $40 million authorized for planning, only $13 million has been appropriated.

With this money, GSA has acquired sites on 110 projects, and has plans ready to start building from 125 to 150—when Congress appropriates the money. There has been only $150 million in federal building since the war, and over $100 million of that was in Washington.

As various senators commented, this on-again-off-again procedure had a direct effect on the failure to provide ammunition for Korea, which, it is estimated, is shot up at the rate of $200,000,000 a month. Yet it is revealed now that a request by the army for $1,000,000,000 for ammunition for the fiscal year which ended June 30, 1951, was cut down to $30,000,000 by the "reviewing authority" in the office of the secretary of defense.

What is most depressing from the standpoint of future operations in the event of a national emergency is the curious psychology revealed in the directive of Sept. 27, 1950, which stated a number of "assumptions" concerning the early end of the Korean war and formally notified the army, navy and air force secretaries, the joint chiefs of staff and the comptroller of the Defense Department that procurement should be arranged in such a way as to reduce inflationary pressures and avoid strains on the national economy. This means either that "national policy" was not based on military requirements and was handed the military men as an order from which they could not dissent or else that the military men were so afraid to speak out in the interest of American safety that they accepted without protest the directive to cut down on ammunition supplies.

The whole situation calls for an overhauling of the Defense Department. Originally there were two departments, and the secretary of war and the secretary of the navy reported directly to the President. Originally also the joint chiefs reported directly to the President. Now all this is changed. Instead of two departments, there are three for the armed services—and on top of these another big department called the Department of Defense. So "unification" has meant "quadruplication." It has put a whole layer of officials between the President and the armed services. Yet the President, as commander-in-chief, is responsible to the American people, and the responsible officials who should have direct access to him do not have it.

The American people have been lucky thus far to be spared a large-scale war, for the existing machinery is inadequate and cumbersome and would break down in an emergency.

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

There is a basic and fundamental strategy involved in the current dealings with the Communists which is not generally comprehended.

It is essential, the Ruminator believes, to get this thought straight if we wish to escape wishful thinking.

The idea is this: The defensive versus the offensive in international dealings.

The nub of my thought is that there is no cohesion (among nations) in a defensive strategical policy.

When nations are on the offensive they are able to attain a workable degree of cooperation and spirit because they have an objective in view. Heads of states know what they are after—what end they are endeavoring to reach. They find it possible to get over to the people what their objective is. In consequence, it is possible to create favorable public opinion and support.

However, it is very difficult to get agreement among nations (as we have seen) on defensive policies—and it is practically impossible to maintain a consistently favorable public opinion.

Notwithstanding the peaceful overtures which have recently emanated from behind the iron curtains the cold fact remains that we and our allies remain on the defensive. The overtures (offensive) all come from the other side.

Because of the (human) desire for peace, people generally are concentrating on the short-run attractiveness of the seeming change in Kremlin policy, overlooking the long-run strategical disadvantage of our defensive position.

Contrary to the hopefulness of current wishful thinking, there is little hope for long-term improvement until the "West" (anti-Russian world) shifts from a defensive to an offensive strategy in its dealings with the Kremlin and its satellites and with Red China.

Inasmuch as there is no early probability of such a shift in policy (public opinion and the allied nations would not go along) this contrary observer sees no reason to be jubilant over the international outlook.

Indeed, we may learn that the post-Stalin regime will accomplish the long-sought Kremlin design of breaking down what cohesive support there has existed among the allied nations.

Whether nations will stick together in their forlorn defensive policies is a question that is profoundly vexing worried minds today.

Viscount Montgomery, who has been second in rank ever since the inception of NATO, had some very blunt things to say recently when he addressed the National Press Club in Washington, on March 30. Starting out to analyze what is wrong in the world today he asserted that, in his view, "Western aims are negative and defensive (while) the aims of the East are positive and aggressive." He placed this first in his analysis of international problems. (The

So They Say...

The question in aircraft today is "why all the speed?" To my way of thinking, the important thing is not what you are doing, but what you are striving for. It develops character and mind.

Spilt Stock Bid Gets Rejection by AT&T's President

New York, April 16 (AP)—Stockholders' suggestions that the American Telephone & Telegraph Company split its common stock were rejected by President Cleo F. Craig yesterday at a crowded annual meeting.

Company officials estimated 1,200 stockholders turned out for the meeting. Because of the overflow crowd, proceedings in the meeting room were brought to shareholders in two adjoining rooms by closed circuit television.

Explaining why the company did not favor splitting the stock—which sells above $150 a share—Craig observed that the main purpose of a split is to attract more shareholders. American Telephone, he said, added 128,000 holders last year to bring the total to 1,225,000. In the postwar period, he said, 550,000 holders were added.

Craig remarked that splitting the stock could cost a minimum of five million dollars and that expenses might run as high as 15 million. One big factor in this cost, he added, would be taxes.

Craig replied to stockholder suggestions that the company's traditional $9 dividend be raised by saying the board did not wish to impair the investment quality of the stock by paying out more of its earnings.

Several stockholders complained that the $9 dividend had not changed in the face of the rising cost of living. Craig commented that the rate structure of regulated utilities always lagged behind in inflationary periods.

Work Bill Is Vetoed

Albany, April 16 (AP)—Gov. Dewey today vetoed a bill that would have permitted women to work midnight shifts in factories if the state industrial commissioner found there were adequate transportation and safeguards to health and welfare. The law prohibits employment of women in factories between 10 p. m. and 6 a. m. However, they may work on night shifts until midnight. The measure, introduced by Republican Assemblyman Malcolm Wilson of Yonkers, would have permitted employment between midnight and 6 a. m. Dewey also vetoed a bill that would have permitted women to work midnight shifts in quick freezing plants during the canning season. The measure was introduced by Assemblyman Edmund R. Lupton, Riverhead Republican.

Folsom Sees U. S. Income Under Par Of Truman Figure

New York, April 16 (AP)—Undersectary of the Treasury Marion B. Folsom said today present prospects are that the federal government's income this year will be "substantially below" the estimate made by former President Truman.

If these prospects materialize, he said, the new administration's problem of balancing the budget will be made more difficult.

Judgment must be suspended on timing of tax cuts until the administration can determine how expenditures and income will compare in the next fiscal year, starting July 1, Folsom said.

Truman estimated receipts for this fiscal year, ending June 30, at $68,700,000,000.

Folsom did not say, in a speech prepared for the special tax conference of the Natural Industrial Conference Board here, by how much receipts would fall under that estimate.

As for the timing of tax cuts, Folsom said the first reduction must come in the excess profits tax now being levied on business concerns and in individual income tax rates. He disclosed no specific recommendations in either of these cases.

The excess profits tax is now scheduled to expire June 30. Income taxes are due to revert to pre-Korean levels on Jan. 1, but there is strong support in the House for a bill to advance the date to July 1.

Food Clerks Strike In 127 A & P Stores

New York, April 16 (AP)—Approximately 1,462 food clerks and department heads, members of Local 1500, AFL Retail Food Clerks Union, struck today in 127 A & P stores in Brooklyn and Queens, but the stores remained open.

The union charged the company refused to meet with its representatives to negotiate a contract. However, the company claimed the strike is a jurisdictional fight between two unions, involving legal technicalities scheduled for a labor board hearing May 4.

One to four pickets were placed at each of the stores by Local 1500. Max Block, president of Local 342, AFL Amalgamated Meat Cutters Union, said his members ignored the picket lines and were working.

Resent Refusal to Meet

A statement by the Retail Food Clerks Local said the "strike has been called as a result of the A & P's refusal to meet with an employe committee and union representatives for the purpose of negotiating a contract."

"Despite a five-to-one victory by the union in a National Labor Relations Board election on Feb. 19, 1953, and the subsequent certification by the board of the union as the legal and sole bargaining agent for these A & P employes the A & P has refused to recognize the union."

The statement also charged that the A & P "has said that it will not abide by the ruling of the National Labor Relations Board."

A company said it cannot deal with Local 150 because it has a union shop contract with Local 342, of the Meat Cutters Union.

Dewey Signs Bill To Allow Study Of Newburgh Span

Albany, April 16 (AP) — Gov. Dewey today signed a bill authorizing the State Bridge Authority to make a study of the need for a Hudson river bridge between Newburgh and Beacon.

Under terms of the measure, construction of the proposed 18-million-dollar project may not be started until a proposed structure between Kingston and Rhinecliff is completed.

Dewey said in a memorandum that the "provision of an additional crossing of the Hudson river at this point is represented as being of great economic value to the communities on both sides of the river."

"It is anticipated that increased highway traffic may make such an undertaking feasible from the revenue point of view within the not too distant future," Dewey said.

The bill, introduced by Majority Leader Lee B. Mailler, a Republican Assemblyman from Orange county, authorizes the bridge authority to make preliminary plans, surveys and estimates.

It also permits the authority to boost its maximum bond issue from 30 to 50 million dollars.

President Calls

tween the Soviet and free worlds, he said, "is insoluble—given only the will to respect the rights of all nations."

Specific Ideas Given

The President listed these specific steps:

1. Conclusion of an "honorable armistice" in Korea, followed by political discussions leading to "free elections in a United Korea."

2. An end to Red aggression in Indochina and Malaya.

3. Completion of an Austrian peace treaty.

4. Unification of Germany.

5. Creation of a European community with "full independence of the east European nations."

With progress on these issues, Eisenhower said the U. S. would welcome agreements on reduction of armaments. He then declared:

"This government is ready to ask its people to join with all nations in devoting a substantial percentage of the savings achieved by disarmament to a fund for world aid and reconstruction.

Purpose, for Humanity

"The purpose of this great work would be: To help other peoples to develop the undeveloped areas of the world, to stimulate profitable and fair world trade, to assist all peoples to know the blessings of productive freedom."

Repeatedly he hammered the point that the American government is interested in deeds, not "oratory" from the Kremlin and that the ideas of proven good faith and safeguards against violations underlie his five-point disarmament program.

He stated this program as:

1. Limitation, by fixed ceilings or by percentages, of the "military and security forces of all nations."

2. A pledge by all nations to limit production of strategic materials for military purposes.

3. International control of atomic energy for peaceful purposes "and to ensure prohibition of atomic weapons."

4. Limitation or prohibition of other weapons of "great destructiveness."

5. Enforcement of all these agreements by "adequate safeguards, including a practical system of inspection under the United Nations."

Details Are Complex

"The details of such disarmament programs are manifestly critical and complex," Eisenhower said. "Neither the U. S. nor any other nation can properly claim to possess a perfect, immutable formula.

"But the formula matters less than the faith—the good faith without which no formula can work justly and effectively."

Eisenhower evidently designed his speech as America's answer to the Soviet peace offensive which began immediately after Stalin's death on March 5.

Soviet Premier Malenkov has said that all problems between Russia and the U. S. can be solved and the Reds have made a number of peaceful gestures—including agreement on the exchange of sick and wounded prisoners in Korea starting next Monday.

Today Eisenhower pressed his question about what Russia is now prepared to do about achieving real peace. He asked:

"Is the new leadership of the Soviet Union prepared to use its decisive influence in the Communist world—including control of the flow of arms—to bring not merely an expedient truce in Korea but genuine peace in Asia?

"Is it prepared to allow other nations, including those of eastern Europe, the free choice of their own forms of government and the right to associate freely with other nations in a world-wide community of law?"

"Is it prepared to act in concert with others upon serious disarmament proposals to be made firmly effective by stringent UN controls and inspection?

"If not—where then is the concrete evidence of the Soviet Union's concern for peace?"

No Ulterior Purpose

His own proposals, the President declared, "spring — without ulterior purpose or poliitcal passion—from our calm conviction that the hunger for just peace is in the hearts of all peoples—those of Russia and of China no less than of our own country."

"They conform to our firm faith," he added, "that God created men to enjoy, not destroy, the fruits of the earth and of their own toil."

The President's proposal to use a percentage of armaments costs for peaceful purposes throughout the world contained no figures.

However, according to the Truman administration's budget for fiscal year ending June 30, military spending will total about $51,200,000,000 aside from the bulk of the $10,500,000,000 foreign aid program which goes for armaments.

These figures show that, in the case of the U. S. alone, the diversion of a substantial percentage of its armament expenditures for world aid to the needy would run into billions of dollars.

The idea of diverting funds in this way has been suggested before. The late Sen. Brien McMahon (D-Conn.) proposed in a Senate speech Feb. 2, 1950, that the U. S. offer the world a global "Marshall Plan" of 50 billion dollars over a five-year period as a means of ending the cold war and averting possible atomic warfare.

Not New or Strange

Eisenhower noted in his speech that "this idea of a just and peaceful world is not new or strange to us."

"It inspired the people of the United States," he said, "to initiate the European Recovery Program (the Marshall Plan) in 1947."

In surveying events leading up to the cold war, the President remarked that in 1945, with World War 2 at an end, all people of the world stood at the threshold of "an age of just peace."

But this was short-lived, he said, and Russia went one way while the U. S. and the rest of the free world went another. The result, he said, has been tragic for all and ironic for the Soviet Union.

The President said the irony for Russia is that, while working to plant fear in the hearts of free men, the Kremlin succeeded only in unifying the free nations and in the end becoming a victim of that selfsame fear.

"Every gun that is made," he went on, "every warship launched, every rocket fired signifies—in the final sense—a theft from those who hunger and are not fed, those who are cold and are not clothed."

To bear such a burden Eisenhower said, "is not a way of life at all, in any true sense  it is humanity hanging from a cross of iron."

He said the new Soviet leadership, confronted with the free world's firm resistance to aggression, "now has a precious opportunity to awaken, with the rest of the world, to the point of peril reached and to help turn the tide of history."

Slowpoke Drivers

brought by the Communist party.

Introduced by Graci

The extension bill was introduced by Republican Assemblyman Angelo Graci of Queens.

Dewey also signed a bill that authorizes the Board of Regents to discipline physicians for "unprofessional conduct." Medicine had been the only profession in which unprofessional conduct was not listed as a ground for disciplinary action.

Dewey vetoed a bill that would have doubled the limits on amounts towns and villages could appropriate for publicity. (Assemblymen Edmund R. Lupton of Riverhead and Richard H. Knauf of Binghamton, both Republicans.)

Public Works Gets $28,807,092 Bid For Nyack Bridge

Albany, N. Y., April 16 (AP)—The Public Works Department received a low bid of $28,807,092 today for construction of superstructure work on the Thruway's Hudson river bridge between South Nyack and Tarrytown.

The bid was submitted by the American Bridge Division of the U. S. Steel Corp., New York city.

The Thruway Authority had asked for bids last year but received none for a plan to build a tied-arch bridge. It then called for an alternate design—a cantilever-tuss main span.

Bertram D. Tallamy, chairman of the authority, said it was "particularly gratifying" that the change had "effected a substantial reduction in the cost of the bridge, running into several millions of dollars."

The bridge is scheduled for completion by Oct. 16, 1954. Award of the contract will be made as soon as the bid can be processed.

Yacht Is Launched

Clydebank, Scotland, April 16 (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II pressed an electric button today and launched her trim, new royal yacht. She named the 4,000-ton vessel the Britannia. The launching went off without a hitch. Even a strike of 500 platers in the shipyard did not affect the event. Cost of the yacht has been estimated at slightly over five million dollars. The vessel was so designed that it can be converted into a hospital ship for the Royal Navy in time of war. The Britannia replaces the old royal yacht, Victoria and Albert, now out of service.

Folsom Sees U. S. Income Under Par Of Truman Figure

New York, April 16 (AP)—Undersectary of the Treasury Marion B. Folsom said today present prospects are that the federal government's income this year will be "substantially below" the estimate made by former President Truman.

If these prospects materialize, he said, the new administration's problem of balancing the budget will be made more difficult.

Judgment must be suspended on timing of tax cuts until the administration can determine how expenditures and income will compare in the next fiscal year, starting July 1, Folsom said.

Truman estimated receipts for this fiscal year, ending June 30, at $68,700,000,000.

Folsom did not say, in a speech prepared for the special tax conference of the Natural Industrial Conference Board here, by how much receipts would fall under that estimate.

As for the timing of tax cuts, Folsom said the first reduction must come in the excess profits tax now being levied on business concerns and in individual income tax rates. He disclosed no specific recommendations in either of these cases.

The excess profits tax is now scheduled to expire June 30. Income taxes are due to revert to pre-Korean levels on Jan. 1, but there is strong support in the House for a bill to advance the date to July 1.

Food Clerks Strike In 127 A & P Stores

New York, April 16 (AP)—Approximately 1,462 food clerks and department heads, members of Local 1500, AFL Retail Food Clerks Union, struck today in 127 A & P stores in Brooklyn and Queens, but the stores remained open.

The union charged the company refused to meet with its representatives to negotiate a contract. However, the company claimed the strike is a jurisdictional fight between two unions, involving legal technicalities scheduled for a labor board hearing May 4.

One to four pickets were placed at each of the stores by Local 1500. Max Block, president of Local 342, AFL Amalgamated Meat Cutters Union, said his members ignored the picket lines and were working.

Resent Refusal to Meet

A statement by the Retail Food Clerks Local said the "strike has been called as a result of the A & P's refusal to meet with an employe committee and union representatives for the purpose of negotiating a contract."

"Despite a five-to-one victory by the union in a National Labor Relations Board election on Feb. 19, 1953, and the subsequent certification by the board of the union as the legal and sole bargaining agent for these A & P employes the A & P has refused to recognize the union."

The statement also charged that the A & P "has said that it will not abide by the ruling of the National Labor Relations Board."

A company said it cannot deal with Local 150 because it has a union shop contract with Local 342, of the Meat Cutters Union.

Dewey Signs Bill To Allow Study Of Newburgh Span

Albany, April 16 (AP) — Gov. Dewey today signed a bill authorizing the State Bridge Authority to make a study of the need for a Hudson river bridge between Newburgh and Beacon.

Under terms of the measure, construction of the proposed 18-million-dollar project may not be started until a proposed structure between Kingston and Rhinecliff is completed.

Dewey said in a memorandum that the "provision of an additional crossing of the Hudson river at this point is represented as being of great economic value to the communities on both sides of the river."

"It is anticipated that increased highway traffic may make such an undertaking feasible from the revenue point of view within the not too distant future," Dewey said.

The bill, introduced by Majority Leader Lee B. Mailler, a Republican Assemblyman from Orange county, authorizes the bridge authority to make preliminary plans, surveys and estimates.

It also permits the authority to boost its maximum bond issue from 30 to 50 million dollars.

President Calls

tween the Soviet and free worlds, he said, "is insoluble—given only the will to respect the rights of all nations."

Specific Ideas Given

The President listed these specific steps:

1. Conclusion of an "honorable armistice" in Korea, followed by political discussions leading to "free elections in a United Korea."
2. An end to Red aggression in Indochina and Malaya.
3. Completion of an Austrian peace treaty.
4. Unification of Germany.
5. Creation of a European community with "full independence of the east European nations."

With progress on these issues, Eisenhower said the U. S. would welcome agreements on reduction of armaments. He then declared:

"This government is ready to ask its people to join with all nations in devoting a substantial percentage of the savings achieved by disarmament to a fund for world aid and reconstruction.

Purpose, for Humanity

"The purpose of this great work would be: To help other peoples to develop the undeveloped areas of the world, to stimulate profitable and fair world trade, to assist all peoples to know the blessings of productive freedom."

Repeatedly he hammered the point that the American government is interested in deeds, not "oratory" from the Kremlin and that the ideas of proven good faith and safeguards against violations underlie his five-point disarmament program.

He stated this program as:

1. Limitation, by fixed ceilings or by percentages, of the "military and security forces of all nations."
2. A pledge by all nations to limit production of strategic materials for military purposes.
3. International control of atomic energy for peaceful purposes "and to ensure prohibition of atomic weapons."
4. Limitation or prohibition of other weapons of "great destructiveness."
5. Enforcement of all these agreements by "adequate safeguards, including a practical system of inspection under the United Nations."

Details Are Complex

"The details of such disarmament programs are manifestly critical and complex," Eisenhower said. "Neither the U. S. nor any other nation can properly claim to possess a perfect, immutable formula.

"But the formula matters less than the faith—the good faith without which no formula can work justly and effectively."

Eisenhower evidently designed his speech as America's answer to the Soviet peace offensive which began immediately after Stalin's death on March 5.

Soviet Premier Malenkov has said that all problems between Russia and the U. S. can be solved and the Reds have made a number of peaceful gestures—including agreement on the exchange of sick and wounded prisoners in Korea starting next Monday.

Today Eisenhower pressed his question about what Russia is now prepared to do about achieving real peace. He asked:

"Is the new leadership of the Soviet Union prepared to use its decisive influence in the Communist world—including control of the flow of arms—to bring not merely an expedient truce in Korea but genuine peace in Asia?

"Is it prepared to allow other nations, including those of eastern Europe, the free choice of their own forms of government and the right to associate freely with other nations in a world-wide community of law?"

"Is it prepared to act in concert with others upon serious disarmament proposals to be made firmly effective by stringent UN controls and inspection?

"If not—where then, is the concrete evidence of the Soviet Union's concern for peace?"

No Ulterior Purpose

His own proposals, the President declared, "spring — without ulterior purpose or poliitcal passion—from our calm conviction that the hunger for just peace is in the hearts of all peoples—those of Russia and of China no less than of our own country."

"They conform to our firm faith," he added, "that God created men to enjoy, not destroy, the fruits of the earth and of their own toil."

The President's proposal to use a percentage of armaments costs for peaceful purposes throughout the world contained no figures.

However, according to the Truman administration's budget for fiscal year ending June 30, military spending will total about $51,200,000,000 aside from the bulk of the $10,500,000,000 foreign aid program which goes for armaments.

These figures show that, in the case of the U. S. alone, the diversion of a substantial percentage of its armament expenditures for world aid to the needy would run into billions of dollars.

The idea of diverting funds in this way has been suggested before. The late Sen. Brien McMahon (D-Conn.) proposed in a Senate speech Feb. 2, 1950, that the U. S. offer the world a global "Marshall Plan" of 50 billion dollars over a five-year period as a means of ending the cold war and averting possible atomic warfare.

Not New or Strange

Eisenhower noted in his speech that "this idea of a just and peaceful world is not new or strange to us."

"It inspired the people of the United States," he said, "to initiate the European Recovery Program (the Marshall Plan) in 1947."

In surveying events leading up to the cold war, the President remarked that in 1945, with World War 2 at an end, all people of the world stood at the threshold of "an age of just peace."

But this was short-lived, he said, and Russia went one way while the U. S. and the rest of the free world went another. The result, he said, has been tragic for all and ironic for the Soviet Union.

The President said the irony for Russia is that, while working to plant fear in the hearts of free men, the Kremlin succeeded only in unifying the free nations and in the end becoming a victim of that selfsame fear.

"Every gun that is made," he went on, "every warship launched, every rocket fired signifies—in the final sense—a theft from those who hunger and are not fed, those who are cold and are not clothed."

To bear such a burden Eisenhower said, "is not a way of life at all, in any true sense  it is humanity hanging from a cross of iron."

He said the new Soviet leadership, confronted with the free world's firm resistance to aggression, "now has a precious opportunity to awaken, with the rest of the world, to the point of peril reached and to help turn the tide of history."

Slowpoke Drivers

brought by the Communist party.

Introduced by Graci

The extension bill was introduced by Republican Assemblyman Angelo Graci of Queens.

Dewey also signed a bill that authorizes the Board of Regents to discipline physicians for "unprofessional conduct." Medicine had been the only profession in which unprofessional conduct was not listed as a ground for disciplinary action.

Dewey vetoed a bill that would have doubled the limits on amounts towns and villages could appropriate for publicity. (Assemblymen Edmund R. Lupton of Riverhead and Richard H. Knauf of Binghamton, both Republicans.)

Albany, N. Y., April 16 (AP)—The Public Works Department received a low bid of $28,807,092 today for construction of superstructure work on the Thruway's Hudson river bridge between South Nyack and Tarrytown.

The bid was submitted by the American Bridge Division of the U. S. Steel Corp., New York city.

The Thruway Authority had asked for bids last year but received none for a plan to build a tied-arch bridge. It then called for an alternate design—a cantilever-tuss main span.

Bertram D. Tallamy, chairman of the authority, said it was "particularly gratifying" that the change had "effected a substantial reduction in the cost of the bridge, running into several millions of dollars."

The bridge is scheduled for completion by Oct. 16, 1954. Award of the contract will be made as soon as the bid can be processed.

Yacht Is Launched

Clydebank, Scotland, April 16 (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II pressed an electric button today and launched her trim, new royal yacht. She named the 4,000-ton vessel the Britannia. The launching went off without a hitch. Even a strike of 500 platers in the shipyard did not affect the event. Cost of the yacht has been estimated at slightly over five million dollars. The vessel was so designed that it can be converted into a hospital ship for the Royal Navy in time of war. The Britannia replaces the old royal yacht, Victoria and Albert, now out of service.

27 Persons Are Killed

Hanoi, Indochina, April 16 (AP)—A two engine transport plane crashed and burned on the bank of the Red river near here today, killing 27 persons. The left engine on the Dakota, owned by the Aigle-Azur Company, caught fire soon after the takeoff.

4-H Members Show How Farm Duties Should Be Done

Representatives of 11 counties gave a total of 87 demonstrations at the 4-H Club District Demonstration Day on Tuesday at the First Baptist Church.

Ulster county 4-H Clubs were host to participants from Greene, Schoharie, Delaware, Columbia, Dutchess, Sullivan, Orange, Suffolk, Otsego and Nassau counties. David Fales, representing the state 4-H Club office, was in charge of the meeting.

The demonstrations included 22 on agricultural engineering, eight on conservation, 29 dairy, four home grounds improvement, 11 poultry and 11 vegetable crops.

Ulster Participants

Ulster county participants were Kenneth Osterhoudt of Tillson, who received a blue ribbon for his demonstration of sharpening the garden hoe and use of the hoe; Nelson Ellsworth of Port Ewen, whose poultry "keep or cull" demonstration earned a blue ribbon; and Verna Van de Water of New Paltz, who received a red ribbon for her demonstration of how to select a calf "on the record."

District blue ribbon winners will be invited to repeat their demonstrations at state meetings such as the state Club Congress, State Fair, or statewide gatherings pertaining to their particular project.

Extra Guards Assigned To Seize Stone Throwers

New York, April 16 (AP)—Police promised additional guards today in the Bronx where trains have been stoned 16 times since April 1.

Pvt. Thomas Hanley, 21, of Norwalk, Conn., was injured slightly yesterday in the 15th stoning when a jagged rock broke a window beside his seat. He was the fourth person hurt since the stonings began.

Hanley was riding in a New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad train that left New Haven at 11:53 a. m. for New York. Hanley, on his way to Fort Dix, N. J., for assignment to Korea, was treated at Grand Central Terminal and then continued to Fort Dix.

While he was being treated, the 16th stoning broke a window of the New Haven's Bay express due here from Boston at 2:15 p. m. Nobody was reported injured.

All the stonings have occurred in a section where the trains run about 15 feet below street level, between stone enbankments.

Two police patrol cars already have been assigned to the area in a search for the vandals. Police officials met yesterday and promised additional foot patrolmen.

The stonings are believed to be the work of boys, but nobody has been caught in the act or arrested.

A spokesman for the New York Central Railroad which operates the section of track said the stonings were an annual happening, coinciding with the opening of the baseball season, but that there had been more stonings this year than usual.

Pro-Peronists Hit

band of reinforced federal police stood precautionary guard over the independent newspaper La Nacion, only five blocks from the Jockey Club, but no attacks were made against the building.

Celebration Is Marred

The violence marred what had been planned as a triumphal celebration for Peron. The Plaza De Mayo meeting had been called by the pro-Peron General Confederation of Labor as a demonstration of united support for the president, now battling to control soaring prices and end a meat shortage.

The nation's armed forces broke tradition by lending their support to the labor-sponsored rally, in an apparent gesture to still rumors of dissension in the government.

The first bomb exploded near the Hotel Mayo on the south side of the square while Peron was speaking. It started a stampede among his hearers jamming the square. The second and smaller blast damaged a ventilator being built in the plaza for the subway system.

The explosions interrupted Peron momentarily, but neither bomb burst close to the government house balcony from which the president — surrounded by cabinet ministers, labor leaders and officers of the armed forces—was speaking.

Peron called on the crowd to remain quiet and hear him out. He blamed the nation's economic troubles on "organized psychological warfare, directed from abroad and carried out by agents inside the country.

"We must find these agents and hang them to a tree where we find them," he thundered.

BPW Accepts Two

at a bid of $50 for the season.

Each was the only bid received on the two parks and the stadium.

The board decided, on suggestion of Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, to transfer to the Common Council the leasing of the stadium concession starting next year. The council's building committee has been handling the leasing of the stadium and grounds for athletic and other events.

Suggests Permission

A proposal to extent Valentine avenue from where it now ends, to Linderman avenue, was left at a previous meeting with City Engineer Arthur F. Hallinan for consideration, and yesterday he suggested that permission be granted in compliance with provisions of the city charter and regulations of the planning board as to development and subdivision of properties in the area.

The street now extends from Pearl street to a point almost midway between that street and Linderman avenue. The secretary was instructed to notify Burton S. Davis, of V. Burgevin Inc., who had made the application, of its approval.

The board approved the use by the Little League of the upper diamond in Hasbrouck Park on condition that its use by the league did not exclude other groups and organizations from use of the field.

Andrew J. Murphy, 3rd, recreation superintendent, said other softball organizations have been using the diamond, but he felt the Little League schedule would work out so as not to interfere with other groups.

The Little League would use the diamond for games on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday each week during the baseball season.

To Install Light

The board voted to install a new light on the Wall street side of the George Washington School between Franklin and Henry streets, and to replace three present lights near the school with larger ones. The new light was requested by a resolution of Alderman Abram Relyea, 11th Ward.

The board voted to pay the Kingston Blacktop, Paving and Construction Co., $4,263.11 on recommendation of the city engineer, for work completed on the sewer project on Clinton avenue between Cedar and Henry streets.

A resolution by Alderman William Parmelee, 13th ward, asking for elimination of the Wilbur avenue dump, and one asking for repair of streets in his ward, were referred to Ernest A. Steuding, public works superintendent. One by Alderman Joseph Wenzel, fourth ward, asking for street repairs in his ward was also referred to Steuding.

A resolution by Alderman Samuel Perry, fifth ward, asking for a new light on Ponckhockie street, and one by Alderman John Dolan, eighth ward asking for a light on Augusta street, were referred to Commissioner Raymond L. Whitbeck, of the light committee.

County Curfew Is

roam the roads and get into mischief. He said Saugerties had instituted a program for this group but the parents did not support it. He said he felt the parents were at fault too.

Supervisor Eckert of Esopus pointed to a program sponsored by the Legion of his town to provide recreation. He said it was paying dividends. Eckert however questioned the enforcement of the curfew law in Kingston and said much of the minor offenses were being committed right here in Kingston where a curfew law is now on the books. How well the curfew law was being enforced here he did not know but he suggested better recreation facilities might eliminate much of the difficulty among the youth.

To Present Credentials

Moscow, April 16 (AP)—Charles E. Bohlen, new U. S. ambassador to Russia, will present his credentials Monday to Marshal Klementy Voroshilov, chairman of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet. The Kremlin ceremony will give the envoy full official status. (Voroshilov is the figurehead "president" of the Soviet government.)

Love Your Dentist, Psychiatrist Suggests

San Francisco, April 16 (AP)—Your dentist is more to be pitied than censured—he's all broken up because everybody hates him and he's unconsciously seeking a release from his tension.

That is what a San Francisco psychiastrist told the California State Dental Association yesterday.

Knowing that you dislike him before he even gets his forceps on you, the dentist works up so much tension that he may, without realizing it, actually become sadistic, said Dr. Douglas G. Campbell.

Supervisors Reject

ferred to the recent disastrous fire in Florida where many aged welfare people had perished. "I am just not proud of the care of our old folks in some of the nursing homes," said Wilson. He also stated that he had been informed that in Rockland county where a system was in effect it had been found that to maintain the alarm system additional help had been required and the system was now costing $30,000 a year to operate.

Supervisor Gaffney of Lloyd said his town was tied in with Dutchess county but he said he felt Ulster county would be "missing the boat" if they did not put in a radio alarm system. He said he understood the system in Suffern was costing about $5,000 to man.

George Opposes System

Supervisor George of Denning spoke against the radio system, saying he was one of the Democrats who was an "economist" and he said rather than spend $50,000 on a radio system which might not work, the county should build some necessary bridges and do other necessary work. In his town was a bridge which needed to be rebuilt, it now could not permit passage of any fire truck over it. "Build bridges and take care of our aged people first," concluded George.

Supervisor Martin of the Twelfth Ward also opposed the radio system, saying that economy was necessary at this time. Kingston was saddled with too great a tax burden now and we need to spend considerable in putting our streets in shape. He opposed the plan because of the "high share" of the cost which the city would have to assume.

The vote followed and the motion to grant consent to spend up to $53,000 for the plan was defeated.

Sack, Sad . . .

understood some other correspondents were going to board it later. The boat left Cheju City about 10:30 a. m. Tuesday. It anchored offshore until about 11:30, waiting for an LCVP (a small landing craft) to come out. The crew thought correspondents were arriving from Pusan by plane and would come out on the LCVP to join us.

"But when the LCVP came out there was nobody aboard but two official army photographers— a major and an enlisted man.

"I rubbed my hands and said to myself, 'ah-ha, I've got the story to myself.' I didn't know about the regulations barring correspondents."

Sack said he would prefer not to say anything about the 22 hour trip to Pusan until he had been cleared by the army. He thought it best not to write a story about the trip until it was cleared by Public Information officers.

"Actually nothing happened during the trip," he said. "I got a feature story and that's all."

After the ship arrived at Pusan, all but a handful of the Chinese prisoners aboard staged a short sit-down strike, refusing to leave the ship. Sack had walked off the ship and been taken into custody before the demonstration got serious.

Sack has been with the Stars and Stripes since last November. Recently he was in the frontlines during the battle in which American and Columbian soldiers lost Old Baldy Hill on the western front to the Chinese Reds.

Proposal Made

from the County Superintendent of Highways suggesting the board make available funds to the credit of the sheriff to provide guards and deputy sheriff protection at the Leggs Mills bridge which will be called upon to bear a great deal of traffic off the Thruway. No action.

A petition signed by thirteen citizens of the town of Shandaken was received calling for construction of a bridge over the Esopus at the site of the Herdman bridge which was washed out in 1950. Since then the road had been relocated to provide access for the people but they now seek a new bridge which would provide more direct access. Referred to the county attorney.

Supervisor A. J. Snyder of Rosendale offered a resolution that the bridge over the Rondout at Rosendale leading to station hill be placed on the Secondary Federal Aid Program. This would provide that the bridge be reconstructed with Federal funds and maintained by the county after construction. The resolution was approved with Supervisor Fitchner voting "no."

Supervisor Martin reported on a meeting with county superintendent of highways and the recently appointed committee to discuss traffic and the proposal to raze the Washington avenue viaduct to eliminate that bottle-neck. He said it was a city problem but the board was willing to lend its assistance to any petition to the Public Service Commission to authorize removal of the viaduct. A plan for diverting traffic from the Thruway north of Kingston had also been discussed. He asked that the committee, which includes Supervisors Martin, Bush and Relyea, be continued in order that it might meet with the Common Council and mayor of Kingston to further discuss the matter.

Will Pay Damage

Edward John Paulus, whose automobile damaged the steps at the county clerk's office some time ago, has agreed to pay $50 for the damage and the county attorney was authorized to prepare a release for Paulus to sign when the damage has been paid for.

Permission was granted by the board for the Kingston police department to use the basement of the county jail for city prisoners.

The public hearing on the question as to whether the office of county commissioner of public welfare shall be continued as an elective office or changed to an appointive office as provided by a new law, will be held at the court house at 8 p. m. on April 28.

The sum of $8,000 from a $12,000 appropriation made to the Breakneck road in Marlborough was transferred to the Western Avenue route.

Action on the two-way radio system for the fire companies of the county, which was defeated, concluded the work and the board adjourned to meet at 9 p. m. on April 28. An account of the two-way radio controversy appears in another column.

Every office has at least one character who is sure he knows more about the filing system than the file clerks.

Optometrists Hold Meeting at Statler April 19, 20, 21

The annual meeting of the Eastern States Optometric Congress will be held at the Statler Hotel, New York, on April 19, 20 and 21, it was announced today by S. Rudisch of 281 Fair street who is in charge of reservations for the Hudson Valley area.

Persons interested in making reservations may do so by contacting Rudisch, telephone 3840.

Two main subjects to be considered at the meeting will be Reading Tests with Tachistoscopic Training (training to speed up reading and comprehension ability) and The Strabismic (cross-eyed) Patient.

In addition to the regular congress staff under the leadership of A. M. Skeffington there will be specialists attending such as Thaddeus R. Murroughs, Dr. John Paul Nafe and Dr. Leo Manas, Rudisch said.

He asked that the committee, which includes Supervisors Martin, Bush and Relyea, be continued in order that it might meet with the Common Council and mayor of Kingston to further discuss the matter.

Will Pay Damage

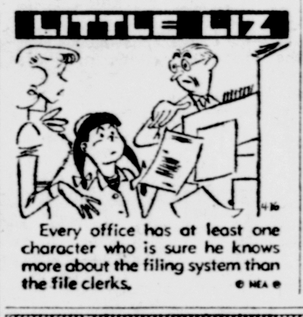
Edward John Paulus, whose automobile damaged the steps at the county clerk's office some time ago, has agreed to pay $50 for the damage and the county attorney was authorized to prepare a release for Paulus to sign when the damage has been paid for.

Permission was granted by the board for the Kingston police department to use the basement of the county jail for city prisoners.

The public hearing on the question as to whether the office of county commissioner of public welfare shall be continued as an elective office or changed to an appointive office as provided by a new law, will be held at the court house at 8 p. m. on April 28.

The sum of $8,000 from a $12,000 appropriation made to the Breakneck road in Marlborough was transferred to the Western Avenue route.

Action on the two-way radio system for the fire companies of the county, which was defeated, concluded the work and the board adjourned to meet at 9 p. m. on April 28. An account of the two-way radio controversy appears in another column.



Every office has at least one character who is sure he knows more about the filing system than the file clerks.

Optometrists Hold Meeting at Statler April 19, 20, 21

The annual meeting of the Eastern States Optometric Congress will be held at the Statler Hotel, New York, on April 19, 20 and 21, it was announced today by S. Rudisch of 281 Fair street who is in charge of reservations for the Hudson Valley area.

Persons interested in making reservations may do so by contacting Rudisch, telephone 3840.

Two main subjects to be considered at the meeting will be Reading Tests with Tachistoscopic Training (training to speed up reading and comprehension ability) and The Strabismic (crosseyed) Patient.

In addition to the regular congress staff under the leadership of A. M. Skeffington there will be specialists attending such as Thaddeus R. Murroughs, Dr. John Paul Nafe and Dr. Leo Manas, Rudisch said.

Eaton Urges Full Support of Vital Jewish Campaign

Current manifestations of anti-Semitism in Eastern Europe and growing tension in Moslem countries, involving a combined total of 3,160,000 Jews, makes it imperative that Israel's economy be rapidly strengthened so that it can continue as a sanctuary for all Jews in danger, it was pointed out today by Herman J. Eaton, chairman of the United Jewish Welfare Fund in behalf of the nation wide United Jewish Appeal.

He said that there are about 2,500,000 Jews behind the Iron Curtain and some 660,000 in Moslem lands.

Stressing that 1953 represents the most crucial year in the United Jewish Appeal's nearly 15 years of life saving service, Eaton noted that "a reinforcement of the new State's economic capacity is of compelling urgency since Israel must not only conquer its own economic problems, but must also be in a position to keep its doors open for all who seek safety and freedom."

"As an integral part of its program of aid to Jews in distressed areas throughout the world, United Jewish Appeal dollars must flow to Israel not only on a humanitarian basis, but as an effective means of strengthening the fastest-growing democracy in the world," Eaton said. "For this vital purpose," he continued, "and for the United Jewish Appeal's total program of immigration, welfare, relief and rehabilitation, nearly $145,000,000 is absolutely necessary."

The United Jewish Appeal's drive this year, Eaton explained, "is a life saving campaign of greatest urgency, in behalf of both those who may escape from Iron Curtain countries and nearly half a million dependent Jews already in Israel, Western Europe and Moslem lands. One of the primary and most pressing tasks in Israel," he said, "is to aid 111,000 recent newcomers now living in hastily-constructed temporary work settlements. They must be transferred to new permanent farm villages where they can become self-sustaining in the shortest possible time," he pointed out.

"Israel," he declared, "will not be able to receive additional hundreds of thousands of homeless victims if it continues to be burdened by a large mass of dependent newcomers from previous waves of immigration."

"By helping transfer these 111,000 recent immigrants to new farm communities, we make available to the entire State of Israel a tremendous supply of agricultural workers equipped to help solve the nation's food problem. Thus, our dollars do double duty, both to present and future immigrants and to the new state itself," he declared.

"Contributions to the United Jewish Appeal campaign," Eaton noted, " will also be used to transport thousands to Israel. Many of these future citizens of the State of Israel have waited for years in Europe's distressed areas and in the ghettos of Moslem countries, while others will include those who have found their way out from behind the Iron Curtain, or may do so in the future."

Little Norway Is Sardine-Wise

NORWAY SARDINE CREPES are an economical party surprise that originated with housewives of Minnesota's "Little Norway."

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Minnesota is called America's "Little Norway." There are 300,000 Norwegian-Americans there and they, like their forebears, are a fish-eating people.

Housewives of Norwegian descent are artists with the delicate sardine from the fjords of the old country. Here are two of their delightful but economical recipes using Norway sardines. They will perk up any lazy springtime appetite.

Norway Sardine Crepes
(5 servings)

Crepe Batter—One cup flour, 2 whole eggs, 2 cups milk, salt, pepper to taste.

To prepare crepe batter, mix flour, eggs, milk and seasoning, and strain through a fine sieve. Pour batter into a well-buttered frying pan and cook on both sides.

Stuffing — Three (3¾-ounce) tins Norway sardines, 1 cup finely chopped spinach, 1 tablespoon chopped onion, 2 tablespoons cream sauce, dash of nutmeg, salt, pepper to taste.

To prepare filling, drain oil from sardines and mash sardines. Fry the onions in butter until golden grown. Add the spinach and sardines, and when hot, add the cream sauce and seasoning. Bring to a boil and let cool. Spread the preparation over the crepes. Then roll crepes, sprinkle with grated cheese and lightly brown under a broiler.

Sardine Mixed Grill
(Makes 4 servings)

Two (3¾-ounce) tins Norway sardines, 4 fillets of lemon sole, 8 jumbo shrimp, 4 halves of tomatoes, 4 heads of mushrooms, parsleyed butter, bread crumbs.

Drain oil from sardines. Roll sardines, fillets of sole, shrimp and halves of tomatoes in bread crumbs. Sprinkle with olive oil and grill to a golden brown.

Dress all on a platter, with the sardines and sole in the center and the shrimp and tomatoes arranged around them. Top tomatoes with broiled mushroom heads. Sprinkle parsleyed butter over platter. Garnish with bouquet of parsley and lemon. Serve mayonnaise or tartare sauce on the side.

TOMORROW'S MENU

BREAKFAST: Rhubarb sauce, codfish cakes, whole wheat toast, butter or margarine, tart jelly, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Melted cheese and tomatoes on toasted English muffins, cabbage salad, layer cake, tea, milk.

DINNER: Norway sardine mixed grill garnished with lemon and watercress, tartare sauce, parsley boiled new potatoes, French rolls, butter or margarine, spring salad, French dressing, lemon chiffon pie, coffee, milk.

Fighters Hunt Food

Kuala Lumpur, Malaya (AP) — Men of the 1st Battalion of the King's African Rifles are taking the campaign to wipe out the Communists' food supplies right into the depths of the Malayan jungle. While police and home guards prevent food being taken out of towns and villages, the Askaris from Nyasaland strike into the jungles and wipe out Red vegetable plots. In Pahang state alone, where the Africans are operating, they have uprooted and burned 82 enemy gardens.

Mexico has had to import corn, its staple grain, in recent years because of increased demand.

De Sapio Declares Impy Abdicates In Favor of Dewey

New York, April 16 (AP)—Tammany Hall leader Carmine G. De Sapio says Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri "has abdicated in favor of Gov. Dewey."

"The people want a candidate who will see to it that Thomas Dewey is not reelected mayor of the city of New York this November," the leader of the Manhattan Democratic organization said.

Without mentioning Impellitteri by name in a speech last night, De Sapio in effect cut the mayor off from the possibility of Democratic organization support.

Impellitteri, who was denied the nomination of his own Democratic party, was elected mayor in November, 1950, with minor party and independent support. He long has been at odds with the Tammany Hall leadership, and was not present at last night's $50-a-plate Tammany dinner at which De Sapio spoke. The mayor was not invited.

De Sapio told the dinner audience of more than 1,500 persons that Dewey's financial program for New York city, passed by the GOP - state - approved controlled Legislature, and impending rent increases will impose an "'intolerable burden" on the people of the city.

Impellitteri has gone along with a major part of the Dewey fiscal program—reluctantly in part, he said—in an effort to balance the budget and cope with the city's financial crisis.

Impellitteri has not announced whether he will seek reelection in November.

De Sapio said New York city should not submit to what he called "one-man rule" by Dewey as a substitute for the home rule guaranteed by the State Constitution. The Tammany leader added: "Dewey has complete and autocratic control of the state government. And now he is permitted to capture New York city."

Dewey Makes Claim

Dewey has claimed that he, his state fiscal advisers and the Legislature had to act to save the city's financial structure because, he said, of local mismanagement.

In his speech De Sapio called Dewey's proposal for a city manager here "the magical solution for the ills of our local government, the medicine man for our economic aches and pains, and a smoke screen designed to make the voters forget the 150 million dollar (state rent increase) bonus to the real estate interests and the increased transit fare."

The 10-cent transit fare is expected to rise under a transit authority, proposed by Dewey and tentatively approved by the city board of estimate.

New York, April 16 (AP)—Tammany Hall leader Carmine G. De Sapio says Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri "has abdicated in favor of Gov. Dewey."

"The people want a candidate who will see to it that Thomas Dewey is not reelected mayor of the city of New York this November," the leader of the Manhattan Democratic organization said.

Without mentioning Impellitteri by name in a speech last night, De Sapio in effect cut the mayor off from the possibility of Democratic organization support.

Impellitteri, who was denied the nomination of his own Democratic party, was elected mayor in November, 1950, with minor party and independent support. He long has been at odds with the Tammany Hall leadership, and was not present at last night's $50-a-plate Tammany dinner at which De Sapio spoke. The mayor was not invited.

De Sapio told the dinner audience of more than 1,500 persons that Dewey's financial program for New York city, passed by the GOP-state-approved controlled Legislature, and impending rent increases will impose an "intolerable burden" on the people of the city.

Impellitteri has gone along with a major part of the Dewey fiscal program—reluctantly in part, he said—in an effort to balance the budget and cope with the city's financial crisis.

Impellitteri has not announced whether he will seek reelection in November.

De Sapio said New York city should not submit to what he called "one-man rule" by Dewey as a substitute for the home rule guaranteed by the State Constitution. The Tammany leader added: "Dewey has complete and autocratic control of the state government. And now he is permitted to capture New York city."

Hudson Convocation Held in Rosendale

The spring dinner meeting of the Hudson Convocation of the Episcopal Diocese of New York was held last night at the grange hall in Rosendale. Standing, (l-r) Rev. Peter Hill, rector of Trinity Church, Saugerties, secretary of the convocation; Theodor Oxholm, assistant treasurer of the Diocese of New York and treasurer of the board of managers; Rev. Charles H. Brieant, priest in charge of All Saints Church, Rosendale, St. John's at High Falls and St. Peter's in Stone Ridge, and the Rev. John W. Pyle, chaplain for college work. Seated, (l-r), Rev. Alan H. Tongue, associate rector of St. George's, Newburgh; Rev. Harold F. Hohly, rector of Christ Church, Bronxville, guest speaker; Rt. Rev. Charles Boynton, suffragan bishop of the diocese; Venerable George F. Bratt, archdeacon of the diocese.

Episcopal Diocese Meets in Rosendale

Rosendale, April 15—The spring dinner and meeting of the Hudson Convocation of the Episcopal Diocese of New York was held Tuesday evening, April 14, at the Rosendale Grange Hall, with over 150 representatives from numerous parishes in the convocation.

The Rev. Harold F. Hohly of Christ Church, Bronxville, was the principal guest speaker. Speaking on Modern Man In Search of Community, he stated that there are two theories today, individualism, in which man believes himself to be all important, and the state is made up of a collection of individuals, and the Christian concept of society and state, which he believes should predominate.

In such a state, society would be more of a community state, in which all persons would be of equal value to society. Speaking of the atomic age, and the atom bomb, the speaker said, "We don't need the A bomb to blow us to Hell; we are nearly there now!" Once society is alienated from God, then we are alienated from one another, he added.

The answer to this, the speaker concluded, is the Christian church and religion. The church, he emphasized, is really what matters. In speaking of the so-termed Communist threat, he stated that the reason why there is a threat, is because the Communist knows what he wants, while the Christian does not.

Other speakers included the Rev. John W. Pyle, Chaplain for College Work, who briefly described his duties, and Theodor Oxholm, assistant treasurer of the Diocese of New York and treasurer of the board of managers.

Following a turkey dinner, the convication adopted new by-laws and elected officers. The Rev. Robert T. Shellenberger of Kingston was elected and installed as dean, replacing the Rev. Alan H. Tongue, who resigned after a two year tenure. The Rev. Charles H. Brieant welcomed the group to Rosendale. This was the first convocation ever to be held in Rosendale.

Woman's Club Meets

Rosendale, April 15—The April meeting of the Woman's Club of Rosendale was held recently at St. Peter's School Hall with Mrs. E. Huben, Mrs. James Fahey and Miss Buckley as hostesses. It was planned to send a delegation to the Third District annual meeting of the New York State Federation of Womans Clubs which was held at the St. James Methodist Church in Kingston Wednesday evening, April 15. A donation towards a scholarship fund was voted to be made at this meeting.

Plans were discussed regarding the presentation of a fashion show in the fall. Further details will be announced at a later date.

A suggestion was made and adopted that names be drawn at the May meeting for a "secret pal." Members are requested to bring their names, birth date and anniversary date on a slip of paper at the next meeting.

Many useful items have been contributed towards the loan closet project. However, the club has delayed purchasing a hospital bed until such time that the alterations have been made in the Grange hall to accommodate the loan closet. Any item in good condition will be gladly received for use in this project, it was announced. Several pairs of crutches have been promised to date. Following the business meeting, refreshments were served.

Time for Action

Athens (AP)—Hitchhiker John Gaitandidis secretly boarded a truck traveling from Volos to Larissa and slipped inside a coffin out of the rain. Along the road, the driver stopped for a pair of villagers who climbed into the back of the truck. The villagers screamed when the lid of the coffin opened slowly and a hand came out. When the "corpse" sat straight up—they jumped.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

This Bridge Hand Good for Slam Bid

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

South's decision to bid a slam in today's hand was reasonable enough. It was a cinch that North had the king of diamonds and a high heart for his response of two-no-trump. Very little else was needed to give South a reasonable play for his slam.

When West opened a low club, South indulged in the luxury of a moment's thought. Since there was no particular advantage in risking a club finesse, South counted on winning only two top clubs. He knew he could eventually with one spade, as a result of which he needed five trump tricks to make his contract.

The easiest way to make a total of five trump tricks was to win three high trumps in one hand and two ruffing tricks in the other hand. There was no way to get ruffing tricks in the dummy without developing the spades, but it was easy to get ruffing tricks in the South hand without any risk at all.

After winning the first trick in dummy with the king of clubs, declarer promptly cashed the ace of clubs and ruffed a low club with the king of hearts. He next led a low heart to dummy's seven. East refused the trick, hoping that South would continue with a second round of trumps.

East would then be able to take the ace of hearts and lead a third trump to deprive the South hand of further ruffs.

South easily evaded this trap by abandoning trumps temporarily. Instead, he led dummy's last club and ruffed in his own hand with the jack of hearts. Now it was safe to lead a second trump from the South hand. Dummy played the ten, and East could gain nothing by withholding his ace.

East returned a spade, but there was no need for South to risk the finesse. The contract was home without a second spade trick. South put up the ace of spades and entered dummy with the king of diamonds in order to discard two spades on dummy's remaining trumps.

Since South had already discarded one spade on the ace of clubs he could now claim the rest of the tricks with high diamonds.

This Bridge Hand Good for Slam Bid

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

South's decision to bid a slam in today's hand was reasonable enough. It was a cinch that North had the king of diamonds and a high heart for his response of two-no-trump. Very little else was needed to give South a reasonable play for his slam.

When West opened a low club, South indulged in the luxury of a moment's thought. Since there was no particular advantage in risking a club finesse, South counted on winning only two top clubs. He knew he could eventually with one spade, as a result of which he needed five trump tricks to make his contract.

The easiest way to make a total of five trump tricks was to win three high trumps in one hand and two ruffing tricks in the other hand. There was no way to get ruffing tricks in the dummy without developing the spades, but it was easy to get ruffing tricks in the South hand without any risk at all.

After winning the first trick in dummy with the king of clubs, declarer promptly cashed the ace of clubs and ruffed a low club with the king of hearts. He next led a low heart to dummy's seven. East refused the trick, hoping that South would continue with a second round of trumps.

East would then be able to take the ace of hearts and lead a third trump to deprive the South hand of further ruffs.

South easily evaded this trap by abandoning trumps temporarily. Instead, he led dummy's last club and ruffed in his own hand with the jack of hearts. Now it was safe to lead a second trump from the South hand. Dummy played the ten, and East could gain nothing by withholding his ace.

East returned a spade, but there was no need for South to risk the finesse. The contract was home without a second spade trick. South put up the ace of spades and entered dummy with the king of diamonds in order to discard two spades on dummy's remaining trumps.

Since South had already discarded one spade on the ace of clubs he could now claim the rest of the tricks with high diamonds.

Ruminator suggests you read the full text of Viscount Montgomery's address if you can get hold of U. S. News and World Report for April 10.)

It is really important to think hard on this defensive-offensive problem because in this one thought lies the future outlook.

Take the matter of strategy. Obviously, it is one thing to plan your strategy when you are on the offense and quite another when you are on the defense. As a matter of fact, when you are on the defense you may not be able to hold to any strategical plan: your opponent will probably destroy your strategy by his offensive moves.

This whole strategical concept comes up in games as well as in war or politics.

There is a little book published that will help you to grasp the idea. I recommend you look for it in your library, or buy it. It is titled "Strategy in Poker, Business & War" by John McDonald. (W. W. Norton & Co., publisher—$2.50) This is a layman's interpretation of the extraordinarily complex and abstract thesis, "Theory of Games and Economic Behavior" by John von Neumann and Oskar Morgenstern.

14 Are Rescued

Taipeh, Formosa, April 16 (AP)—U. S. naval vessel rescued 14 survivors and picked up 27 bodies after a small Chinese Nationalist steamer caught fire and sank in the Formosa channel Monday, it was announced today. Twenty-three other persons are missing and believed dead. The steamer Lien Sheng carried 52 passengers and a crew of 12.

Cotton is the principal money crop in South Carolina.

Urges Controls

Arthur S. Flemming, Defense Mobilization Director, on April 15 urges the House Banking Committee to continue general rent controls over some 5,550,000 housing units in 32 states until Oct. 1. He spoke against a hurry-up move in the House to kill almost all remaining Federal rent controls on April 30.

Pledges Better Life

Taipeh, Formosa, April 16 (AP)—Formosa's new governor, O. K. Yui, was sworn in this morning and pledged himself to "better the livelihood of the people  and to carry out established policies of our government aimed at recovery of the mainland." Yui, a banker, former Nationalist finance minister and one-time mayor of Shanghai, was named to the governorship following the resignation of K. C. Wu.

GI Students Won't Get Checks During Summer Vacation

Veterans of the Korean conflict enrolled in schools for training under the Korean GI Bill will not receive allowance checks for the months of summer vacation, but are entitled to allowances during holiday recesses such as Christmas and Easter periods.

This announcement was made to the press today by F. William Sheehan, officer in charge, Veterans Administration, 286 Fair street, where information is always available pertaining to all veterans' affairs. The phone is 5180.

The types of breaks in training for which allowances will be paid are:

1. Regularly-established recesses between terms, quarters, or semesters.

2. Regular school vacation periods that occur during the school year—but these do not include the summer vacation when a veteran is not in class.

Sheehan said two provisions have to be met before a veteran-trainee may receive his allowance for recesses and vacation periods: (1) The school must be operating on a regular semester or quarter basis and must certify on the veteran's enrollment certificate that he had been enrolled for the full year; (2) the veteran actually must have resumed his training after the between-terms break.

VA's ruling will apply to veterans in school under the Korean GI Bill during the 1952-53 school year. Adjustments are now being made in the case of any veterans who have not been paid for their breaks in training. Sheehan asks these veterans not to write in about their cases, since letters will only serve to slow up the review process.

Meets Death as Small Car Runs Under Truck

New London, Conn., April 16 (AP)—James Johnson, 34, of Hempstead, N. Y., died in a hospital yesterday of injuries he received in an unusual highway accident early last Monday in nearby Groton.

State Policeman Joseph G. Guilbeault said Johnson suffered internal injuries when the small foreign-made car (German Volkswagen) he was driving ran under the rear of a large tractor-trailer truck on Route 84.

Guilbeault said the roof of the small car was smashed in, although the hood hardly was damaged.

The trooper identified the truck driver as John Szylin, 24, of Providence, R. I. He quoted Szylin as saying he turned into Route 84 without seeing any oncoming traffic. Szylin said he slammed on his brakes when he heard the crash beneath the trailer, owned by the Arrow Transportation Lines.

The accident still is under investigation and no charges were immediately made, Guilbeault said.

Alonzo Alvarez de Pineda was the first European to see the Rio Grande, in 1519.

Weekly Food Review

(By The Associated Press)

Good buys in the nation's food stores this week were more plentiful among vegetables than meats. For the most part, meat prices held about the same as a week ago.

Vegetable counters were crammed with good quality produce, often at attractive prices. Outstanding values reported by stores in many sections of the country included cabbage, carrots, celery, lettuce, onions and potatoes. Spinach was added to the list of good buys, and many stores featured fresh sweet corn.

The wholesale produce markets, carefully watching price trends, noted that cucumbers were moving into a reasonable price range. They also reported that tomatoes were a little lower and recommended small peppers as representing better value than the larger ones.

Asparagus, mentioned frequently by stores in recent weeks as a good buy, crept up a bit in price this week. Beans and beets also edged higher.

Difficult to Spot Trends

It was difficult to detect lower price trends among meats. Rather, it was largely a matter of particular items being chosen by different stores and chains as weekend features.

Among specials reported by stores in various parts of the country were ground beef, chuck roast, round roast, round steak and legs and rumps of veal.

Sirloin steak and rib roast, long available at bargain prices, remained the same in most stores, but in some were up two to four cents a pound. Pork chops and leg of lamb were mostly unchanged in price. Frying chickens were down four to eight cents a pound in some stores and up two to six cents in others.

Butter prices were about the same, but the cost of a dozen eggs moved up as much as four cents in some cities. Wholesale men said eggs were higher in the midwest because many are being purchased for storage by packers and the armed forces.

There were some specials on Florida and California oranges. Otherwise the fruit department was bare of special bargains.

Reflecting a drop in green coffee prices, wholesale quotations went down about 1½ cents a pound. Lower retail prices were expected shortly by men in the industry.

Pipito Will Resign

New York, April 16 (AP)—Resignation of Assistant State Industrial Commissioner Frank T. Pipito of Albany, effective April 30, was announced today by Industrial Commissioner Edward Corsi. Corsi said Pipito indicated in his letter of resignation that he desired to devote full time to the private practice of law in Albany. The commissioner said the resignation was regretted by himself and others in the department.

Ruminator suggests you read the full text of Viscount Montgomery's address if you can get hold of U. S. News and World Report for April 10.)

It is really important to think hard on this defensive-offensive problem because in this one thought lies the future outlook.

Take the matter of strategy. Obviously, it is one thing to plan your strategy when you are on the offense and quite another when you are on the defense. As a matter of fact, when you are on the defense you may not be able to hold to any strategical plan: your opponent will probably destroy your strategy by his offensive moves.

This whole strategical concept comes up in games as well as in war or politics.

There is a little book published that will help you to grasp the idea. I recommend you look for it in your library, or buy it. It is titled "Strategy in Poker, Business & War" by John McDonald. (W. W. Norton & Co., publisher—$2.50) This is a layman's interpretation of the extraordinarily complex and abstract thesis, "Theory of Games and Economic Behavior" by John von Neumann and Oskar Morgenstern.

Committee Okays Wolcott Bill

Washington, April 16 (AP)—The House Banking Committee today approved an administration-opposed bill by Chairman Wolcott (R.-Mich.) to knock out rent ceilings April 30 on about five million housing units in 32 states.

Committee members said the vote, in a closed session, was 16 to 10.

Republicans were said to have solidly backed Wolcott's proposal despite pleas from the Eisenhower administration for an extension of general rent controls until Oct. 1.

Rep. Spence (D.-Ky.), former chairman and senior Democrat on the committee told a reporter "It's another case of the Democrats fighting for the President's programs against the members of his own party." He had predicted in advance that most Democrats would join with the administration on the issue.

Wolcott, denying any sharp dispute with the administration, said he looked for House passage of his bill early next week.

There was talk of a June 30 compromise date for the end of the curbs, but the committee action left any such move to be made in the House itself.

Three Are Sentenced

Salt Lake City, April 16 (AP)—Three members of the Woody Herman dance band were given probationary sentences yesterday after being convicted of violating federal narcotics laws. U. S. District Judge Willis W. Ritter specified that each of the three must report on his activities by letter once each month for a term of three years. If in that period the reports are satisfactory Ritter said there would be no further penalty. Sentences of two years in prison and fines of $2,000 could have been given the three men, Louis Michael Desanto, 26, of Philadelphia, Pa.; John Richard Hafer 26, Wyomissing, Pa., and Sam Staff, 24, 561 E. Broadway, Long Beach, N. Y. The three were arrested last Oct. 26 while the band was playing an engagement here. Police officers charged they found $100 worth of marihuana in a hotel room and automobile used by the men.

Showdown Is Blocked

Tehran, Iran, April 16 (AP)—Parliament deputies opposing Premier Mohammed Mossadegh today successfully blocked a showdown move by the aged Nationalist leader in his fight to deprive Iran's Shah of control of the armed forces. Eight opposition deputies left town, preventing the quorum necessary for a meeting of Parliament's Lower House (Majlis) at which Mossadegh had planned to demand approval for his bill to cut the Shah's power. The opposition move also knocked the wind out of a massive demonstration this morning supporting the premier by some 20,000 persons—at least 5,000 of them from the Communist Tudeh. From early morning, Tehran was keyed to a high pitch of excitement as crowds converged on the Majlis Square.

Hanechak Goes Home

John Hanechak, 28, of Woodstock, L. I., who was injured in an accident Sunday night on the Onteora Trail near the Avalon Inn, was discharged from the Kingston Hospital on Wednesday, the hospital reported. A sheriff's office report stated Hanechak was a passenger in an automobile driven by George Johnson, 26, of 8 Hemlock street, which was in collision with an automobile driven by Deputy Sheriff George A. Reynolds of Woodstock. Reynolds and Johnson were treated at the hospital, and Johnson was scheduled for a hearing April 20 on a charge of reckless driving.

Delinquency Rate Drops

Albany, April 16 (AP)—The rate of juvenile delinquency dropped slightly in New York last year, "an indication of the general stability of the state's youth," the State Youth Commission reports. The 1952 rate was 5.21 cases per 1,000 children, compared to 5.31 in 1951, Executive Secretary Lee C. Dowling said yesterday. Dowling predicted that the number of children brought into court on delinquency petitions probably would go up in each of the next few years as a result of "a vastly increasing juvenile population."

Adenauer Is Guest

New York, April 16 (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany was the honor guest last night as 2,700 persons jammed Carnegie Hall to capacity to hear a special concert of German music. The visiting German statesman and his daughter, Lotte, attended the benefit performance to aid displaced German war orphans and refugees in Berlin. Adenauer had intended to stay only one hour because of other engagements. However, his interest in the music kept him in the hall for the duration of the two-hour concert.

Wedding Date Announced

Fontainebleau, France, April 16 (AP)—The wedding of Miss Ann Ruml, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Beardsley Ruml of New York, and Lt. Col. John D. D. Doyle, nephew of the late Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, creator of Sherlock Holmes, will take place April 18 in Paris, it was announced today. Miss Ruml, who is well known in New York society circles, is a native of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and a graduate of Vassar. She has been employed by the Tobey Associates, New York public relations specialists.

Auto Is Recovered

State police at Highland notified local police yesterday that the car of Robert Stewart, 22 Stuyvesant street, which was reported stolen April 10, has been recovered.

UN Will Tell Reds

half of the first 100 POWs to be exchanged Monday at Panmunjom are non-Koreans. UN officials were hopeful as many as 50 Americans will be freed. The Communists have promised that 120 Americans will be among 600 UN prisoners returned.

The Reds said they would reveal Sunday the exact number from the U. S. and other allied nations to be traded Monday.

Six Vehicles Sighted

The U. S. Fifth Air Force said reconnaissance planes sighted six vehicles of the Red POW convoy on the outskirts of Kaesong before dusk.

These vehicles apparently were elements of two convoys which joined north of Kaesong earlier Thursday. Other units were strung along the road 40 miles north to Sinmak as darkness fell, the air force said.

Units of a third convoy were 15 miles north of Pyongyang, North Korean capital. They still were moving southward at 5 p. m.

For the second day, allied reconnaissance pilots reported the Reds were using the attack free route of POWs convoys to shield streams of Communist supply trucks headed for the front.

At a staff officers meeting Thursday the allies informed the Reds that the first group of Communist sick and wounded would leave Pusan aboard a 12-car train Sunday noon and arrive at Munsan early Monday.

Red staff officers again asked for renewal of full-scale armistice talks, suspended by the United Nations last Oct. 8. The UN has not replied to the request.

Told What to Say

In Washington Wednesday, officials said Gen. Mark Clark, UN Far East commander, had been instructed what to tell the Reds. Details were secret, but it was assumed Clark would accept Red proposals for resuming the talks.

At the staff officers meeting, the UN command handed over a list of 12 UN officers authorized to witness the exchange of sick and wounded and sign receipts for prisoners returned to the allies.

The session lasted an hour and eight minutes.

The Reds have promised to exchange 600 disabled allied POWs at the rate of 100 daily. The UN agreed to return about 5,000 North Koreans and 700 Chinese at the rate of 500 a day.

However, an allied officer said the UN may increase the number of Chinese being sent back to about 930.

"There is nothing in the agreement to stop us from giving back more, if we have them to trade," the officer said. "We have more than 900 sick and wounded Chinese in the Pusan area and there is a good chance we may return that many."

The ancient church at Valenciana, Mexico, is said to have been built with mortar containing powdered silver and wine.

Soviets Withdraw Their Peace Package

United Nations, April 16 (AP)—The Soviet bloc, speaking through Communist Poland, today withdrew its catch-all peace package which had been strongly opposed by the West.

Polish Foreign Minister Stanislaw Skrzeszewski told the UN's 60-nation political committee he was dropping completely the section of his plan calling for an immediate cease-fire in Korea and would not press for a vote on other sections at this Assembly session.

The Polish plan, which chief Soviet Delegate Andrei Y. Visninsky had backed strenuously, would have left discussions on settling the prisoner of war issue until after the cease-fire. Western delegates said this would let the Reds use UN prisoners as hostages to get better terms than they otherwise would.

Sabre Jets Down

were reported killed and wounded in the Jackson Heights battle.

Shoots Down Ninth

A Sabre jet pilot shot down his ninth MIG in a battle 40,000 feet over the Suiho Reservoir near the Manchurian border.

Capt. Joseph McConnell of Apple Valley, Calif., who now needs only one more MIG to become a double jet ace also has damaged one MIG.

Col. James K. Johnson of Phoenix, Ariz., bagged the second MIG. He now is credited with 7½ MIGs destroyed, three probably destroyed and seven damaged.

Nine B-29 Superforts struck the Communist battle line in Korea Wednesday night, hurling 90 tons of explosives on personnel shelters and supply concentrations along the central front. They met no opposition.

B-26 Invaders meanwhile smashed 73 Red trucks, hitting convoys moving along east coast highways to the front.

Corsairs and Skyraiders from the carriers USS Oriskany and Philippine Sea zoomed off before dawn Thursday to plaster east coast rail and highway routes.

Other navy planes bombed, strafed and rocketed a string of box cars, and attacked artillery positions and personnel and supply shelters on the central front.

Alarm Out of Order

Sounding of the burglar alarm at the Kingston Trust Company branch, 518 Broadway last night caused a police stir. Police headquarters was notified at 10:28 p. m., and Officers Kenneth Gaffney, Francis Loeffler, Meyer Levy and John Crespino, were dispatched there. The officers reported everything in order and said the alarm was out of commission.

Tickets Are Ready For Edson Dinner

Tickets for the Veterans of Foreign Wars Citizenship Award dinner honoring Harry L. Edson, assistant superintendent of the Department of Recreation, have been allotted to the service clubs —Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions—and to the VFW post and the O'Reilly stationery stores.

The tickets are available to the public from those sources, but the supply is limited, a committee member pointed out. The dinner will be held at The Barn on Thursday evening, April 30. Leonard Scheifflin of Buffalo, VFW department vice commander, will be the speaker.

YMCA Is Operated By Local Citizens, Thornton Explains

Many persons do not realize that the average YMCA is operated by committees of citizens, Youth Director R. Thornton said today.

He explained that the Kingston YMCA was run by three major committees or boards—the governing board of directors, the physical department committee and the boys' division committee.

"As the average YMCA membership is open to all it is imperative that it be run by the people. The committee system insures this and although professional secretaries may come and go these committees stabilize the fundamental goals and policies."

Present members of the committee are Jim Tobin, Elmer Rylance, George Silkworth, Herman Schwenk, Tom Rowland, Clifford Smith, Arthur Kronk, John Huston, James Silvestri, Charles Bishop, Roland B. Gray, Edward Zwick, Mrs. William Kuehn and Mrs. Robert Lane. Honorary members include Mrs. Helen Cashin Davitt, director of the Cashin School of Dancing, and Jim Goines, leader of the Royal Aces band.

Thornton pointed out that more than 517 boys were registered in the boys' division and that since the first of the year 132 new members had been enrolled.

were talking in Raymond's car. Both died shortly afterward in a hospital.

Both murder weapons had been purchased early in the day in Lawrence. The axe was found wrapped in a paper bag under the seat of the automobile.

Peter lost his job with a boilermaking firm last week. Co-workers described him as soft-spoken and mild-mannered. However, they said he appeared to have a "persecution complex."

"He seemed to feel that the whole world was against him," one told police.

There was talk of a June 30 compromise date for the end of the curbs, but the committee action left any such move to be made in the House itself.

Three Are Sentenced

Salt Lake City, April 16 (AP)—Three members of the Woody Herman dance band were given probationary sentences yesterday after being convicted of violating federal narcotics laws. U. S. District Judge Willis W. Ritter specified that each of the three must report on his activities by letter once each month for a term of three years. If in that period the reports are satisfactory Ritter said there would be no further penalty. Sentences of two years in prison and fines of $2,000 could have been given the three men, Louis Michael Desanto, 26, of Philadelphia, Pa.; John Richard Hafer 26, Wyomissing, Pa., and Sam Staff, 24, 561 E. Broadway, Long Beach, N. Y. The three were arrested last Oct. 26 while the band was playing an engagement here. Police officers charged they found $100 worth of marihuana in a hotel room and automobile used by the men.

Showdown Is Blocked

Tehran, Iran, April 16 (AP)—Parliament deputies opposing Premier Mohammed Mossadegh today successfully blocked a showdown move by the aged Nationalist leader in his fight to deprive Iran's Shah of control of the armed forces. Eight opposition deputies left town, preventing the quorum necessary for a meeting of Parliament's Lower House (Majlis) at which Mossadegh had planned to demand approval for his bill to cut the Shah's power. The opposition move also knocked the wind out of a massive demonstration this morning supporting the premier by some 20,000 persons—at least 5,000 of them from the Communist Tudeh. From early morning, Tehran was keyed to a high pitch of excitement as crowds converged on the Majlis Square.

Hanechak Goes Home

John Hanechak, 28, of Woodstock, L. I., who was injured in an accident Sunday night on the Onteora Trail near the Avalon Inn, was discharged from the Kingston Hospital on Wednesday, the hospital reported. A sheriff's office report stated Hanechak was a passenger in an automobile driven by George Johnson, 26, of 8 Hemlock street, which was in collision with an automobile driven by Deputy Sheriff George A. Reynolds of Woodstock. Reynolds and Johnson were treated at the hospital, and Johnson was scheduled for a hearing April 20 on a charge of reckless driving.

Delinquency Rate Drops

Albany, April 16 (AP)—The rate of juvenile delinquency dropped slightly in New York last year, "an indication of the general stability of the state's youth," the State Youth Commission reports. The 1952 rate was 5.21 cases per 1,000 children, compared to 5.31 in 1951, Executive Secretary Lee C. Dowling said yesterday. Dowling predicted that the number of children brought into court on delinquency petitions probably would go up in each of the next few years as a result of "a vastly increasing juvenile population."

Adenauer Is Guest

New York, April 16 (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany was the honor guest last night as 2,700 persons jammed Carnegie Hall to capacity to hear a special concert of German music. The visiting German statesman and his daughter, Lotte, attended the benefit performance to aid displaced German war orphans and refugees in Berlin. Adenauer had intended to stay only one hour because of other engagements. However, his interest in the music kept him in the hall for the duration of the two-hour concert.

Wedding Date Announced

Fontainebleau, France, April 16 (AP)—The wedding of Miss Ann Ruml, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Beardsley Ruml of New York, and Lt. Col. John D. D. Doyle, nephew of the late Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, creator of Sherlock Holmes, will take place April 18 in Paris, it was announced today. Miss Ruml, who is well known in New York society circles, is a native of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and a graduate of Vassar. She has been employed by the Tobey Associates, New York public relations specialists.

Auto Is Recovered

State police at Highland notified local police yesterday that the car of Robert Stewart, 22 Stuyvesant street, which was reported stolen April 10, has been recovered.

UN Will Tell Reds

half of the first 100 POWs to be exchanged Monday at Panmunjom are non-Koreans. UN officials were hopeful as many as 50 Americans will be freed. The Communists have promised that 120 Americans will be among 600 UN prisoners returned.

The Reds said they would reveal Sunday the exact number from the U. S. and other allied nations to be traded Monday.

Six Vehicles Sighted

The U. S. Fifth Air Force said reconnaissance planes sighted six vehicles of the Red POW convoy on the outskirts of Kaesong before dusk.

These vehicles apparently were elements of two convoys which joined north of Kaesong earlier Thursday. Other units were strung along the road 40 miles north to Sinmak as darkness fell, the air force said.

Units of a third convoy were 15 miles north of Pyongyang, North Korean capital. They still were moving southward at 5 p. m.

For the second day, allied reconnaissance pilots reported the Reds were using the attack free route of POWs convoys to shield streams of Communist supply trucks headed for the front.

At a staff officers meeting Thursday the allies informed the Reds that the first group of Communist sick and wounded would leave Pusan aboard a 12-car train Sunday noon and arrive at Munsan early Monday.

Red staff officers again asked for renewal of full-scale armistice talks, suspended by the United Nations last Oct. 8. The UN has not replied to the request.

Told What to Say

In Washington Wednesday, officials said Gen. Mark Clark, UN Far East commander, had been instructed what to tell the Reds. Details were secret, but it was assumed Clark would accept Red proposals for resuming the talks.

At the staff officers meeting, the UN command handed over a list of 12 UN officers authorized to witness the exchange of sick and wounded and sign receipts for prisoners returned to the allies.

The session lasted an hour and eight minutes.

The Reds have promised to exchange 600 disabled allied POWs at the rate of 100 daily. The UN agreed to return about 5,000 North Koreans and 700 Chinese at the rate of 500 a day.

However, an allied officer said the UN may increase the number of Chinese being sent back to about 930.

"There is nothing in the agreement to stop us from giving back more, if we have them to trade," the officer said. "We have more than 900 sick and wounded Chinese in the Pusan area and there is a good chance we may return that many."

The ancient church at Valenciana, Mexico, is said to have been built with mortar containing powdered silver and wine.

Soviets Withdraw Their Peace Package

United Nations, April 16 (AP)—The Soviet bloc, speaking through Communist Poland, today withdrew its catch-all peace package which had been strongly opposed by the West.

Polish Foreign Minister Stanislaw Skrzeszewski told the UN's 60-nation political committee he was dropping completely the section of his plan calling for an immediate cease-fire in Korea and would not press for a vote on other sections at this Assembly session.

The Polish plan, which chief Soviet Delegate Andrei Y. Visninsky had backed strenuously, would have left discussions on settling the prisoner of war issue until after the cease-fire. Western delegates said this would let the Reds use UN prisoners as hostages to get better terms than they otherwise would.

Sabre Jets Down

were reported killed and wounded in the Jackson Heights battle.

Shoots Down Ninth

A Sabre jet pilot shot down his ninth MIG in a battle 40,000 feet over the Suiho Reservoir near the Manchurian border.

Capt. Joseph McConnell of Apple Valley, Calif., who now needs only one more MIG to become a double jet ace also has damaged one MIG.

Col. James K. Johnson of Phoenix, Ariz., bagged the second MIG. He now is credited with 7½ MIGs destroyed, three probably destroyed and seven damaged.

Nine B-29 Superforts struck the Communist battle line in Korea Wednesday night, hurling 90 tons of explosives on personnel shelters and supply concentrations along the central front. They met no opposition.

B-26 Invaders meanwhile smashed 73 Red trucks, hitting convoys moving along east coast highways to the front.

Corsairs and Skyraiders from the carriers USS Oriskany and Philippine Sea zoomed off before dawn Thursday to plaster east coast rail and highway routes.

Other navy planes bombed, strafed and rocketed a string of box cars, and attacked artillery positions and personnel and supply shelters on the central front.

Alarm Out of Order

Sounding of the burglar alarm at the Kingston Trust Company branch, 518 Broadway last night caused a police stir. Police headquarters was notified at 10:28 p. m., and Officers Kenneth Gaffney, Francis Loeffler, Meyer Levy and John Crespino, were dispatched there. The officers reported everything in order and said the alarm was out of commission.

Tickets Are Ready For Edson Dinner

Tickets for the Veterans of Foreign Wars Citizenship Award dinner honoring Harry L. Edson, assistant superintendent of the Department of Recreation, have been allotted to the service clubs—Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions—and to the VFW post and the O'Reilly stationery stores.

The tickets are available to the public from those sources, but the supply is limited, a committee member pointed out. The dinner will be held at The Barn on Thursday evening, April 30. Leonard Scheifflin of Buffalo, VFW department vice commander, will be the speaker.

YMCA Is Operated By Local Citizens, Thornton Explains

Many persons do not realize that the average YMCA is operated by committees of citizens, Youth Director R. Thornton said today.

He explained that the Kingston YMCA was run by three major committees or boards—the governing board of directors, the physical department committee and the boys' division committee.

"As the average YMCA membership is open to all it is imperative that it be run by the people. The committee system insures this and although professional secretaries may come and go these committees stabilize the fundamental goals and policies."

Present members of the committee are Jim Tobin, Elmer Rylance, George Silkworth, Herman Schwenk, Tom Rowland, Clifford Smith, Arthur Kronk, John Huston, James Silvestri, Charles Bishop, Roland B. Gray, Edward Zwick, Mrs. William Kuehn and Mrs. Robert Lane. Honorary members include Mrs. Helen Cashin Davitt, director of the Cashin School of Dancing, and Jim Goines, leader of the Royal Aces band.

Thornton pointed out that more than 517 boys were registered in the boys' division and that since the first of the year 132 new members had been enrolled.

Both murder weapons had been purchased early in the day in Lawrence. The axe was found wrapped in a paper bag under the seat of the automobile.

Peter lost his job with a boilermaking firm last week. Co-workers described him as soft-spoken and mild-mannered. However, they said he appeared to have a "persecution complex."

"He seemed to feel that the whole world was against him," one told police.

The unit of the Kingston Chest X-ray survey will be located at the Home for the Aged on Washington avenue on April 22 and 23 from 2 to 5 and 6 to 8 p. m., it was announced by Abram Relyea, alderman, who presided at a meeting of canvassers of the 11th Ward on Monday evening.

Relyea asked that all residents of the section have a free chest X-ray during the two days the unit will be in their neighborhood. If they miss this opportunity, he said, another bus will be located in the various business sections of the city.

Volunteers Assisting

At Monday's meeting, Miss Katherine M. Murphy and Miss Mary Mossman of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association explained the organization and procedures. The following persons have volunteered to work with Mrs. Hubert Richter and Mrs. William Davis, ward co-chairmen:

The Mmes. Olga Mayes, Rose Martini, William Oskay, John Mearns, Thomas Welsh, James Norton, Jake Berinato, Jacob Myers, John Whitaker, Harold Metcalf, Edgar Croswell, James Chamberland, Mary Whalen, William Wood, Clarence Brophy, George Savatgy, Robert Sickler, Sam Mann, Emile Taiclet, Ward Tongue, S. Herzog, Hubert Roosa, John Gilligan, Paul Schatzel, John Nagele, Carl Simmons.

Also the Misses Charlotte Kolb and Ruth Boyle, and Donald Kiwus.

Providing Cars

Howard Whitaker, who has been appointed by Harold Sanford, city transportation chairman, will work with the canvass committee in providing cars for those who are unable to get to the unit without this assistance.

It was also announced today that local industries are cooperating with the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association in the promotion program for the X-ray survey.

Auxiliary members of the Ulster County Medical Society working with Mrs. Frederic Holcomb are visiting various industries with supplies. Managers of the factories will be asked to have their leaders in the industry canvass employes. Those wishing an X-ray will present the canvass card at the X-ray bus which will be located at convenient sites throughout the city from April 21 through May 9.

Members of the Medical Society auxiliary working with Mrs. Holcomb on this part of the program are the Mmes. Milton Grover, Elbert MacFadden, George Einterz, Mortimer Downer, Robert Moseley and John Cooke.

C. J. Hoyt Addresses Local Woman's Club

Wallkill, April 15—At the regular monthly meeting of the Wallkill Woman's Club April 10 at the Wallkill National Bank Mrs. Charles E. Penney, president, presided.

At the business meeting, Mrs. Penney named Mrs. L. C. Edsall and Mrs. DeWitt Crowell as delegates to accompany her to the Ninth District Meeting at Vassar College, Poughkeepsie, on April 16.

Mrs. J. Addison Crowell was named representative to attend the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association meeting at the Governor Clinton Hotel, Kingston, on May 18.

Mrs. Penney also informed the group that the annual luncheon on May 2 will be combined with a trip to the Monroe Historic Village.

An invitation was extended to the club by the Public Health Nursing Committee to aid them in preparing cancer dressings at their meeting in the health rooms on April 20. Members of the club are asked to save clean white cloths, such as sheets and pillowcases which are used in the preparation of the dressings.

A musical program followed. Mrs. Walter Harris introduced Mrs. Charles E. Penney who played two piano selections, Intermezzo and To Spring.

The program was then turned over to Mrs. Ernest Bell, who introduced the speaker, Clare J. Hoyt, prominent lawyer and former district attorney of Orange county. Hoyt chose as his topic, Wills and Documents. He informed the group anyone possessing any moneys or property should make a will. If all such things are in joint accounts, real estate deeds marked jointly, and insurance policies have a named beneficiary; and all other money in trust funds, then a will is not necessary.

He also explained that the law is automatic in protecting any surviving spouse insofar as the law reads that a spouse must receive one-third of the estate with the remainder going to the children if the deceased so directs. However, children can be disinherited while the surviving mate must be protected.

Going on further, he explained that it was almost impossible to contest a will. Hoyt also informed the group that a will need not be made by a lawyer or in the presence of one. A will is legal if it is made by an individual and signed before two witnesses and the witnesses sign before the principal making the will.

At the close of the meeting, tea was served by the social chairman, Mrs. John E. Sloan. Presiding at the tea table was Mrs. DeWitt Crowell.

The next meeting will be the annual meeting and garden party held at the home of Mrs. Walter Wallach on May 8. Mrs. Charles E. Penney will preside and Mrs. Louis Seurat will be the social chairman for the afternoon.

Remington Begins 3-Year Sentence Pending Appeal

New York, April 16 (AP)—Former government economist William W. Remington, convicted of falsely denying Communist ties, has started serving a three-year perjury sentence pending appeal.

Remington, 35, surrendered at the Federal Courthouse yesterday still protesting his innocence.

He said he was giving himself up, after being out in $7,000 bail, because "this is the only way my lawyers can secure additional time to complete the record and brief" for an appeal.

Defense Attorney Richard G. Green said the deadline for filing appeals briefs was yesterday, but an extension to June 15 had been sought to obtain certain official documents. The lawyer said this could be done only if Remington surrendered.

Convicted At 2nd Trial

The former Commerce Department economist was convicted last Jan. 27 at his second federal trial. He was found guilty of lying under oath during his first federal trial in denying he ever gave secret information to a Communist courier and in denying he knew there was a young Communist League at Dartmouth College when he was a student there.

Remington originally was convicted of falsely denying to a Federal Grand Jury that he ever was a Communist party member. This conviction was upset on appeal, and he later was reindicted on the basis of the first trial testimony.

On his surrender yesterday, Remington gave newsmen a prepared statement which said, in part:

"I have tried to tell the truth during six long years of questioning. I repeat that I was never a member of the Communist party; I never gave secret government information to any one, and I never knowingly made a false statement."

One goal of the American Cancer Society's 1953 campaign is to save lives now by educating the public about cancer's early symptoms and urging them to have frequent medical examinations.

Human Torch Leaps Into Frisco Bay

San Francisco, April 16 (AP)—A man converted into a human torch by a six-car crash was reported to have leaped into San Francisco Bay early today.

Sgt. Walter Davis of the California highway patrol said witnesses told him the driver of one car, his clothing aflame, leaped from the San Francisco-Oakland Bay bridge.

The auto was registered to Dr. Robert R. Perryman of the U. S. Naval Hospital, Oakland.

Two of the crash cars burned. Another, loaded with sailors, overturned. A fourth smashed into a girder.

Occupants suffered only minor injuries.

The 1:25 a. m. crash tied up all traffic on the six-lane bridge 45 minutes.

Hall, President Among Speakers at GOP Twin Dinners

New York, April 16—Leonard W. Hall, newly-elected chairman of the Republican National Committee, will address the twin dinners of the New York Republican State Committee on May 7, it was announced today by William L. Pfeiffer, chairman of the state committee.

President Dwight D. Eisenhower will be the principal speaker at the dinners which will be held in the ballrooms of the Hotel Astor and the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

The duel gatherings will be addressed also by Attorney General Herbert Brownell, Jr., and other national and state figures, Pfeiffer said.

Was Ranking Member of House

Hall resigned as Suffolk county surrogate to accept the national championship tendered him a week ago. Prior to that, he served for many years as Nassau county congressman and was chairman of the Congressional Campaign Committee as well as a ranking member of the House of Representatives.

The President, Brownell, Hall and other speakers will address both dinners in person.

Pfeiffer pointed out the speakers already lined up have close ties with New York state. The President adopted New York as his home on his return from his European command while both Brownell and Hall are veterans of politics in this state.

Red Cross to Give Telephone Call or Cable for Prisoners

Washington, April 16 (AP)—The Red Cross has plans to provide a free telephone call or 50-word cable for each American in the United Nations prisoner of war exchange.

Six hundred disabled UN troops will be traded for 5,800 Red sick and injured beginning Monday at Panmunjom. There are 120 Americans in the UN group.

Prominent in the UN plans for care of the returnees, the Red Cross said yesterday, are six American Red Cross girls who will distribute comfort articles and reading material to the men as soon as they reach Freedom Village.

The Red Cross explained that there may be a delay of one to two days between press publication of the returnee's name and telephone call or cable home since each man will have to be cleared medically before being allowed to communicate directly with his family.

FBI Arrests Man

New York, April 16 (AP)—The FBI announced the arrest in Queens yesterday of Sylvio Drolet, 35, of Queens, wanted in Massachusetts for an armed robbery indictment. Leland V. Boardman, special agent in charge of the New York FBI office, said Drolet had been indicted by a Bristol county, (Mass.), grand jury in June 1952 as an accessory before the fact in a North Attleboro armed robbery. The paymaster of a North Attleboro foundry had been robbed of a $3,000 pay roll the preceding January 25, the FBI reported. Drolet, apprehended in Forest Hills, Queens, will be arraigned today before a federal commissioner on a charge of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution.

Albany, April 16 (AP)—A husband who gets an out-of-state divorce in an action where his wife is not represented now may be required to support his former spouses. Extension of the jurisdiction of the State Supreme Court to such cashes was authorized in a bill signed yesterday by Gov. Dewey. Previously, the court had no power to direct support of a wife in cases where the husband obtained a divorce from a court that had no jurisdiction over her. The measure was introduced by Republican Assemblyman Malcolm Wilson of Yonkers.

Red Cross to Give Telephone Call or Cable for Prisoners

Washington, April 16 (AP)—The Red Cross has plans to provide a free telephone call or 50-word cable for each American in the United Nations prisoner of war exchange.

Six hundred disabled UN troops will be traded for 5,800 Red sick and injured beginning Monday at Panmunjom. There are 120 Americans in the UN group.

Prominent in the UN plans for care of the returnees, the Red Cross said yesterday, are six American Red Cross girls who will distribute comfort articles and reading material to the men as soon as they reach Freedom Village.

The Red Cross explained that there may be a delay of one to two days between press publication of the returnee's name and telephone call or cable home since each man will have to be cleared medically before being allowed to communicate directly with his family.

FBI Arrests Man

New York, April 16 (AP)—The FBI announced the arrest in Queens yesterday of Sylvio Drolet, 35, of Queens, wanted in Massachusetts for an armed robbery indictment. Leland V. Boardman, special agent in charge of the New York FBI office, said Drolet had been indicted by a Bristol county, (Mass.), grand jury in June 1952 as an accessory before the fact in a North Attleboro armed robbery. The paymaster of a North Attleboro foundry had been robbed of a $3,000 pay roll the preceding January 25, the FBI reported. Drolet, apprehended in Forest Hills, Queens, will be arraigned today before a federal commissioner on a charge of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution.

Grand Jury Asks Gross Be Denied Sentence Leniency

New York, April 16 (AP)—The Brooklyn Rackets Grand Jury recommends that ex-bookie Harry Gross be denied any reduction in the 12-year sentence he is serving in Rikers Island Penitentiary.

The grand jury, which indicted Gross, said in a presentment (statement) yesterday that it opposed Gross' bid for a cut in his sentence for bookmaking.

The 38-year-old Gross' attorney, Jacob W. Friendman, is scheduled to appear today in Special Sessions Court, Brooklyn, in a second attempt this year to seek a sentence reduction. The grand jury asked that its feelings be brought to the attention of the court.

Gross, who once ran a 20-million-dollar-a-year bookmaking enterprise, has completed about two and a half years of the sentence.

Convicted in 1951

Gross was convicted in Special Sessions Court Sept. 25, 1951—a week after his refusal to testify for the prosecution wrecked the criminal conspiracy trial of 18 policemen accused of sharing in his graft payments of one million dollars a year.

Kings County Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz, in whose court Gross refused to testify, imposed a sentence of five years for contempt. Papers in this sentencing, however, have not been signed by the judge. Leibowitz directed yesterday that Gross be brought before him next Wednesday to clear up the matter.

Yesterday's presentment, read before Leibowitz, was to be submitted to the Special Sessions bench today by Assistant Prosecutor Julius Helfand in opposition to the term-cut plea.

Concludes Phase

The grand jury announced it had concluded the gambling phase of its rackets investigation, and now will concentrate on waterfront crime.

The grand jury, which began its investigation of gambling and graft in December, 1949, said Gross "morally and in good conscience" was not entitled to a reduction. The jury said Gross who was arrested Sept. 15, 1950, has never indicated "genuine remorse or contrition." It added that he remains "whole unprincipled" and even "proud of his evil accomplishments and contemptuous of those who exposed his actions."

Mt. Tremper

Mt. Tremper, April 15—Mt. Tremper Grange 1468 held its semi-monthly meeting in the Grange hall Monday night. Third and fourth degrees of the order were bestowed upon Howard May at this meeting. Master Frank Carle announced the Grange would hold a supper in approximately two weeks. He appointed a supper committee composed of Mrs. Helene Umhey, chairman; Mrs. Francis Lane and Mrs. Ves Wells.

The Grange hillbilly band has been asked to play for the square-dancing which is to follow the Pomona Grange annual supper at Kerhonkson next Thursday evening. Members of the band include Carlton Hoyt, William Spanhake and Ves Wells.

Miss Clara Davis, Mrs. Grover Hedges, Mrs. Richard Bryon and Mrs. Edgar Hudler journeyed to New York with the ladies of Phoenicia on Monday. While in New York Mrs. Byron and Mrs. Hudler saw a three-dimensional movie, House of Wax and also attended the Kate Smith television show. They said they enjoyed both immensely.

Miss Elsie May, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. August May of Wittenberg, has set the date for her wedding to Ernest Warden of Lamontville. The ceremony will take place in the Methodist Church, Wittenberg, on Sunday, June 14. Miss Doris May will be her sister's maid of honor.

Master Kenneth Umhey, year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Umhey, was baptized in the Mt. Tremper Dutch Reformed Church last Sunday. The Rev. Harvey I. Todd, minister of the church officiated.

Mrs. Louise Zauner of Long Island, a former Mt. Tremper resident, visited Mr. and Mrs. Frank Carle on Sunday. She gave Mrs. Carle a beautiful artificial corsage which she made.

Mrs. Martha Pulz has returned from the city and has reopened her home here for the spring and summer months.

Mrs. Francis Lane has returned from a two-week visit to her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lane, at their new home on Long Island.

Grand Jury Asks Gross Be Denied Sentence Leniency

New York, April 16 (AP)—The Brooklyn Rackets Grand Jury recommends that ex-bookie Harry Gross be denied any reduction in the 12-year sentence he is serving in Rikers Island Penitentiary.

The grand jury, which indicted Gross, said in a presentment (statement) yesterday that it opposed Gross' bid for a cut in his sentence for bookmaking.

The 38-year-old Gross' attorney, Jacob W. Friendman, is scheduled to appear today in Special Sessions Court, Brooklyn, in a second attempt this year to seek a sentence reduction. The grand jury asked that its feelings be brought to the attention of the court.

Gross, who once ran a 20-million-dollar-a-year bookmaking enterprise, has completed about two and a half years of the sentence.

Convicted in 1951

Gross was convicted in Special Sessions Court Sept. 25, 1951—a week after his refusal to testify for the prosecution wrecked the criminal conspiracy trial of 18 policemen accused of sharing in his graft payments of one million dollars a year.

Kings County Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz, in whose court Gross refused to testify, imposed a sentence of five years for contempt. Papers in this sentencing, however, have not been signed by the judge. Leibowitz directed yesterday that Gross be brought before him next Wednesday to clear up the matter.

Yesterday's presentment, read before Leibowitz, was to be submitted to the Special Sessions bench today by Assistant Prosecutor Julius Helfand in opposition to the term-cut plea.

Concludes Phase

The grand jury announced it had concluded the gambling phase of its rackets investigation, and now will concentrate on waterfront crime.

The grand jury, which began its investigation of gambling and graft in December, 1949, said Gross "morally and in good conscience" was not entitled to a reduction. The jury said Gross who was arrested Sept. 15, 1950, has never indicated "genuine remorse or contrition." It added that he remains "whole unprincipled" and even "proud of his evil accomplishments and contemptuous of those who exposed his actions."

UNUSUAL DOUBLE WEDDING

The following question is one that never before has been asked me: "Will you please give me your opinion of a double wedding of mother and daughter? I am a widow and had planned to remarry sometime this summer. My daughter, who was engaged at Christmas, also would like to be married this summer. We thought of combining both weddings. I have often heard of two sisters having a double wedding, but never a mother and daughter, and wondered about the propriety of such an arrangement."

It would be very unusual, but I see no possible impropriety in it. I do, however, wonder just how it could be done. It seems to me that the best procedure would be for you, as mother of the bride, to sit as usual in the front pew. Your fiance would be seated beside you. Then at the end of the marriage service of your daughter, instead of the recessional being played and your daughter and her husband walking out, they would step aside and you and your fiance take your places where they have been standing and have the clergyman marry you. At the end of this, the recessional would be played and your daughter and husband would walk out first with you and your husband following.

Be Sure They Are Becoming

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me if it is proper for a hostess to wear velveteen slacks with a very dressy blouse when having friends in to an informal buffet supper?

Answer: If very informal, yes—meaning by this if your friends come in day clothes, your costume would be quite all right. But if they wear evening dress, it would not.

Question of Son's Title

Dear Mrs. Post: My son and his family plan to visit us this summer. He went to school and worked hard to earn his Ph.D. and is now employed as a research chemist in a large company. Would it be proper to introduce him to my friends as Dr.?

Answer: You simply introduce him as "my son" and that is all—unless you can bring out his standing naturally in the course of the conversation.

Is your question about a double wedding ceremony? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but her leaflet E-2, "Formal Wedding Procedure," describes the procedure for double weddings. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, c/o The Freeman, P.O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Zephaniah Chapter, Lodge Will Install Officers at JCC

A joint installation of officers of Zephaniah Lodge 131 and Zephaniah Chapter 399, B'nai B'rith, will be held Sunday at the Jewish Community Center building, 265 Wall street, at 8:30 p. m.

District Deputy Richard M. Kalish will be master of ceremonies and the installation of officers will be by I. Joel Komarow, who will also deliver the address of the evening. Mr. Komarow is a man of national reputation and director of all ADL activities in District Grand Lodge 1, B'nai B'rith, which comprises the eastern section of the United States, New England states and Canada.

Zephaniah Lodge 131, is one of the oldest B'nai B'rith Lodges in the nation, having been initiated over 80 years ago. This year has seen a revitalization of the lodge both from a membership and financial viewpoint. In 1952, Zephaniah Lodge nearly doubled its membership under the presidency of Louis Kantrowitz, and he will retire from office with a considerable financial balance.

At the meeting Sunday evening, retiring president Kantrowitz will present his report of the year's activities. Mr. Kantrowitz will be succeeded by Daniel Weisberg.

Miss Blanche Kirschenblum, who has completed a term as president of Zephaniah Chapter, has been re-elected and will be installed Sunday.

The evening's program under the direction of Richard M. Kalish, district deputy, will open with the national anthem. The invocation will be by Rabbi H. Z. Rappaport. Installation of the new officers will then take place, followed by the address of I. Joel Komarow, who will also act as installing officer. Rabbi Rappaport will pronounce the benediction. Refreshments will be served at the close of the business session.

Officers of Zephaniah Lodge recently elected are president, Daniel Weisberg; first vice-president, Milton Dubin; second vice-president, Bernhardt S. Kramer; secretary, Herbert Gertner; financial secretary, Julius Svirsky. Trustees for three years are Louis Kantrowitz, Sigmund Rudisch and David Popick.

Officers of Zephaniah Chapter are Miss Blanche Kirschenblum, president; Mrs. Sam Davis, Mrs. Milton Adler, Mrs. Reuben Leventhal, vice-presidents; Mrs. Gilbert Adin, recording secretary; Mrs. Samuel Barnovitz, financial secretary; Mrs. Aaron Adin, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Irving Levine, treasurer, and Mrs. Samuel Gally, counselor. Trustees are Mrs. Harold Mandell, three years; Mrs. Samuel Gally, two years; and Mrs. Herbert Powell, one year.

A joint installation of officers of Zephaniah Lodge 131 and Zephaniah Chapter 399, B'nai B'rith, will be held Sunday at the Jewish Community Center building, 265 Wall street, at 8:30 p. m.

District Deputy Richard M. Kalish will be master of ceremonies and the installation of officers will be by I. Joel Komarow, who will also deliver the address of the evening. Mr. Komarow is a man of national reputation and director of all ADL activities in District Grand Lodge 1, B'nai B'rith, which comprises the eastern section of the United States, New England states and Canada.

The evening's program under the direction of Richard M. Kalish, district deputy, will open with the national anthem. The invocation will be by Rabbi H. Z. Rappaport. Installation of the new officers will then take place, followed by the address of I. Joel Komarow, who will also act as installing officer. Rabbi Rappaport will pronounce the benediction. Refreshments will be served at the close of the business session.

Officers of Zephaniah Lodge recently elected are president, Daniel Weisberg; first vice-president, Milton Dubin; second vice-president, Bernhardt S. Kramer; secretary, Herbert Gertner; financial secretary, Julius Svirsky. Trustees for three years are Louis Kantrowitz, Sigmund Rudisch and David Popick.

Officers of Zephaniah Chapter are Miss Blanche Kirschenblum, president; Mrs. Sam Davis, Mrs. Milton Adler, Mrs. Reuben Leventhal, vice-presidents; Mrs. Gilbert Adin, recording secretary; Mrs. Samuel Barnovitz, financial secretary; Mrs. Aaron Adin, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Irving Levine, treasurer, and Mrs. Samuel Gally, counselor. Judge Says Religion, Family Unity Will Lessen Delinquency

A complete lack of religious training and of home environment, were cited as the chief causes for juvenile delinquency in this and other cities, by John M. Cashin, county judge, when he addressed a meeting of the Ulster County Women's Republican Club Wednesday evening, in the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Comes in Like Rising Tide

Having presided in Children's Court for the past nine years, Judge Cashin said the juvenile delinquency is "not bad in our city, compared to others of like size. I wish I could say it is better but it is not. We have our share of juvenile delinquency. It runs in waves; sometimes it is quiet and we think we have it controlled, when suddenly it comes in like a rising tide, and may continue for a period of six weeks to two months."

Judge Cashin outlined many causes for youthful temptations, which were non-existent in former generations. "Because of all the temptations that are placed in the children's paths, it is all the more reason why there should be a closer knit home life and spiritual uprising.

"I have no answer to the problem, and I don't think anyone else has, but as sure as day follows night, where the home environment is good; where parents watch their children's education and church life, you seldom find a child charged with juvenile delinquency."

When questioned about vandalism in the city, Judge Cashin replied it was the result of the total disregard of respect for property rights, which has been evidenced from the high levels and right on down the line to the children.

Court Phases Outlined

The many phases of the Children's Court were outlined by Judge Cashin, who described his court as an intensely human one dealing with children from seven to 16 years of age. In making his decision with respect to any child, his paramount idea is the welfare of that particular child, he told his listeners, and said the system of probation has been very effective. "I don't think the percentage of repeaters has been greater than one or two per cent of all the cases during a given year."

For the past two or three years, under a new amendment, the Judge said his court has been handling support proceedings for wives and children, and mentioned a sum of $75,000 which had been collected during the past year. "Without the means at our command to follow up these cases," said Judge Cashin, that sum for support would have had to be added to the welfare department's budget.

The advantages of another phase of work in the Children's Court, were recounted by the speaker when he told of assistance being given to handicapped children whose parents could not afford proper medical treatment and special educational instruction. Application for these services are made through the Ulster County Public Health Department and are sent to Judge Cashin for approval.

The speaker was very enthusiastic about the good which has resulted from the handicapped children's program, but at the same time warned the women of evils that might ensue. "The evil of some particular programs is that everybody who has a pet peeve about a kid, gangs up on the legislature for programs that are totally unnecessary," he said. By way of explanation, Judge Cashin observed "we are fixing all the teeth of the children in the city of Kingston."

Before concluding his talk, Judge Cashin paid tribute to three women, in attendance, whose services are invaluable to his court. Those mentioned were Miss Marie A. Groppe, Mrs. Mabel O'Reilly, and Miss Mary Flannery.

Annual Luncheon

During the business meeting which preceded Judge Cashin's address, Miss Alice M. Scardefield, president, announced that the annual luncheon will be held on Saturday, May 23, in the Governor Clinton Hotel. Mrs. Dorothy Lewis will be the guest speaker. Mrs. Bertram Cottine of Highland, secretary, was appointed luncheon chairman.

Those who will assist Mrs. Cottine in arrangements for the luncheon include the Mmes. John Hathmaker, N. LeVan Haver, H. M. Cameron, Arthur Keator, C. R. Cousins, Grace Smith, Vera Snyder, Evelyn Hotaling, Oscar Newkirk, Vincent Connelly, C. J. Heiselman, Arthur Hazenbush, John Beaver, Julia Abernethy, John Sterley, Albert Kurdt, Jay LeFevre, Beatrice Strobel, and the Misses Florence DuMond and Marie Groppe.

The luncheon committee will meet on Tuesday afternoon, April 28, at the home of Miss Scardefield.

Reports were given by Mrs. Cottine, secretary; Miss Groppe, treasurer; and Mrs. Connelly reported for the social service committee.

As program chairman, Mrs. Hubert Smith introduced Judge Cashin. Hostesses for the evening were Miss Marguerite Quick and Mrs. Mabel O'Reilly.

For the past two or three years, under a new amendment, the Judge said his court has been handling support proceedings for wives and children, and mentioned a sum of $75,000 which had been collected during the past year. "Without the means at our command to follow up these cases," said Judge Cashin, that sum for support would have had to be added to the welfare department's budget.

The advantages of another phase of work in the Children's Court, were recounted by the speaker when he told of assistance being given to handicapped children whose parents could not afford proper medical treatment and special educational instruction. Application for these services are made through the Ulster County Public Health Department and are sent to Judge Cashin for approval.

The speaker was very enthusiastic about the good which has resulted from the handicapped children's program, but at the same time warned the women of evils that might ensue. "The evil of some particular programs is that everybody who has a pet peeve about a kid, gangs up on the legislature for programs that are totally unnecessary," he said. By way of explanation, Judge Cashin observed "we are fixing all the teeth of the children in the city of Kingston."

Before concluding his talk, Judge Cashin paid tribute to three women, in attendance, whose services are invaluable to his court. Those mentioned were Miss Marie A. Groppe, Mrs. Mabel O'Reilly, and Miss Mary Flannery.

He has received M.A. degrees from both Punjab University and Cambridge University in England. For many years he was a professor of English literature at the Government College in Lahore, and at the time of his appointment as the Pakistan Permanent Representative to the UN he was principal of his college.

Along with his scholarly and writing interests, Professor Bokhari has found time to serve as Director General of the All-India Radio from 1939 to 1945. Grange News

Lake Katrine Grange

The Lake Katrine Grange had an interesting meeting recently. For the lecturer's program, Mrs. Markners had an agronomist, Louis Dushek of the Callanan Road Improvement Co., give a talk with slides on soil fertility Mr. Dushek answered questions about lawns, soil, plants and shrubs, which was very helpful.

On April 9, the Lake Katrine Men's Dartball team attended a turkey dinner at Kerhonkson, which preceded their final play for the season, against Mt. Tremper Grange. The Lake Katrine team won the trophy. The players were Daniel Morehouse, captain; Harry Carle, Ralph Hommel, Clarence Johnson, George Knaust, John McCardle, Tracy Munson, Rudolf Soltys and Lawrence Winchell.

The Milk Producer's and Dealers had a turkey dinner Wednesday served by the Lake Katrine Grange women followed by dancing to the music of Floyd Barringer's orchestra.

Twenty-two members of Lake Katrine Grange will attend the Pomona Grange 50th Anniversary dinner at the Kerhonkson Fire Hall Thursday evening.

At the next Grange meeting on Monday night, April 20, there will be a covered dish supper, and members will be notified by their committee chairman, as to what they are to bring. Besides the food, all are being asked to bring dishes and silver. Supper will be served at 6:30 p. m. followed by a regular meeting.

The Grange card party will be held on Wednesday, April 23, sponsored by the Service and Hospitalty Committee. Mrs. John McCardle, chairman.

Members competing in the Grange molasses cookie contest, are requested to bring entries for judging at the next meeting.

Meyer Gives Brooks First Major Dividend From Big Winter Trade

Not Mad at Anyone, Russ Tops Bucs, 4-2

(By The Associated Press)

Russ Meyer's sweetness and light campaign has given the Brooklyn Dodgers the first major dividend from the winter's biggest player trade.

The handsome 29-year-old right-hander with a reputation for being his own worst enemy set down the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-2, on eight hits yesterday to pull the Bums into a first place tie in the National League with the rain idled Milwaukee Braves.

Russ didn't get mad at anybody. He even was reasonably pleased with himself when he walked into the clubhouse, where in past years he has been wont to argue physically with such things as wooden benches and steel lockers.

Meyer pitched well enough to be pleased. He struck out seven Pirates, walked only one and didn't allow anybody to get as far as third base in eight of the nine innings. The only Pittsburgh runs came on a two run homer by Johnny Lindell, the former New York Yankee outfielder who is trying a comeback as a knuckleball pitcher.

Rain Curtails Slate

Only three games were played in the major leagues yesterday. In addition to Brooklyn's victory, the Philadelphia Phils whipped the New York Giants, 8-1, in the National League and the New York Yankees defeated the Philadelphia Athletics, 4-1, in the American League. The other scheduled games were rained out.

Meyer came to Brooklyn two months ago in a complicated swap involving four other players and half of the National League clubs.

The merry-go-round started when the Philadelphia Phils sent Meyer and some cash to the Braves, who at the time were still in Boston, in exchange for first baseman Earl Torgeson. The Braves immediately switched Meyer to Brooklyn and took in return rookie outfielder Jim Pendleton and utility infielder Rocky Bridges. Bridges, in turn, was moved to Cincinnati where the Braves picked up first baseman Joe Adcock. The Redlegs still have another player, or cash, to come.

So far the Dodgers have all the best of it. Torgeson has only one hit in two games with the Phils—a double in six tries. Adcock, who made still another move when the Braves shifted from Boston to Milwaukee, has singled and doubled in seven times at bat. Neither Bridges nor Pendleton have played.

Phils Rock Giants

Torgeson's one hit came yesterday as the Phils found the range for an assortment of 14 safe blows off four New York pitchers, The barrage made it easy for Curt Simmons to go one game ahead of Robin Roberts in their friendly personal rivalry. Roberts was thumped by the Giants, 4-1, on Tuesday.

Little Bobby Shantz, who suffered a bad break to his pitching wrist after winning 24 games last season, pitched well enough to win his return to regular competition but his Philadelphia teammates let him down. Two of the Yankee runs came after errors and a third was a pure gift.

Allie Reynolds, tough in the pinches, was the winning Yankee pitcher.

Langlois Rallies After Knockdowns To Defeat Miceli

Miami Beach, Fla., April 16 (AP)—Rugged Pierre Langlois rallied after two knockdowns to batter his way to a 10-round decision over Joe Miceli in Wednesday night's televised fight at the Miami Beach auditorium.

The Miami Beach scoring system and a touch of overconfidence by the 24-year-old Miceli helped Langlois earn his decision.

Under Miami Beach rules, fights are judged strictly by rounds, with no consideration being given for the margin of victory in any round. So Miceli got no more credit for the rounds he won on knockdowns than Pierre did for the ones he managed to win later by a punch or two.

Cockiness Hurts

Miceli's cockiness showed up in the fourth when he played it cute, once dropping his guard and daring Langlois to come in. Pierre accepted the invitation and scored often enough to win the round. That was the turning point of the battle.

The Frenchman, a 7-5 favorite despite his loss to Miceli last July in Brooklyn, weighed 158½. Miceli, the fourth ranking welterweight, came in at 150.

Judge Fred Wilbanks gave it to Langlois, six rounds to three, with one even. Judge Gus Jacobson called it a draw, awarding four rounds to each fighter. Referee Cy Gottfried gave Langlois six rounds, Miceli four.

The Montreal Canadiens won the NHL Stanley Cup in 1930, 1931, 1944 and 1946.

LL Registration Set For Saturday Morning

Registration for Little League aspirants will take place Saturday morning at 9:30 o'clock at Hasbrouck Park, upper baseball diamond and at the regular LL field at the 156th Field Artillery grounds, it was announced today by John Hasbrouck, league director.

All boys born August 1, 1940 until July 31, 1945, are eligible for LL competition. All who live south of the specified boundary will register Saturday at Hasbrouck Park while boys who reside north of the boundary will register at the 156th Field.

Meanwhile, it was announced this morning that the actual tryouts will start Monday, April 20, with the eight, nine and 10-year-olds. On Tuesday, April 21, the 11-year-olds will drill while the 12-year-old boys will take part in the tryouts on Wednesday, April 22.

Boys who were members of last year's teams are not required to register or attend any one of the tryouts, Hasbrouck said today. He added that they will be notified by their managers when to report.

Newcomers who register Saturday morning are requested to bring their birth certificate or a note from their parents stating the day, month and year of birth. Birth certificates will be returned as soon as the boys register, it was pointed out.

Raceway's Opening Night Crowd Sets Betting Mark

$1,550,923 Paid Out By 30,476 Customers

Yonkers, April 16 (AP)—All wagering records for harness racing were broken Wednesday night as a track record crowd of 30,476 bet $1,550,923 at the opening of Yonkers Raceway's 34-night spring meeting.

The total handle for the eight races bettered the previous mark of $1,543,642 established at Yonkers last November.

The crowd opening the fourth season at Yonkers, formerly the Empire City running track, was just 59 less than the national trotting track record of 30,535 at New York's other metropolitan harness oval, Roosevelt Raceway at Westbury. That mark was set May 21, 1949.

Bill Cane, Yonkers' president and general manager who built up the Hambletonian at Goshen, to become the world's most famous trotting classic, got a big break tonight, for although it was cloudy the rain stayed away. Rain has plagued Yonkers on every opening night for the first three years of track's operation as a harness plant.

The featured race on the program, the $9,150 Inaugural Pace, was won by Wilmington's Star, a four-year-old son of Wilmington-Miss McStone, owned by R. L. Craig of Urbana, Ohio. The big crowd, in a betting mood, made Wilmington's Star—winner of the first heat of the $60,000 Little Brown Jug last year at Delaware, O., the favorite, and set a national one-race betting record on the race.

Driver Jimmy Cruise of Mt. Vernon, O., who was a substitute in the sulky for the absent Jimmy Jordan, kept Wilmington's Star off the pace set by David Caudle, owned by William C. Harris, Massapequa,

After the first half mile of the one mile event, David Caudle, second choice, was leading by about half a length, with Wilmington's Star second. The winner flashed down the stretch to catch David Caudle about a sixteenth of a mile out, and won by a head. Prince Terry, owned by Paul Wixom, Chicago, was third. The time was 2:07 3/5.

Wilmington's Star paid $4.20, $2.70 and $2.70; David Caudle, $2.90 and $2.80, and Prince Terry, $11.80.

Companionship Required

Albany, April 16 (AP)—After July 1, deer and bear hunters under 18 must be accompanied by a parent, guardian or other adult hunter for the first season. The measure signed by Gov. Dewey today applies to young hunters who have not held a big-game license previously. It specifies that the person accompanying the novice hunter also must be licensed.

NBA Chiefs Will Rule On Spivey

New York, April 16 (AP)—The fate of Bill Spivey as a professional basketball player will be decided at a board of governors meeting of the National Basketball Association in Boston next week.

Spivey, a former University of Kentucky star, was cleared of accusations growing out of the college "fix" scandals yesterday when a year-old perjury indictment against him was dismissed.

President Maurice Podoloff of the NBA said today the board of governors would take up the question of Spivey's case at their meeting next Thursday.

Spivey has been barnstorming with a professional team since the indictment, so he no longer is eligible for collegiate athletics. However, he said in Lexington, Ky., that he hoped to return to the university for his degree.

Would Consider Case

He said that when he was dropped from the university, officials said the action would stand until the case was cleared.

"My name now stands cleared," he said.

Vice-President Leo Chamberlain of the University of Kentucky said Spivey's case will be "carefully considered" if he seeks re-admission.

Assistant District Attorney Vincent A. G. O'Connor told General Sessions Judge Saul S. Streit he no longer had a case against Spivey because one witness was dead, another refused to testify and the remaining witnesses lacked creditability.

Judge Streit dismissed the indictment without comment.

Not Mad at Anyone, Russ Tops Bucs, 4-2

(By The Associated Press)

Russ Meyer's sweetness and light campaign has given the Brooklyn Dodgers the first major dividend from the winter's biggest player trade.

The handsome 29-year-old right-hander with a reputation for being his own worst enemy set down the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-2, on eight hits yesterday to pull the Bums into a first place tie in the National League with the rai- idled Milwaukee Braves.

Russ didn't get mad at anybody. He even was reasonably pleased with himself when he walked into the clubhouse, where in past years he has been wont to argue physically with such things as wooden benches and steel lockers.

Meyer pitched well enough to be pleased. He struck out seven Pirates, walked only one and didn't allow anybody to get as far as third base in eight of the nine innings. The only Pittsburgh runs came on a two run homer by Johnny Lindell, the former New York Yankee outfielder who is trying a comeback as a knuckleball pitcher.

Rain Curtails Slate

Only three games were played in the major leagues yesterday. In addition to Brooklyn's victory, the Philadelphia Phils whipped the New York Giants, 8-1, in the National League and the New York Yankees defeated the Philadelphia Athletics, 4-1, in the American League. The other scheduled games were rained out.

Meyer came to Brooklyn two months ago in a complicated swap involving four other players and half of the National League clubs.

The merry-go-round started when the Philadelphia Phils sent Meyer and some cash to the Braves, who at the time were still in Boston, in exchange for first baseman Earl Torgeson. The Braves immediately switched Meyer to Brooklyn and took in return rookie outfielder Jim Pendleton and utility infielder Rocky Bridges. Bridges, in turn, was moved to Cincinnati where the Braves picked up first baseman Joe Adcock. The Redlegs still have another player, or cash, to come.

So far the Dodgers have all the best of it. Torgeson has only one hit in two games with the Phils—a double in six tries. Adcock, who made still another move when the Braves shifted from Boston to Milwaukee, has singled and doubled in seven times at bat. Neither Bridges nor Pendleton have played.

Phils Rock Giants

Torgeson's one hit came yesterday as the Phils found the range for an assortment of 14 safe blows off four New York pitchers, The barrage made it easy for Curt Simmons to go one game ahead of Robin Roberts in their friendly personal rivalry. Roberts was thumped by the Giants, 4-1, on Tuesday.

Little Bobby Shantz, who suffered a bad break to his pitching wrist after winning 24 games last season, pitched well enough to win his return to regular competition but his Philadelphia teammates let him down. Two of the Yankee runs came after errors and a third was a pure gift.

Allie Reynolds, tough in the pinches, was the winning Yankee pitcher.

Etchison Meets Meyers Monday

RONNIE ETCHISON

The main attraction on Monday night's wrestling card at the municipal auditorium is a return go between Ronnie Etchison and Sonny Meyers, two television stars, who put on a thriller here last February before 1,200 fans.

Etchison, who took Meyers by surprise, in a rough duel, hopes to win again.

The first bout at 8:45 p. m., will be Al Getz, St. Louis vs. Bob Leipler, Buffalo.

In the semi-final Pedro Godoy, South America, will meet Frank Taylor, Toronto, Canada.

Tickets are on sale at Tommy Maines Sport Shop, phone 6039. Prices $1.25 and $2.50. (ADV.)

Langlois Rallies After Knockdowns To Defeat Miceli

Miami Beach, Fla., April 16 (AP)—Rugged Pierre Langlois rallied after two knockdowns to batter his way to a 10-round decision over Joe Miceli in Wednesday night's televised fight at the Miami Beach auditorium.

But Langlois shook off these punches and came charging back to win a battle that brought cheers from the audience of 3,652.

The Miami Beach scoring system and a touch of overconfidence by the 24-year-old Miceli helped Langlois earn his decision.

Under Miami Beach rules, fights are judged strictly by rounds, with no consideration being given for the margin of victory in any round. So Miceli got no more credit for the rounds he won on knockdowns than Pierre did for the ones he managed to win later by a punch or two.

Cockiness Hurts

Miceli's cockiness showed up in the fourth when he played it cute, once dropping his guard and daring Langlois to come in. Pierre accepted the invitation and scored often enough to win the round. That was the turning point of the battle.

The Frenchman, a 7-5 favorite despite his loss to Miceli last July in Brooklyn, weighed 158½. Miceli, the fourth ranking welterweight, came in at 150.

Judge Fred Wilbanks gave it to Langlois, six rounds to three, with one even. Judge Gus Jacobson called it a draw, awarding four rounds to each fighter. Referee Cy Gottfried gave Langlois six rounds, Miceli four.

The Montreal Canadiens won the NHL Stanley Cup in 1930, 1931, 1944 and 1946.

LL Registration Set For Saturday Morning

Registration for Little League aspirants will take place Saturday morning at 9:30 o'clock at Hasbrouck Park, upper baseball diamond and at the regular LL field at the 156th Field Artillery grounds, it was announced today by John Hasbrouck, league director.

All boys born August 1, 1940 until July 31, 1945, are eligible for LL competition. All who live south of the specified boundary will register Saturday at Hasbrouck Park while boys who reside north of the boundary will register at the 156th Field.

Meanwhile, it was announced this morning that the actual tryouts will start Monday, April 20, with the eight, nine and 10-year-olds. On Tuesday, April 21, the 11-year-olds will drill while the 12-year-old boys will take part in the tryouts on Wednesday, April 22.

Boys who were members of last year's teams are not required to register or attend any one of the tryouts, Hasbrouck said today. He added that they will be notified by their managers when to report.

Newcomers who register Saturday morning are requested to bring their birth certificate or a note from their parents stating the day, month and year of birth. Birth certificates will be returned as soon as the boys register, it was pointed out.

Raceway's Opening Night Crowd Sets Betting Mark

$1,550,923 Paid Out By 30,476 Customers

Yonkers, April 16 (AP)—All wagering records for harness racing were broken Wednesday night as a track record crowd of 30,476 bet $1,550,923 at the opening of Yonkers Raceway's 34-night spring meeting.

The total handle for the eight races bettered the previous mark of $1,543,642 established at Yonkers last November.

The crowd opening the fourth season at Yonkers, formerly the Empire City running track, was just 59 less than the national trotting track record of 30,535 at New York's other metropolitan harness oval, Roosevelt Raceway at Westbury. That mark was set May 21, 1949.

Bill Cane, Yonkers' president and general manager who built up the Hambletonian at Goshen, to become the world's most famous trotting classic, got a big break tonight, for although it was cloudy the rain stayed away. Rain has plagued Yonkers on every opening night for the first three years of track's operation as a harness plant.

Last year's opening night drew 18,219.

The featured race on the program, the $9,150 Inaugural Pace, was won by Wilmington's Star, a four-year-old son of Wilmington-Miss McStone, owned by R. L. Craig of Urbana, Ohio. The big crowd, in a betting mood, made Wilmington's Star—winner of the first heat of the $60,000 Little Brown Jug last year at Delaware, O., the favorite, and set a national one-race betting record on the race.

A total of $240,635, went through the mutuel windows on the featured sixth race, breaking the national one-race total of $234,553 set at Yonkers Nov. 15, 1951.

Driver Jimmy Cruise of Mt. Vernon, O., who was a substitute in the sulky for the absent Jimmy Jordan, kept Wilmington's Star off the pace set by David Caudle, owned by William C. Harris, Massapequa,

After the first half mile of the one mile event, David Caudle, second choice, was leading by about half a length, with Wilmington's Star second. The winner flashed down the stretch to catch David Caudle about a sixteenth of a mile out, and won by a head. Prince Terry, owned by Paul Wixom, Chicago, was third. The time was 2:07 3/5.

Wilmington's Star paid $4.20, $2.70 and $2.70; David Caudle, $2.90 and $2.80, and Prince Terry, $11.80.

Companionship Required

Albany, April 16 (AP)—After July 1, deer and bear hunters under 18 must be accompanied by a parent, guardian or other adult hunter for the first season. The measure signed by Gov. Dewey today applies to young hunters who have not held a big-game license previously. It specifies that the person accompanying the novice hunter also must be licensed.

NBA Chiefs Will Rule On Spivey

New York, April 16 (AP)—The fate of Bill Spivey as a professional basketball player will be decided at a board of governors meeting of the National Basketball Association in Boston next week.

Spivey, a former University of Kentucky star, was cleared of accusations growing out of the college "fix" scandals yesterday when a year-old perjury indictment against him was dismissed.

President Maurice Podoloff of the NBA said today the board of governors would take up the question of Spivey's case at their meeting next Thursday.

Spivey has been barnstorming with a professional team since the indictment, so he no longer is eligible for collegiate athletics. However, he said in Lexington, Ky., that he hoped to return to the university for his degree.

Would Consider Case

He said that when he was dropped from the university, officials said the action would stand until the case was cleared.

"My name now stands cleared," he said.

Vice-President Leo Chamberlain of the University of Kentucky said Spivey's case will be "carefully considered" if he seeks re-admission.

Assistant District Attorney Vincent A. G. O'Connor told General Sessions Judge Saul S. Streit he no longer had a case against Spivey because one witness was dead, another refused to testify and the remaining witnesses lacked creditability.

Judge Streit dismissed the indictment without comment.

Spivey's attorney, Harold O. Fraankel, said the dismissal of the indictment proves the 23-year-old Spivey "is innocent."

Dansville '5' Shoots 3,085 At Rochester

Rochester, N. Y., April 16 (AP)—The Red Tops team from Dansville took over the lead last night in the five-man team division of the New York State men's bowling tournament. The team scored a handicap total of 3,085 pins.

The Red Tops deposed the Kodak Park Athletic Association X-ray team of Rochester that had held the lead with a 3,070 handicap total.

Other division leaders were unchanged.

Melbourne Seen Sure For '56 Olympic Games

Mexico City, April 16 (AP)—With Melbourne apparently certain of getting the 1956 Olympic Games, the International Olympic Committee today was reported ready to turn to such matters as professionalism and size of participating squads.

Delegates in "don't-quote-me-but—" comments said yesterday that Melbourne seemed a cinch to be host to the next Olympics.

Avery Brundage, president of the IOC, indicated as much when he told a reporter that if Melbourne does not get the games, it would be virtually impossible for the current meeting to select another site.

The major object of the current meeting was to select a site. Brundage's remark seemed to point to the fact that Melbourne was such a certainty that no groundwork had been laid for selecting a substitute.

The Italian delegate yesterday said "Rome is ready" if Melbourne isn't selected. But Brundage said that no U. S. delegates had come prepared to make a bid, and that it would be unfair to study Rome's case alone.

Dick Irvin of the Detroit Red Wings in the NHL, is the oldest coach in professional hockey.

Will Televise Game For One Fan-Coach

Columbus, O., April 16 (AP)—Massillon High School's varsity-senior spring football game will be televised tomorrow night for a one-man audience—Coach Chuck Mather.

Chuck, whose football coaching tactics have more wrinkles than a cheap summer suit, has come up with a really new one this time.

He'll have a television camera atop the press box shooting the contest, and the camera will be wired only to a 21-inch set in front of Mather on the bench. He's erased the old adage that "the coach has the poorest seat on the field."

The Terrific Tigers are in quest of their sixth straight state scholastic championship, and Chuck believes his one-man television show will help achieve that goal.

The television set will use a wide-angle lens, showing the backfields and both lines at all times—instead of just the offensive backfield as most telecasts depict.

Montreal Can Clinch Stanley Cup Tonight

Montreal, April 16 (AP)—Armchair coaches and the experts agree that Coach Lynn Patrick's hopes of keeping Boston in the Stanley Cup hunt depend on whether he can get the Bruins "up" for their game against Montreal tonight.

The Canadiens need only to win tonight's game to take the Stanley Cup for the first time since 1946. They lead the best-of-seven final series, 3-1.

Even Patrick admits his team is in a serious slump.

If Boston wins tonight the next game of the series will be played in Boston Saturday afternoon. Boston Garden has been booked for a religious convention Saturday night and Sunday. A Saturday afternoon game will be something new for Stanley Cup play.

Dansville '5' Shoots 3,085 At Rochester

Rochester, N. Y., April 16 (AP)—The Red Tops team from Dansville took over the lead last night in the five-man team division of the New York State men's bowling tournament. The team scored a handicap total of 3,085 pins.

The Red Tops deposed the Kodak Park Athletic Association X-ray team of Rochester that had held the lead with a 3,070 handicap total.

Other division leaders were unchanged.

Melbourne Seen Sure For '56 Olympic Games

Mexico City, April 16 (AP)—With Melbourne apparently certain of getting the 1956 Olympic Games, the International Olympic Committee today was reported ready to turn to such matters as professionalism and size of participating squads.

Delegates in "don't-quote-me-but—" comments said yesterday that Melbourne seemed a cinch to be host to the next Olympics.

Avery Brundage, president of the IOC, indicated as much when he told a reporter that if Melbourne does not get the games, it would be virtually impossible for the current meeting to select another site.

The major object of the current meeting was to select a site. Brundage's remark seemed to point to the fact that Melbourne was such a certainty that no groundwork had been laid for selecting a substitute.

The Italian delegate yesterday said "Rome is ready" if Melbourne isn't selected. But Brundage said that no U. S. delegates had come prepared to make a bid, and that it would be unfair to study Rome's case alone.

Dick Irvin of the Detroit Red Wings in the NHL, is the oldest coach in professional hockey.

Will Televise Game For One Fan-Coach

Columbus, O., April 16 (AP)—Massillon High School's varsity-senior spring football game will be televised tomorrow night for a one-man audience—Coach Chuck Mather.

Chuck, whose football coaching tactics have more wrinkles than a cheap summer suit, has come up with a really new one this time.

He'll have a television camera atop the press box shooting the contest, and the camera will be wired only to a 21-inch set in front of Mather on the bench. He's erased the old adage that "the coach has the poorest seat on the field."

The Terrific Tigers are in quest of their sixth straight state scholastic championship, and Chuck believes his one-man television show will help achieve that goal.

The television set will use a wide-angle lens, showing the backfields and both lines at all times—instead of just the offensive backfield as most telecasts depict.

Montreal Can Clinch Stanley Cup Tonight

Montreal, April 16 (AP)—Armchair coaches and the experts agree that Coach Lynn Patrick's hopes of keeping Boston in the Stanley Cup hunt depend on whether he can get the Bruins "up" for their game against Montreal tonight.

The Canadiens need only to win tonight's game to take the Stanley Cup for the first time since 1946. They lead the best-of-seven final series, 3-1.

Even Patrick admits his team is in a serious slump.

If Boston wins tonight the next game of the series will be played in Boston Saturday afternoon. Boston Garden has been booked for a religious convention Saturday night and Sunday. A Saturday afternoon game will be something new for Stanley Cup play.

New York, April 16 (AP) — Although they couldn't win their division title, the Boston Celtics placed two players on the National Basketball Association's All-Star team.

Easy Ed McCauley and Bob Cousy were the members of the Celtics selected by a vote of sports writers and sportcasters in the NBA cities.

Cousy, in addition, led the balloting and missed being the only unanimous choice by one ballot.

The other members of the team are George Mikan of the champion Minneapolis Lakers, Adolph Schayes of the Syracuse Nationals and Neil Johnson of the Philadelpia Warriors.

Each player on the team will receive $200 from the league.

By AL McCLANE
Fishing Editor

In North Carolina, the fish-management boys have developed a new feeding program, so that the state is now producing two pounds of hatchery trout for what it cost to raise one pound three years ago. They are growing 9 to 10-inch trout in 15 months, instead of two years.

In Utah, the high cost of feed and the disappearance of horse meat got the experts hopping, and they came up with a process for the utilization of trash fish such as carp and chubs mixed in trout feeds.

New Hampshire is getting more and better brood stock by using artificial daylight. It's no news to chicken farmers, but the fish boys discovered that if they gave the parent trout a longer "day" early in the winter by the use of electric lights over the hatchery, they could shorten the daylight come summer and thus simulate fall.

Light is one of the determining factors in spawning, and being fall spawners the trout developed their eggs by August — because they think it's October. New York state is stepping up its salmon program, trying to establish new waters for landlocked salmon and Pacific sockeye. Most of this work is top secret.

One of our readers wants to know about flies for salt-water fishing. I can sum that up in a hurry. Most of the commercially tied flies are no good. They're too big, over-feathered and too colorful. The smart-money boys are buying No. 6 and No. 8 bucktails, sparsely dressed, and in plain colors.

A white or yellow fly for casting over sea grass and a two-color black and white fly for casting over bright sand are all you need. Bucktail is more durable than feather wings, and, incidentally, it casts easier. There's no reason why salt-water fly fishing shouldn't be more refined—smaller flies, lighter lines, and more sensitive rods.

Daylight and Nightlife

By AL McCLANE
Fishing Editor

In North Carolina, the fish-management boys have developed a new feeding program, so that the state is now producing two pounds of hatchery trout for what it cost to raise one pound three years ago. They are growing 9 to 10-inch trout in 15 months, instead of two years.

In Utah, the high cost of feed and the disappearance of horse meat got the experts hopping, and they came up with a process for the utilization of trash fish such as carp and chubs mixed in trout feeds.

New Hampshire is getting more and better brood stock by using artificial daylight. It's no news to chicken farmers, but the fish boys discovered that if they gave the parent trout a longer "day" early in the winter by the use of electric lights over the hatchery, they could shorten the daylight come summer and thus simulate fall.

Light is one of the determining factors in spawning, and being fall spawners the trout developed their eggs by August — because they think it's October. New York state is stepping up its salmon program, trying to establish new waters for landlocked salmon and Pacific sockeye. Most of this work is top secret.

One of our readers wants to know about flies for salt-water fishing. I can sum that up in a hurry. Most of the commercially tied flies are no good. They're too big, over-feathered and too colorful. The smart-money boys are buying No. 6 and No. 8 bucktails, sparsely dressed, and in plain colors.

A white or yellow fly for casting over sea grass and a two-color black and white fly for casting over bright sand are all you need. Bucktail is more durable than feather wings, and, incidentally, it casts easier. There's no reason why salt-water fly fishing shouldn't be more refined—smaller flies, lighter lines, and more sensitive rods.

MembershipParley Called April 22 by Commerce Group

A special Chamber of Commerce membership meeting has been called for 8 o'clock, Wednesday evening, April 22. It will be held in the grand jury room of the county court house on Wall street. President Adrian Kaplan stated that several proposed amendments to the by-laws will be presented and several committee chairmen will make reports. Notices are being mailed today.

Committee reports of special interest will be made by James L. Rowe, Chairman of the Kingston-Rhinecliff bridge committee and by Herbert C. Myers, chairman of the arterial route traffic committee. It is rumored that both chairmen will have reports of special importance to the future progress of Kingston.

A representative of the Kingston Industrial Development Corporation has been invited to give a complete report of progress to date. Officers of this newly formed corporation will be elected Monday night.

Full Attendance Asked

Maynard Mizel, a vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce will preside at the membership meeting next Wednesday night in the absence of President Adrian Kaplan. A large attendance of chamber members and prospective members is urged because of the importance of the projects currently being supported and advocated. Ample time for discussion will be permitted after the various committee reports are rendered.

Among the changes in the by-laws being recommended to the membership is the establishment of an annual business meeting during the month of April, in addition to the annual banquet, at which no business is transacted. The special meeting next Wednesday will be the first of the proposed annual business sessions.

Will Read Budget

Elmer A. Rylance, treasurer of the chamber and chairman of the 1953-54 budget committee will present the proposed budget. George Silkworth, chairman of the membership committee will present plans for the campaign. The final budget to be adopted for 1953-54 by the board of directors will depend upon the results of the membership campaign.

In addition to the reports by various committee chairmen, Albert Kurdt, executive secretary of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce will present his annual report to the membership. Before leaving on a brief vacation trip President Kaplan expressed the hope that there would be a large attendance at the membership meeting on April 22 and that still more members would take an active part in chamber activities.

Ryan Back at Agency

Morgan D. Ryan, who recently resigned as personnel manager for Electrol, Inc., started his duties today as state veterans counselor attached to the Ulster County Veterans Service Agency, 32 Main street, it was announced by Howard C. Shurter, director. Ryan was employed as veterans counselor for five years prior to 1951, when he was appointed Electrol personnel manager.

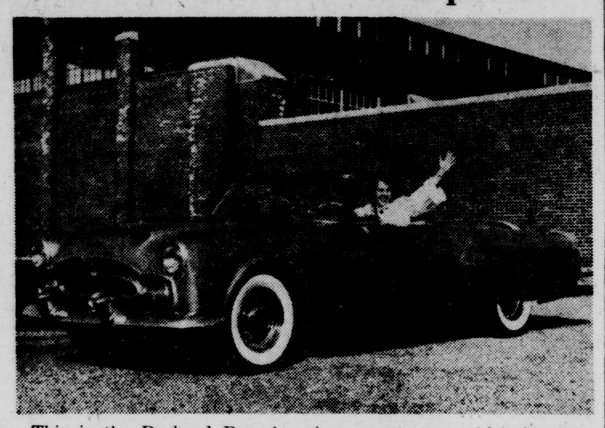
Prize Packard at Lions Exposition



This is the Packard Pan American sports car which has won styling awards from coast to coast and was a winner of the Gold Trophy in international competition at Brussels, Belgium, where it was shown with the finest automotive products of America and Europe.

Miss Patricia Yerry, daughter of Carl Yerry, salesman for the Packard-Kingston Co., Inc., 9 East O'Reilly street, poses in the trophy winner, which is on exhibition at the Kingston Lions Club exposition and auto show at the state armory, Manor avenue.

This year Packard has returned to the production of luxury cars, the local agency has announced. The Pan American was the first. These will all be custom built cars in the finest tradition of Packard engineering.

The Pan American not only won the Gold Trophy at Brussels, it has won awards for distinctive styling and engineering at the Los Angeles Motorama and the New York International Motor Sports Show. This is not for sale. It was built for marketing tests to determine the acceptability of luxury sports cars to the American public.

Snow, Rain, Winds Whip Lakes and Plains

(By The Associated Press)

Blustery weather, with a mixture of snow and rain and strong winds, whipped over the Great Lakes region and northern plains today. It was below freezing in many areas.

The mid-April storm headed into the eastern part of the country. There were showers along the leading edge of the cold air from Virginia to the gulf. Rain was in prospect for wide sections of the eastern states today.

The freezing belt early today extended southwestward from eastern Lake Superior through central Wisconsin, eastern Iowa, northern Missouri and westward through Kansas and northwest along the Rocky Mountains. One of the coldest spots was Minot, N. D., with 11 above zero.

Warmer weather developed in the Rocky Mountain region and westward to the Pacific coast. Mild weather continued in the far southwest. The nation's top reading yesterday was 97 at Corpus Christi, Tex.

U. S. Defense Secretary To Visit Behind Curtain

Berlin, April 16 (AP)—U. S. Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson will visit this western outpost behind the Iron Curtain next Saturday on his tour of American military installations abroad, army authorities announced today.

Wilson will fly here Saturday morning from Frankfurt, confer with U. S. officials and inspect American installations here, then fly back to Frankfurt Saturday afternoon.

Wilson will also attend the NATO Council meeting in Paris beginning April 23.

Wilson and his party conferred today in Wiesbaden with U. S. Air Force officials, then flew to Landstuhl to inspect U. S. air bases there and at nearby Bitburg. He was accompanied by NATO Commander Matthew B. Ridgway and Lt. Gen. Charles Bolte, commander of the U. S. Army in Europe.

Fireman Comes to Rescue

Niagara Falls, Ont., April 16 (AP)—Even a bird can get all wrapped up in home-building. A robin became helplessly entangled in string yesterday while building his nest on a tree limb 60 feet above the ground. Fireman Frank Armstrong scaled a ladder to set the bird free.

Ancient machines for throwing projecticles were so effective that they continued in use long after the first crude eannon appeared.

Army Cuts Down Draft Requirement

Washington, April 16 (AP)—The army is cutting down its draft requirements for June—32,000 men compared with the 53,000 quota for each of the preceding four months.

The lower quota, set yesterday, was anticipated. The Defense Department had said the higher draft calls in the early part of this year were occasioned by the release of large numbers of men called in during the first months of the Korean conflict. MembershipParley Called April 22 by Commerce Group

A special Chamber of Commerce membership meeting has been called for 8 o'clock, Wednesday evening, April 22. It will be held in the grand jury room of the county court house on Wall street. President Adrian Kaplan stated that several proposed amendments to the by-laws will be presented and several committee chairmen will make reports. Notices are being mailed today.

Committee reports of special interest will be made by James L. Rowe, Chairman of the Kingston-Rhinecliff bridge committee and by Herbert C. Myers, chairman of the arterial route traffic committee. It is rumored that both chairmen will have reports of special importance to the future progress of Kingston.

A representative of the Kingston Industrial Development Corporation has been invited to give a complete report of progress to date. Officers of this newly formed corporation will be elected Monday night.

Full Attendance Asked

Maynard Mizel, a vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce will preside at the membership meeting next Wednesday night in the absence of President Adrian Kaplan. A large attendance of chamber members and prospective members is urged because of the importance of the projects currently being supported and advocated. Ample time for discussion will be permitted after the various committee reports are rendered.

Among the changes in the by-laws being recommended to the membership is the establishment of an annual business meeting during the month of April, in addition to the annual banquet, at which no business is transacted. The special meeting next Wednesday will be the first of the proposed annual business sessions.

Will Read Budget

Elmer A. Rylance, treasurer of the chamber and chairman of the 1953-54 budget committee will present the proposed budget. George Silkworth, chairman of the membership committee will present plans for the campaign. The final budget to be adopted for 1953-54 by the board of directors will depend upon the results of the membership campaign.

In addition to the reports by various committee chairmen, Albert Kurdt, executive secretary of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce will present his annual report to the membership. Before leaving on a brief vacation trip President Kaplan expressed the hope that there would be a large attendance at the membership meeting on April 22 and that still more members would take an active part in chamber activities.
